University Opens Modern Filter Plant

Expandable Plant Is Built To Handle 3,000,000 Gallons Of Water Each Day

By Glenn Harden

The end of Chapel Hill's water worries was foreseen yesterday by J. H. Bennett, director of operations for the University, as he announced the opening of a modern filter plant. The plant, built "like an accordion," will never be too small for the community and University needs, Bennett said.

Now able to handle 3,000,000 gallons of water a day, the new plant is a definite improvement over the old plant behind Phillips Hall, which took care of 1,300,000 gallons daily. The old reservoir at present stores 300,000 gallons, while the new one, beside the new plant, will store 1,500,000.

But no matter how big Chapel Hill, or the University, may grow, no recurrence of the shortage of 1948 is foreseen, since the new plant is designed in sections, so that it may be enlarged at any or all of the steps in filtration, Bennett said.

University Lake is the source for water for the community, and when the modern plant opens for business the first of May, it will filter, clarify and sterilize water from the lake.

The new plant, designed by W. C. Olsen, consulting engineer of Raleigh, and built by A. H. Guilone of Charlotte, is located one-half mile west of Canbow, between Carboro and University Lake. New shrubs are being planted around the functionally designed building.

The old building is to be turned over to the Department of Public Health, which will use the upstairs for classrooms. The art department wants the downstairs, Bennett said, for work in plastics. "Those art people are so messy," Bennett sighed inconclusively.

Firemen Nix Mail Trains

CHICAGO, April 21 — (AP) — Railroad firemen, posed to strike Wednesday on four big rail systems, were instructed today to handle troop, hospital and milk trains but to shun mail trains.

"So far as your legal right to strike is concerned, there is no difference between a mail train and any other train," the firemen were told by D. B. Robertson of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Theft

Theft of $80 from the Chi Psi Lodge on Cameron Avenue was reported to the police department yesterday.

The money was stolen from the belongings of eight boys on the second and third floors of the lodge, and was believed to have been taken about 5:30 Thursday.

Salem School Will Install New Prexy

WINSTON-SALEM, April 21 — (AP) — Dr. Hale H. Gramley, Pennsylvania native, editor and educator, will be formally installed at 11 o'clock tomorrow as the 13th president of Salem Academy and College.

Bishop J. Kenneth Prohl, chairman of the board of trustees, will give the charge to the new president and formally declare him installed.

This will be the first formal installation of a president in the Moravian institution's 178-year history. Dr. Gramley succeeds Bishop Howard E. Rondthaler, who retired a year ago after 40 years as head of the college and academy.

More than 200 universities, colleges, preparatory schools, junior colleges and learned and honorary societies will be represented in the ceremonies honoring Dr. Gramley tomorrow.

More than 2,000 persons, college authorities say, have also been invited for the activities of the day. Among the special guests will be Gordon Gray, president-elect of the University of North Carolina and former Secretary of the Army, and Frank P. Graham, junior senator from this state and former president of the university.

Among the other activities which will mark the installation of Dr. Gramley will be a luncheon for the academic procession at Corrin Refectory at 1 o'clock, at which Senator Graham will speak, and the laying of the cornerstone of the college's new science building on upper campus at 3 o'clock.

Summer Jobs Available Says Placement Office

The Colonial Stores in North Carolina are looking for sophomores and juniors for summer jobs, J. M. Galloway of the University Placement Service said yesterday.

George Ryder, personnel manager of the chain of grocery stores, said that he wants only those students who are interested in going into the grocery store business after graduation. According to a plan devised by Ryder, if a student who works for a Colonial Store during the summer does satisfactory work, when he graduates he will be able to work toward store management.

Ryder will be on the campus April 26, and anyone interested in talking with him should contact the Placement Service, 209 South Building before that time.

The Owens Illinois Glass Company has a similar program, but theirs is only for marketing students.

Testifies Maragon Received $3,893.87

WASHINGTON, April 21 — (AP) — The government presented witnesses at John Maragon's perjury trial today who testified that he received $3,000 in fees and $893.87 in expenses from a Chicago perfume company while he was on the State Department payroll.

Frosh, Sophs Slate Dance For Tonight

Woollen Gymnasium will be the setting tonight for the Freshman-Sophomore informal dance. Johnny Satterfield and his orchestra will play from 8:30 until 11:30 for the students and their dates.

The girls from Woman's College will arrive at Graham Memorial at eight o'clock. The college postponed a scheduled dance in order to fill the invitations from Carolina.

Archie Myatt, president of the sophomore class, said, "This dance will promote a better spirit between our two classes." The dance was made possible through a pooling of student budget funds, Myatt said.

"Tickets for the dance will be sold at the door for those who have not purchased them."

The dance is one of several freshman activities recently undertaken. A newspaper, published yesterday, is the class' latest achievement. Gene Oberdorffer of Atlanta edited the publication. It included a roundup of all activities in which freshman participate.

Technicolor Movie Of UNC Underway

Motion Picture Division Of Swain Under Ed Freed To Produce Film

By Louise Walker

A technicolor film on the life, activities, students and significance of the University is now undergoing production by the motion picture division of the Communications Center.

Ed Freed, head of the division, is in charge of production, with assistance from Ross Scroggs and Mack Preslar on sound track technicalities.

The University as it appears at all seasons of the year will be photographed, Freed said. Spring sports, swimming parties, football and basketball are among the phases of the University to be shown.

Cameramen perched atop convertibles have been "shooting" spring at Carolina for the last several days, recording on film the cherry and dogwood trees in bloom and campus buildings framed by the first green of the season.

In addition to emphasis on the campus, Chapel Hill—its points of interest—and its townspeople will come in for their share of filming.

When completed, the film will run approximately 40 minutes, Freed said, and will be shown throughout the state so that North Carolinians may view their state university.

The film, being made at the request of the University, is not the only project the motion picture division has undertaken. Recently completed was a Community Chest film entitled "My Name is Durham," and under production now is a movie showing operational techniques for the Medical School.

The new State Grand Master also headed the North Carolina Archaeological Society in 1934 and this year was elected a vice-president of the Archaeological Institute of America.

Five Years Can Make A Difference

Ex-German Lieutenant Student Here, Freedom Of Students Pleases Most

Five years can make a lot of difference sometimes, as Ernst Feistle, special student in the City Planning Department, could have told you last weekend in Kenan Stadium.

Feistle, who won a certificate for a pitcher of beer at a local restaurant as one of the door prizes awarded at the Sigma Chi Derby Friday, was greeted with spontaneous applause from the student audience as he told Master of Ceremonies Norm Sper that he was from Munich, Germany.

One of a group of ten German students doing special study in City Planning under the sponsorship of the United States State Department, Feistle remembers all too well the month of May, 1945.

Germany had surrendered and as a lieutenant in the German army he was taken prisoner by Russian troops in Northern Germany. He managed to escape after only a few hours and made his way home after many hours of exposure and hunger in the forests of Northern Germany.

Once he had made his way back to Munich after his escape from the Russians in 1945, Feistle said he found the summer just after the surrender "very bad."

He had graduated from Munich Technical School and was working as an independent archi-

Edit Writers To Meet Here For Conclave

Group Discussion To Be Attended By Editorialists

The North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference for daily newspapers, authorized by the North Carolina Press Association, will be held at Chapel Hill on Monday, May 15, it was announced here yesterday by the conference committee.

The committee is composed of William T. Polk, associate editor, Greensboro Daily News, chairman; Editor John A. Park, Raleigh Times, and Editor Holt McPerson, Shelby Star.

There will be a luncheon at 12:30 and an afternoon meeting at the Carolina Inn.

Editorial pages of the participating papers, with special emphasis on techniques of editorial writing, will be discussed, analyzed and criticized. The procedure will be similar to that which has proved successful at the meetings of the National Conference of Editorial Writers.

Discussion leaders will be Profs. O. J. Coffin and Phillips Russell of Chapel Hill; Editor C. A. McNight of the Charlotte News, and Associate Editor Pete Ivey of the Winston-Salem Sentinel.

Rufus Terral, editor of The Masthead and editorial writer on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has tentatively accepted a place on the program.

The editorial pages under discussion will be those of Tuesday and Wednesday, April 18-19.

Kimerling Elected Hillel Group Prexy

Sol Kimerling, junior from Birmingham, Alabama, was elected president of Hillel Foundation over Jay Joseph, it was announced yesterday.

Joe Arnold, freshman from Atlanta, was elected secretary and Paul Kaplan, freshman from Durham, treasurer.

Dick Schwartz and Ted Frankel will be in the run-off for vice-presidency on Tuesday.

Harold Meyer Selected To Direct Workshop

Special to The Daily Tar Heel BOULDER, Col., April 21 — Dr. Harold Meyer, University of North Carolina sociology professor and expert on recreation, will head an outstanding recreation workshop in the Rocky Mountains this summer, it was announced today by Ralph Prator, director of the 1950 University of Colorado summer session.

Dr. Meyer will direct a five-week recreation leadership workshop on the University campus from July 25-August 25. Staffed by national recreation leaders, the workshop will bring recreation workers, coaches, teachers, youth, church, and rural leaders up to date in recreation programs, philosophy, and administration.

Taking advantage of the Western setting, the workshop will emphasize Western square dancing, round dancing, and crafts, as well as community recreation programs, administration, and other fields. Two specialists from the National Recreation Association, Frank A. Staples and Mrs. Anne Livingston, and a Denver square-dance expert, Paul Kermit, will assist Dr. Meyer.

Meyer is a director of the North Carolina recreation commission and is on the editorial board of "Youth Leaders' Digest" and "Social Activities," two leading publications in the recreation field.

Radio Broadcasts From Swain Start Monday, 'WNCU'

To Have Hour And Half On WDNC-FM Monday-Friday; Hobgood Is Manager

By M. K. Jones

The Carolina Communications Center and the radio department will institute the first regular radio programming from the University, Bailey Hobgood, station manager said yesterday.

Psychology Is Valuable, Says Photog

Nowhere is applied psychology more valuable than in press photography, Alfred DeLardi, photographer for Holiday Magazine, told 135 photographers from all sections of the South at yesterday's sessions of the first Southern Short Course in Press Photography.

The Institute is being sponsored by the Carolinas Photographers Association.

"It's nothing but common sense, and you may think I'm

Frank J. Scherschel, noted Life Magazine photographer, will give a public lecture demonstration in Memorial Hall from 3:10 until 4:40 this afternoon in conjunction with the Southern Short Course in Photography now being held here.

Scherchel, whose pictures have been widely reproduced, joined Life in 1942 as a war photographer.

insulting your intelligence to devote time to the topic, but it's surprising how many press photographers fail to get the best results with their subjects just because they make the wrong approach," said DeLardi, who has photographed hundreds of celebrities and (See PHOTOGS, page 4)

The program, broadcast from Swain Hall, will be over WDNC-FM in Durham from 4:30 to 6 o'clock Monday through Friday. These broadcasts may be received only on FM at 105.1 Megs. The station will be called WNCU by the students, but as yet has no official name has been designated because of the absence of a transmitter here.

The productions will be written, produced, and announced by members of the radio classes. The programs will be fed by wire to WDNC-FM in Durham.

From 4:30 to 4:55 there will be a program of recorded popular music, called "Music For You." From 4:55 to 5 o'clock a program of news and sports of local interest will be presented. "Concert Matinee," a program of classical music from 5 until 5:30. The remainder of the program will be semi-classical selections named "Intermezzo." One dramatic show will be broadcast each week.

Buddy Vaden is assistant manager of the student station.

Bill Sanders is chairman of the program committee which originates and prepares the program. Bill Melson is in charge of production, Jack Burney of engineering, and Mark Barker is publicity chairman.

The idea of a student broadcast originated over a year ago when the need of practical experience was realized by the radio Department. Frank Jarman, manager of WDNC, offered to give the department time on his FM hookup.

The purposes of the plan are three-fold, Hobgood explained. "The first is to give the students actual experience in writing and producing radio plays," he said. "The second is to eventually have a complete radio station here. The third is to provide publicity for the University."

FM sets have been gaining popularity because of the better reception and superior programs, he asserted. The sets in Durham have doubled in number since January of this year, according to Hobgood.

Mild Weather Blankets U.S.

By The Associated Press

Temperatures warmed to near seasonal normals for almost all of the nation Friday. Upper Michigan, with afternoon readings near 40, was about the chilliest section.

Spring floods were still a problem—or a threat.

A few widely spotted and brief snow flurries dotted the weather map, with other equally scattered spots reporting showers.

Lost Records

The Student Entertainment Committee made $750 at the Jan Peerce concert Thursday night, but got in dutch with Graham Memorial and are asking students to help out.

Some albums of records owned by the student union used to entertain the audience before Peerce began his program were picked up backstage by someone immediately after the concert, and Chairman Dick Allbrook asked yesterday that anyone knowing the whereabouts of the music please contact him at the ATO house, or bring them to the GM office.
