

Student Government Officers Honored At Banquet Tonight

Frank Graham Inaugural Affair To Hear Talk By Duke Professor; 100 Expected

The Frank Porter Graham Student Government Inaugural Banquet—in honor of newly-elected campus officials—will be held in the Carolina Inn Ballroom tonight at 6 o'clock.

Over 100 guests and officers are expected to attend the second annual banquet. Senator Graham will not be present, being in Charlotte for a political speech. Featured speaker at the affair will be Dr. Waldo Beach, Dr. Beach, a professor in the Duke University School of Divinity, will talk on "Leadership." He will be introduced by new student president John Sanders.

The program will begin with the invocation by Allen Mill-edge. Afterwards, immediate past president Bill Mackie will deliver a welcoming address.

Trish Sanford, former speaker of the Coed Senate, will introduce the new coed officers, while Mackie will present the new student government officials.

Officers and representatives from many organizations which do not elect officials in campus elections are included in the large guest list.

All students elected in April's general election have been invited.

On hand for the affair will be all officers of student government, ranging from student body president John Sanders to appointive members of executive boards.

The banquet is the first to be held under the Frank Graham Inaugural title. An informal banquet was held last year, setting the precedent for the now-annual affair. The banquet was made official, and the name adopted, by the Student Legislature last fall.

Arrangements for the banquet were handled by a committee headed by former president Bill Mackie.

IN COSTUME, and looking mighty good, is Doris Fowler, who plays the lead of 'Cindy' in the Koch Memorial Fund Playmaker production of 'Spring For Sure.' The play, to be presented in the Forest Theater on May 4-7, will donate proceeds to the fund established in honor of the late head of the Playmakers. Tickets are on sale at Ledbetter-Pickards.

Dorm Representation Is Installed By UP

Roth Is Elected New Debater Head

Council Names Hutchinson, Stallings, Mitchell To Other Posts; Cites Aims

Paul Roth, junior from Asheville, took over yesterday as new chairman of the Debate Council after election of officers at a Tuesday night meeting.

Roth is a junior pre-law major from Asheville, and has served as a member of the varsity debate squad for two years. He was named outstanding speaker at the National Intercollegiate Tournament in Boston.

Bob Hutchinson of Rockingham, also a two-year veteran of the Carolina debating program, was named vice-chairman of the Council.

Carolina Stallings, junior from Concord and a member of the first woman's debate squad to operate from here since the war, was elected executive secretary. Veteran debater Herb Mitchell of Asheville was chosen as holdover member of the Council.

Outgoing officers are chairman, Dave Pittman; vice-chairman, Mitchell; executive secretary, Hutchinson; and holdover member Hershell Keener.

Roth said the Council would strive for more participation and a broadening of the Carolina debate program in the coming year, including a better intramural program, more on-campus debates and larger turnouts at debate tryouts.

Roth said all interested students should get in touch with him at the Pi Lambda Phi house in Fraternity Court.

The Debate Council will operate from its $3500 surplus for the coming year and an extended travel program has been scheduled for the 1950-51 season. Student Legislature directed the Council to utilize its surplus for the coming year.

Taylor Vaden Is Recommended For PB Post

Party Chairman States New Aims For Dormitory Men

The University Party yesterday put its long-delayed dormitory representation plan into effect as it elected the first group of dormitory men to seats on its steering committee.

At the same time, the party nominated Taylor "Buddy" Vaden to fill a vacancy on the Publications Board by recommendation to the president of the student body. Vaden, former sports editor of The Daily Tar Heel, is at present serving as clerk of the Men's Council and assistant manager of the Communications Center campus radio station.

Vaden was named by acclamation to fill the empty senior seat on the publications financial control body.

On the dorm representation plan, UP Chairman Paul Roth said yesterday that the University Party "has always felt that active members of a political group should represent more than just themselves as individuals."

Roth said the UP policy has always been to permit any organization of 25 or more members to send a representative to the steering committee.

"The party up to now has been composed mostly of fraternity and sorority representatives," Roth continued, "but through the dormitory representation plan the UP will succeed in its goal of developing into a true representative cross-section of student opinion in the steering committee in order to bring better student government to every student on the campus."

The dorm representatives elected to the committee were:

Men's Dorm District 1: John Poindexter of Aycock, representative; Men's Dorm 3: Ralph Craver of Alexander, representative; Phillip Burkhalter of Alexander, alternate; Men's Dorm 4: John Flood of Old East, representative; Jim Steagall of Old East, alternate.

Roth said the other dorm representatives, including representatives and alternates Men's Dorm 2 and 5, Women's Dorm 1 and 2, and an alternate from Men's Dorm-1, will be chosen within the next two weeks. Interested persons should see Roth or Howard Fogleman at the Kappa Alpha house.

The steering committee postponed election of new party officers until next week.

A senior, Vaden is a Radio major and gives a 5 minute sports broadcast over the Chapel Hill Station every afternoon at 1:15. He served on the sports staff of the Tar Heel for the past 3 years and also worked for Sports Publicity Director Jake Wade.

Tripp Named

Jack Tripp, graduate student from Henderson, will be the new member of the Men's Honor Council if the Student Legislature approves his appointment.

The Bi-Partisan Selection Board yesterday recommended Tripp to president John Saunders to fill the graduate seat on the council vacated by Pete Gerns. Sanders in turn appointed Tripp.

The Council will meet this afternoon to elect officers for the coming year.

Orientation Meet Sets Plans For Fall Program

By Rolfe Neill

The joint student-faculty Orientation Committee in a meeting yesterday afternoon pieced together the framework for the fall program, setting Saturday, September 16, as the first day for instruction.

Men's Orientation Chairman, issued a call for those desiring to act as counselors to submit applications to the student government office today. He set Tuesday as the deadline for entering applications.

Applications should include the name, address, qualifications, and number of orientation meetings attended. The last of the three meetings will be held Monday night, according to Prince. He said interviewing will start Tuesday by invitation of the committee.

The meeting was attended by faculty members Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael, Dean of General College C. P. Spruill, Dean of Students Bill Friday, Charlie Bernard of the Admissions Office, and Ray Jeffries of women's orientation, and Prince.

A reception by the Chancellor, long a feature of the program, brought much discussion. It was pointed out that due to the large numbers of students attending, confusion usually resulted. It was decided to split the group of incoming students, having two receptions.

Approximately 1,000 freshmen will be the guests of Chancellor and Mrs. Robert B. House on Saturday afternoon. Transfer students, including both men and women and numbering about 600 will attend a Chancellor's reception on Sunday afternoon.

Prince said the weekly assemblies will also be held this year along the line of those of last fall's program. Also on tap for the new students are two mass assemblies on Saturday and Sunday nights. A welcoming meeting headed by University officials will be held Saturday night, with student government officers conducting Sunday night's program.

Appointed by student body president John Sanders, Prince, along with his committee members, must be approved by the Student Legislature.

Sanders' appointments to the committee are J. K. Richardson, Dub Graham, Ken Barton, Jack Tripp, Bill Roth, Bobbe Whipple, Herb Mitchell Dot Mannue, Peggy Wood, Jim Alexander, Peggy Warren, John Hazelhurst, Bob Payne, and George Moore.

The function of the Orientation Committee is to organize a program for the fall which will familiarize the incoming students with the University and the campus.

Radio Schedule

The Harmonizers and an interview with Conrad Bromberg highlight today's radio listening over the University's radio station broadcasting from WDNC-FM at 105.1 Megs., channel 285. Music For You goes on the air at 4:30 for half an hour followed at 4:55 by Feature Edition; an interview with Conrad Bromberg, actor and director. Concert music will be presented at 5 o'clock and at 5:30 Intermezzo. The Harmonizers conclude the broadcast with a show from 5:45 to 6 o'clock. Broadcasts may be heard in Lenoir Hall and Graham Memorial.

High School Debate Team Here Today

Twelve high school debating teams from 12 schools, each team a district champion on the affirmative or negative, will enter the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup at the University of North Carolina today.

A general meeting of all debaters and coaches will be held at 2:30 in Gerrard Hall. Welcome will be extended by Dean E. L. Mackie of the University and by representatives of the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Assembly. Drawings will be held for sections and pairings in the preliminaries.

The preliminaries will be held at 7 o'clock, the semifinals will begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the final debate is scheduled for 3 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

The query for discussion this year is: "Resolved, That the President of the United States should be elected by the direct vote of the people."

The 12 schools and their respective debaters are:

Appalachian high school of Boone, represented by Miss Joanne Aldridge and Miss Jo Ann Hardin, on the affirmative; Hanes high school, Winston-Salem, Miss Melba Beck and Frank Hargrove, affirmative; Oxford high, Miss Edith Ashley and Miss Lila Haney, affirmative; Reynolds of Winston-Salem, John Peddycoard and Charles Rodenbough, affirmative; and Wadesboro high, Joe Burroughs and Fred Allen, affirmative.

Brevard high, represented by Bruce McGuire and Miss Mary Ellen Short, negative; (See DEBATERS, page 4)

Alumni Meet Scheduled Here Today

Program events for the annual University North Carolina alumni assembly, to be held here today, were announced yesterday by the alumni office.

Representatives of some 60 local alumni associations and more than 50 alumni class organizations will join in a full day's program with officers and directors of the general alumni association. The assembly is the annual business meeting of the Association.

Acting President W. D. Carmichael, Jr. and Chancellor R.B. House will be featured speakers at a dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock in the Morehead building. Chancellor House will speak on "Highlights in the University Year," while Carmichael will discuss "Alumni as Public Relations Partners of the University."

A discussion of "Projects in Progress" will bring together a panel with officers of several foundations discussing their programs, including the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation, and the Pharmaceutical Research Foundation.

Donahue To Play For May 6 Dance

Sam Donahue and his orchestra will play for a dance in Woolen Gym May 6 which will be held exclusively for men living in dormitories.

The dance, which will be sponsored by the Interdormitory Council, will be the first of its kind since the war.

The dance will be semi-formal and will last from 9 to 12 o'clock. It will be preceded in the afternoon by a concert lasting from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Funds taken from the social fee paid by each dormitory resident as a part of his rent will pay for the dance. Only dormitory men will be invited to it.

Although the social fee is collected each year, this is the first time in several years it has been used for a dance. This will also mark the first year that the Interdormitory Council has had a name band play for the dance.

Men who are eligible to attend the dance may obtain tickets from their dorm advisers or from their dorm presidents. Admission will be free.

The new officers of Interdormitory Council are president, Sid Turner from Durham, and vice president, Bob Creed from Fayetteville. Turner, a senior, has served as vice president of the group this year.

Members of the Council expressed their hopes that the affair would draw a large crowd. If the dance proves popular it will lend encouragement for more such dormitory social events in the future.

Phi Debates On Battle Over Senate

One of the most heated debates in the past several years took place in the Philanthropic Assembly Tuesday night when supporters for the three major candidates for the United States Senate from North Carolina clashed on the vital issues of the campaign, the clerk said yesterday.

Russell Johnson, who is directing the state organization of the Robert Reynolds for Senator clubs, lambasted Reynolds' opponents and called for the Assembly's support for Reynolds, "the Messiah from the hills of Western North Carolina."

Graham Jones, avoiding the charges made by Johnson, gave strong support to Senator Graham, saying that "ethics in government and Christianity in everyday life have not yet been replaced by muddy politics." Eormer Phi Speakers David Sharpe and John Giles also gave the former University of North Carolina president high praise.

New Medical Building Doing Fine; Set For Completion In April, '51

By Charlie Brewer

"Construction on the new medical clinic and hospital should be back on schedule by May 15," said W. H. McWhirter, general superintendent for J. A. Jones contractors yesterday.

The superintendent spoke enthusiastically of the expansion project which was begun October 15, 1949 and is scheduled for completion in April, 1951.

At present there are four contract holders engaged in the work. J. A. Jones has the general contractor bid, Crutchfield Plumbing Company, plumbing, Rolls-Walsh-Jones, the heating contract and Colter-Chappell is handling electrical work.

McWhirter explained that there are two divisions in the building, the upper part extending from the present medical school to the infirmary will be the medical clinic, and the remaining structure further back will be the new hospital.

"All structural steel is on the lot," said the superintendent, "about 12,000 tons. The steel has been set for the clinic and two floors of concrete poured."

"The clinic is to be four stories high, with possibly a fifth to be added for cancer ward, and the hospital eight stories. The construction will be brick and limestone with cinder block backing.

"Brick work will begin on the first of May," he said.

"There are about 150 workers on the job at present," said Mc-

Whirter, "and we will probably have openings for student laborers during the summer."

Office manager C. N. Councilman said that original plans call for 31,000 cubic yards of excavation, and that 1500 cubic yards of concrete are buried underground for footings.

Work is also under way on the retaining walls for the three drive parking area between Wilson building and the medical school. Wrenn-Wilson Construction Company of Durham is contractor for this project.

"We enjoy having students come by to see our progress, and appreciate the interest shown by them in our work," said job supervisor B. C. Horne.

NCCPA Meet Starts Today

All three University publications will be presented at the annual North Carolina Collegiate Press Association convention which opens today in Greensboro.

Yaekety - Yaek Editor Jim Mills, Tarnation Editor Herb Nachman and Daily Tar Heel Managing Editor Roy Parker, Jr., will be on hand as college journalists from all over North Carolina converge for the three-day affair.

Big event of the conclave is the presentation of awards for excellence in all types of writing and makeup. More than a dozen staff members of the three campus publications have works entered in the contest. Last year, UNC publications won six of the awards.
