Eight Named In Sanders' Appointments

Eight students were yesterday appointed to campus offices by president John Sanders. The appointments are subject to Student Legislature approval.

Taylor (Buddy) Vaden, clerk of the Men's Honor Council, was chosen to fill the Publications Board seat of retiring chairman Chuck Hauser.

Don VanNoppen, Ted Leonard, and Tom Sully were named to positions of Carolina representatives on the Greater University of North Carolina Student Council. VanNoppen is president of the Student Legislature.

Bob Evans was selected as member-at-large on the Carolina Forum, Sol Cherry to replace H. B. Glover as representative from Dorm Men's District III, and Anne Brewer and Curtis Ratledge to the Budget Committee.

All of the appointments are subject to approval by the Student Legislature, which will meet tomorrow night. Sanders has had a special appointments committee hearing applications from office-seekers, as well as considering recommendations from Sanders himself.

The Legislature approval is a routine procedure, however, and most of the appointees have already assumed their duties.

VV Petition Asks Transit To Add Trips

A petition to allow the buses of the Chapel Hill Transit Company to add King Street and Daniels Road to their route is being circulated by the students living in that area of Victory Village.

They explained that the bus company had agreed to add the streets to the Victory Village route as an added service, if the students in that area wanted it.

The reason behind the petition is that several weeks ago, the company temporarily added King Street and Daniels Road to the route, but were stopped by P. L. Burch, Victory Village manager for the University.

Burch explained that he had stopped the bus company since no official confirmation of the route addition had been obtained from the University administration.

Students who favor the petition explained that families living on the south side of Mason Farm Road must, at present, walk several hundred yards to the nearest bus stop, a great inconvenience when escorting two or three children in the rain, or when bringing home large bundles.

When signatures are complete, the student group will turn the petition over to the University administration.

Fall term preregistration conferences will begin Monday. The books scheduling appointments will be in the South Building lobby from tomorrow through Wednesday, May 17.

Registration officials asked students making appointments to be prompt in keeping them.

Deadline For Seniors To Get Tags Is Today

Seniors will have their last opportunity today to pick up their identification cards in the lobby of the Y or Lenoir Hall, and to sign up to attend the Senior picnic, which will be held at Clear Water Lake from 10 until 2 o'clock Saturday.

Activities of Senior Week, which began last night when members of the class were honored by the Carolina Theater by the free showing of a late movie specially to them, will be continued Friday with Barefoot Day, and the first meeting of the entire class.

When the seniors assemble for their first meeting at a time to be announced later this week, a representative from the Alumni office will be on hand to briefly explain the commencement weekend.

The representative will also give a schedule of events to take place in conjunction with commencement and will outline the functions of the Alumni Association and the local office.

Seniors will round out their week Saturday at Clear Water Lake, formerly called Blackwood's Lake, with the annual senior picnic. Soft drinks and food, which President of the Class Don VanNoppen said would probably take the form of barbecues and sandwiches, will be served free to the seniors and their dates.

In addition to swimming, other activities to take place will be dancing, and many kinds of sports and games, led by former head cheerleader Norm Sper.

Transportation to the lake will be furnished, VanNoppen said. Members of the class with cars may volunteer their use, and in addition busses and perhaps a truck will be on hand for the use of the seniors.

The booths at which members of the class may pick up their identification cards will close for good at 1 o'clock today. VanNoppen urged all seniors to sign up to attend the picnic before that time in order that the food and drinks for the event may be ordered right away.

Sieber Plan Is Not Policy Of NSA Group, Says Sanders

Interdormitory Council Gives Donahue Dance

Providing a student is a senior or a dorm resident, all needed is the urge, dancing shoes and, if available, a date to attend the Sam Donahue dance in Woolen Gym Saturday night, the Interdormitory Council said yesterday.

But getting in on the Saturday afternoon concert in Memorial Hall won't be quite that simple. For that, (a 50 cent per person price of admission is charged). Tickets will be on sale in the Y from 9 to 12 o'clock every morning through Friday.

The Interdormitory Council is bringing Donahue to the campus. The dance will be paid for out of social fees included in regular room rent charges. The Council has invited all seniors and their dates to the dance in conjunction with Senior Weekend. Dormitory men planning to attend the dance should obtain their tickets from their dorm advisors or presidents. Seniors will be admitted by their lapel tags, which can still be picked up at Lenoir Hall and the Y.

A major change in the attire for the dance has been made due to popular demand. Instead of semi-formal as originally scheduled, the affair will be informal.

Donahue, who is bringing his band straight from New York where he has just finished a 5-week engagement at the Paramount Theater, will play from 9 until twelve.

Following the Blue-White game in Kenan Stadium, the orchestra will give a concert in Memorial Hall at 5 o'clock. Donahue will be accompanied by pretty Ginger Lamare who handles the singing chores.

Still Pushing Purchase Card, Asserts Prexy

Investigations Being Conducted Not Yet Ready

Former National Student Association Committee Chairman William Sieber's proposal to junk the purchase card system in favor of a student business control board is definitely not student government policy, President John Sanders said yesterday.

"We at student government are still firm in our belief that the institution of the NSA purchase card system is a definite possibility in Chapel Hill," Sanders declared.

Admitting that Siebers plan—calling for a board with power to investigate prices and decide on reasonableness—had good points, Sanders asserted that "the information thus far gained is not sufficient to reach any definite conclusion as reached by Sieber."

Sanders said that "investigations are currently being carried on by student government in cooperation with the Chapel Hill merchants regarding the various aspects of the purchase card system as would apply under local conditions."

He pointed out that a survey conducted by the Merchants Association for the NSA Committee on the system in other communities had not yet revealed enough information for the committee to make definite recommendations.

Other student government officials pointed out that the peculiar conditions here in Chapel Hill made the system a hard one to work out for this campus.

Most PCS arrangements, they pointed out, had been made in communities where competition allowed stores using the system to force other stores into the system because of lower prices. The system calls for students to get discounts on necessity items from stores which cooperate in the plan.

Sanders said that he will, within a few days, appoint a new NSA committee. Sieber had served chairman during the past two quarters. His plan was backed in a statement by former NSA boss Gran Childress. It was presented in the form of a letter to President Sanders.

UNC Symphony Gives Final Concert Tonight

The University of North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of its nationally famous conductor, Earl Slocum, will present its final concert of the 1949-50 season tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall.

The feature work of the concert will be the Concerto in B flat Major for Cello and Orchestra, by the Italian composer Luigi Boccherini, a contemporary of Haydn, and a famous cello virtuoso in addition to a prolific output of compositions in all forms, with particular emphasis on chamber music.

Recent evidence that this work was substantially altered by the late 19th century German cellist Grutzmacher has had no effect on its popularity. Long a standard part of the repertoire, the intrinsic value and beauty survived the transcription.

Efrim Fruchtman, the orchestra's principal cellist, will play the solo line in the concerto. A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, Fruchtman joined the faculty of the University in 1948 as cello instructor, and is well known throughout the state through appearances with the University String Quartet and the University Trio.

David Serrins, oboist, will play "The Winter's Passed," a work for oboe and strings by the contemporary American, Wayne Barlow. The remainder of the program includes the Overture to "Semiramide" by Rossini, the great Symphony No. 38 in D Major (Prague) by Mozart, and the popular Polka and Fugue from "Schwanda" by Weinberger.

The concert is sponsored by the Department of Music, and the public is cordially invited.

Improvements Being Made On Campus

Director of Operations, J. S. Bennett, reported yesterday that the grounds maintenance and improvement group has a busy schedule this spring.

A brick walk is being laid from Swain Hall to Old West, and walks to New West have been re-located.

A second walk will also be laid from Morehead Planetarium to Davie Building, he said, affording a continuous surfaced walk from the dorms to uptown district. The brick work should be completed in about ten days.

Bennett said that work on the parking lot in back of Peabody will be completed soon, affording space for cars now using the area back of Memorial Hall, which will soon be used for construction of the new commerce building.

Venable X and Y are to be moved to clear the area. Also scheduled to come down are the quonset huts by the Monogram Club. According to the director, this space will be cleared for the new men's dormitory on which bids are to be let May 9.

Lottery Bill Is Di Topic For Tonight

A bill to establish a national lottery and nation-wide parimutuel betting will be the subject of the Dialectic Senate's discussion tonight at 9 o'clock in the Di Hall, third floor, New West.

Proponents of the bill claim that the income from such measures would alleviate a goodly portion of the present heavy tax burden. Incomes from the national lottery alone, it was claimed, would support the social security program.

Both sides of the questions are expected to be hotly defended. Visitors are invited to participate in debate.

President Charlie Long announced that the Di has completed arrangements for the loan of its portrait of James Knox Polk by Sully to the National Art Galleries in Washington, D. C. The famous portrait is to be used in the celebration of the Washington Sesquicentennial which opens June 15th.

The cast includes Virginia Young, as Maggie, the old scrubwoman; Frank Groseclose, as Cupid; William Collins, as Mayor Springland; Bailey Hobgood, as Hugh; and Lee Noll, as Joan.
