Legislature's approval is usually given without debate, and no fights over appointees have been indicated yet.

Chief among the appointees to be approved are those of Dick Murphy as Attorney-General, Julian Mason and J. K. Richardson as assistant Attorneys-General, Bill Prince as head of the Orientation Committee, Dick Allsbrook as Student Entertainment Committee chairman, Ben James as head of the Student Audit Board, and Buddy Vaden, senior member of the Publications Board.

Yet to be named are Chairmen of the National Students Association Committee, the Elections Committee, and the Budget Committee.

The enabling legislation for the Constitution—which was passed in the spring election—is expected to be the most important work of the solons during this quarter.

Student Body President John Sanders said yesterday that a bill sponsored by his office would be presented to codify the summer school student government section of the new supreme law. The section was the major addition to the revamped constitution.

The article provides for a summer school board with wide administrative, legislative and judicial powers. Enabling legislation is necessary to fix procedures and methods of appointment to the board.

Sanders said he also understood that bills would be introduced to put representatives of the Town Men's and Town Girls' Association on the Dance Committee and the Graham Memorial Board of Directors. The constitution provides that they may be added by Legislative enactment.

Both groups attacked the revamped constitution during the spring campaign because it did not specifically put them on the bodies. They had been put on before by constitutional amendment.

Speaker Herb Mitchell will preside over the session, first regular one of the Ninth Assembly, which convened week before last and elected its officers. No bills are pending in any of the body's committees.

The men named to committee chairmanship by Phillips are: Herb Wentworth, Project Committee; Richmond Sloan, Finance Committee; Monk Jennings, Membership Committee; Frank Warrington, Awards Committee; Gran Childress, Program Committee; Paul Williams, House Committee; Bill Freeman, Participation Committee.

Constitution into effect when it meets tonight at 7:30 in Di Hall. Sanders has named committee and chairmen for nearly every student government unit. The include: Bob Thomas, Milton Bliss Jack Clinard, Dick Smith, Lib Stoney, Elizabeth Kearny, Virginia Young, Wilma Jones Charlotte Lehman, Pat Hole, Jerry Honaker, Lee Noll, Don Treat Sam Green, Brad Arrington, Dick Lewis and John Lehman, who also served as choreographer for the dance routines.

David W. Morris, former director of the San Francisco Municipal Theater, directed the show. Morris, who was connected with the Little Theatre of the Rockies, University of Colorado and Goodman Memorial Theater and School, is in Chapel Hill on a special project for the Rockefeller foundation.

The colorful sets for the musical were designed by Hal Shadwell, and lighting is by Richard Verigan. Eugene Jousse is crew chief, and Barbara Skinner is stage manager.

Frank Matthews will be at the keyboard of the organ. He has

R. M. Albright Mrs. Tillett Set To Speak

Joint Affair Is First Held Here For Former Prexy

Raleigh attorney R. Mayne Albright, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1948, will be the featured speaker at a Graham-for-Senate rally at 7 o'clock tonight.

Along with Albright will be an imposing list of guest speakers, all avowed supporters of Senator Frank P. Graham.

Included in the list are Representative John W. Umstead of Chapel Hill, Orange County member in the General Assembly, Mrs. Charles W. Tillett of Charlotte, former Director of the Women's Division of the National Democratic Committee, and student speakers from the University neighboring institutions.

The rally—first public meeting in Chapel Hill supporting Graham, former head of the Greater University—is a joint student-town affair.

The meeting, expected to draw up to 2,000, will be staged in front of the Methodist Church on Franklin Street. The three main speakers will make 10-minute addresses, while student speakers will speak for shorter periods.

Introducing the speakers will be county Recorders Court judge L. J. Phipps. UNC speakers will be Student Body President John Sanders, and debater Herschell Keener. Martin Cromartie, head of the Duke University Graham-for-Senate organization, will also make a short address.

Visiting students are expected to be on hand from State College, Duke, Woman's College, and Wake Forest.

In charge of arrangements for the rally is Student Body President John Sanders, assisted by Sandy Harris of Mebane and Jack Potts of Highland.

Sanders said yesterday that a band is expected to be on hand, to provide music during the Franklin Street rallying.

Senator Graham himself will not be on hand for the rally. He is at present busy with a campaign tour. He faces Raleigh attorney Willis Smith and former Senator Bob Reynolds in the May 27 Democratic primary election.

The week of May 14-21 has been designated by Chancellor Robert B. House as Spring Festival week.

Seniors Given Hour's Grace From Classes

Tomorrow Sees Upperclassmen In First Meeting

By Caroline Bruner

The University's Administration will pay its tribute to seniors during the highlight of their week tomorrow when it will excuse them from their 11 o'clock classes to attend the first meeting of the Senior Class in Memorial Hall.

The announcement that seniors will be allowed to miss their classes to attend the meeting came yesterday from Chancellor R. B. House.

The seniors are being called together to hear the outline of commencement week given by Maryon Saunders of the Alumni Association, and to hear him discuss the activities and values of the Association.

Following his talk, the seniors will use the remainder of the hour to discuss the success of their class activities.

Although the official senior class activities will close with a picnic at Clear Water Lake from 10 until 2 Saturday, the Men's Interdormitory Council has issued an invitation to all seniors to attend free of charge the dance, which it is staging in Woolen Gymnasium at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Special events from voice recitals to baseball games have been scheduled for the week-long Festival. The entire program will be climaxed Saturday night with a Beaux-Art Ball in Woolen Gym from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Roy Cole and his orchestra will play for the Graham Memorial sponsored dance, and students, faculty, administration, townspeople, and visitors are invited to attend it. Prizes will be awarded for the best costume in the various divisions, and a King and Queen will be chosen.

Sound and Fury will furnish entertainment, and, according to Graham Memorial Director Jim Rathburn, there should be fun for all.

The Festival will open at 4:30 Sunday afternoon, May 14, with a talk in Person Hall by John Alcott, who will speak on "Contemporary American Painting."

At 8:30 that night Carl Perry will present a voice recital in Hill Hall. Perry has already given several recitals on the campus and has always attracted a large audience.

Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock the Freshman baseball team will play the Duke freshmen on Emerson Field and from 4:30 to 6 o'clock the Communication Club will hold open house in Swain Hall.

Tuesday night at 8:30 Robert MacDonald will present a piano recital in Hill Hall.

The freshmen baseballers will again take the field Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when they play the freshmen from Wake Forest. At 8 o'clock the finals in the table tennis tournament will be played in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. The winner will represent the University at the Big Four Intramural Meet at State College May 18.

At 8:30 Wednesday night the Men's Glee Club will combine with the Greensboro College glee club to present Faure Requiem in Hill Hall.

Thursday night at 8 o'clock there will be a Sybil Moholy-Nagy Art Department lecture and reception sponsored by the

Barefoot Day Hits Here Tomorrow, All Seniors Will Go Naked-Footed

By Andy Taylor

Take 'em off you lads and ladies of the Class of 1950. Come rain or shine, tomorrow's Barefoot Day and tradition calls for the dainty display of naked tooties on the part of all seniors.

Initiated here some fifteen years ago, the occasion signifies the last carefree fling of youth before these dignified, mature and educated young men and women set out to make their way in the harsh world.

Senior Class President Don VanNoppen promises severe punishment for those members of the class who refuse to cooperate. He wouldn't state the nature of the chastisement.

The name and nature of the day narrowly escaped undergoing a major change this year when a punning officer of the class suggested it be tagged "Beerfoot Day." It was further proposed that class members make their way about campus with beer cans lashed securely to their feet. The motion was quickly and thoroughly snuffed out.

A part of the current Senior Week functions, all seniors, male and female alike, are expected to go through the whole day minus any form of footwear.

The juniors inaugurated a similar affair last week when they held the first annual Shirthead Straw Hat Day.

Tradition has it that the day began when it was claimed that Carolina students, among other things, had bigger and better feet than any other college could boast.

A welcomed change from the days of yesteryear will be in effect tomorrow. There'll be no harsh gravel on most of the paths to bruise tender white feet thanks to the age of brick.

So pretty up those blisters and bunions, gang, and make an appointment with your manicurist tomorrow's the big day.
