

Taylor Gains Southern Tennis Finals

Roddey Gains Other Berth From Atwater

DAVIDSON, N. C., May 12—(P)—Top-seeded Clark Taylor of the University of North Carolina gained his expected berth in the finals of the Southern Conference Tennis Tournament today, but the real fireworks were provided by no. 3 seeded Oliver (Bo) Roddey, slim star of Davidson's host team.

Roddey thrashed William and Mary's Howe Atwater, no. 2 ranking man of the tournament, with the loss of only one game in their free-set semi-final, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0.

Taylor got by Tommy Boys, Atwater's teammate who was fourth seeded, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4. The best-of-five finals will be played tomorrow afternoon.

Roddey, a straight set semi-finals loser to last year's eventual champion, Fred Kovaleski of William and Mary, never was better than in his match with Atwater. The latter was simply swept off his feet by the unbeatable, aggressive game of the Davidson senior from Charlotte.

Roddey's brilliant play all season had convinced observers that he had a definite chance against Atwater, but no such rout was anticipated. Last week in a regular season match Atwater took two of three sets from Roddey.

Taylor appeared in commend at all times against Boys, whose fighting play gave him the third set, but at no time did Taylor appear in danger of losing the match.

In regular season play Taylor won from Roddey this year, but lost to him last season.

All four semi-finalists had advanced with straight set morning victories over the bottom four in the seeded list of eight.

North Carolina's top-seeded team of Taylor and Charlie Rice had won the first set from Davidson's fourth-seeded Allan Fanjoy and Ted Keesler, 7-5, and was leading, 3-2, in the second when the semi-final was cut short by rain. A best-of-five affair, it will be resumed in the morning.

The other semi-final did not even begin. An opponent for Davidsons Roddey - Whit Cobb duo had not yet been determined when the rains came.

William and Mary's Atwater-Boys combination led, 4-2, in the first set against Duke's Jack Walmsley and Bob Silkett when their quarter-final was halted.

Carolina Track Teams To Meet Duke Today

By Frank Allston, Jr.

Carolina's undefeated varsity and once-defeated frosh tracksters will engage the two squads of Duke University in dual meets to be held at 2 o'clock on the Duke cinders today.

Plenty of hot action is promised in both meets. The Tar Heel varsity runners need this meet to preserve a two-year undefeated dual meet record while the Tar Babies will be seeking revenge after a previous loss to the Blue Imps, their lone defeat of the year.

The varsity action will find the Tar Heels slight favorites to whip the Devils for the fourth straight year. The frosh, however, will be the underdogs in their meet.

Top individual action should find Bill Albans and Duke's Tommy Reeves hooking up in broad jump and low hurdles competition. Albans will be favored in both as will Carolina's Frank Scott over Blue Devil Henry Poss in the 100 and 220.

Hal Holden and Duke's Henry Bullock, one-two in the conference half last year, will hook up in a duel in that event this afternoon. The two Durhamites both ran slightly over 1:56 in dual meets last week.

Other top performers will be Carolina's Bob Kirk in the javelin, Sam Magill, mile; Gene Brigham, quarter; Jack Moody, high and broad jumps; Bob Morrow, hurdles; Ben Perry, weights, and Dukes Jim O'Leary, Penn Relays discus king.

Doubleheader Slated

Two games are scheduled in the Carolina baseball picture this afternoon at 3 o'clock as the varsity travels to N. C. State and the freshmen entertain the State freshmen here on Emerson Field.

Henry Schacht or Doc Gaston will probably be the starting pitcher for the Tar Heels as they seek to even the season series with State. State has won two of the three games so far this year.
