

GOP Primary To Take Place In Penn Today

Races For Senate, Gov. Will Hold National Interest

PHILADELPHIA, May 15—(AP)—Republican voters in Pennsylvania nominate candidates for U. S. Senator and Governor tomorrow with national interest focused on the primary election's impact on 1952 presidential maneuvering.

Governor James H. Duff, a candidate for the U. S. Senate nomination, chose former Judge John S. Fine of the state superior court as his running mate for governor. Duff said he was willing to stake his political future on a fight to oust the old-line party leadership.

Opposing Duff for the senatorial nomination is Representative John C. Kunkle, a six-term veteran from Harrisburg. Jay Cooke, Philadelphia banker and former city GOP chairman, and Judge Charles S. Williams of Lycoming County are the other candidates for governor.

Both Kunkle and Cooke had the full support of former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, for three decades the top GOP strategist in the state. An 87-year-old retired manufacturer, Grundy says he considers politics "a public duty."

It was on Grundy and Grundyism that Duff centered most of his campaign fire. Duff said he was fighting for "the average guy" and defied Grundyism as "government by a few, at the expense of the public."

Cooke reported Duff is seeking to govern Pennsylvania by "proxy from Washington." Kunkle accused Duff of "putting his personal ambitions above the general good of the party."

The Democrats have a primary election also, but it has attracted little interest. Senator Francis Myers, Democratic whip of the Senate, is unopposed for re-nomination and Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia city treasurer, is the organization-backed candidate for governor.

With little campaigning to do, Myers, Dilworth and their political aides have watched the Republican row closely, collecting what they predict will be ammunition for the November election.

Duff has said repeatedly that (See GOP, page 4)

Picket Lines Slow Traffic On Southern

CHARLOTTE, May 15—(AP)—Southern Railway terminal Picket lines sprung up around points in the Carolinas today as the nation-wide firemen's strike hit the two states with full force.

About 500 firemen were ordered yesterday to join the walk-out against five major railroads. The workers affected in the Sunday order serve divisions controlled at Asheville and Charlotte in North Carolina and at Columbia and Charleston in South Carolina.

The full effect of the spread of the strike to the Carolinas could not be fully assessed late today.

Dialectic Senate

The Senate of the Dialectic Literary Society will meet in executive session tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock in the Di Hall in New West.

Purpose of the meeting will be to elect officers for the summer and fall sessions. Other necessary business will also be brought before the Senate's attention.

Two Child Playmakers To Appear In 'Medea'

Two children were required in the casting of "Medea," fifth major production of the Carolina Playmakers slated for the Forest Theater, on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings, and both are youngsters of members of the adult cast.

Both boys, they figure in the story as the children of leading role, Medea, and as the action unfolds the play centers around the struggle for their lives, and future. Medea, whose husband, Jason, deserts her for the daughter of King Creon, fights bitterly about the two children, who are to be banished with her.

Seven year old Sean Fitz-Simons, the son of Marion Fitz-Simons, who plays Medea, and John Shearin, Jr., five year old son of John Shearin, who plays King Creon, are handling the two roles like veterans, and rarely miss a "cue" in rehearsals.

Fred Young, who played in "The Merchant of Venice" in the Forest Theater last spring, portrays the role of the Tutor, and helps guide the two boys while they are on stage.

At one spot in the play, they are required to carry two large boxes filled with presents for Creon's daughter, and the first set of treasure chests used during rehearsals were so big that the boys could not see over them when the lids were raised. The shop crew obligingly took the lids off, so the scene goes off without a hitch now.

"Medea" tickets, on sale at Led-better-Pickard's and Swain Hall, are not for reserved seats, and the tickets are good for any night of the extravagant production. In case of rain, the play will be given the next clear night.

Robert MacDonald To Give Recital Of Top Works Tonight In Hill Hall

Robert MacDonald, music major from Little Rock, S. C., will present his senior piano recital in Hill Hall, tonight at 8:30.

His program will include works by Bach, Brahms, Poulenc, Bartok and Debussy.

MacDonald has been very active in musical events during the past four years at the University. Last Spring he was heard in two major piano recitals in the Music Department, one of these being his own junior recital.

He is accompanist for the University Men's Glee Club and is a member of the University Band as bassoonist. Recently he was harpsichordist with the University Symphony Orchestra in the Department of Music's production of the two operas "Orpheus" and "La Serva Parda."

He is a member of the Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Simfonia, National Music Fraternity, and was elected secretary of his chapter last year.

Since the Fall of 1949, MacDonald has held the title of Master Bellringer at the Morehead-Patterson Bell Tower, a position which entails the daily playing of the tower bells.

Many will remember MacDonald for his appearance earlier this quarter with the University Concert Band as piano soloist in the premiere performance of a symphonic transcription of the Schuman Piano Concerto, first movement, by Harold Andrew.

An interesting feature on the program tonight will be the performance of the Sonata in c major, by Brahms, the first of the four large piano sonatas by that composer. Also of unusual interest will be the Improvisations, Op. 20, one of the more seldom-heard works by the modern composer, Bela Bartok.

'Fire Acheson' Is Request By McCarthy

Senator Charges State Chieftain 'Betrays Asia'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 15—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), today called on President Truman to fire Secretary of State Acheson because he is "the headmaster who betrays us in Asia."

McCarthy said the President also should relieve U. S. roving ambassador Philip Jessup of his duties and oust "those prancing mimics of the Moscow party line in the State Department."

The Wisconsin senator mentioned no new names in an address to the golden jubilee convention of the Sons of the American Revolution.

He told a reporter he would name his no. 2 case in a list of 81 on the Senate floor "if I am forced to do it."

It had been reported in Washington that McCarthy would name his no. 2 man in his speech here. McCarthy has described the no. 2 man as an American envoy to Europe who allegedly slipped secret government documents to a Kremlin spy.

McCarthy has not put the envoy's name on the public record, but he is reported to be John Carter Vincent, career diplomat who now is minister to Switzerland. Vincent has told the Associated Press that the State Department would make a statement on his behalf "when warranted."

In his speech, McCarthy linked his no. 1 man, Owen Lattimore, with Acheson. Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins University professor and specialist on the Far East, has (See ACHESON, page 4)

Phi Assembly Will Discuss Week's Plans

The Assembly of the Philanthropic Literary Society will meet in executive session at 7:30 tonight, it was announced yesterday.

Included on tonight's agenda are the annual Di-Phi Banquet to be held later this week, the much-discussed "Kimsey Report," and election of new officers.

Proposals made by A. Kimsey King, popularly called the "Kimsey Report," calling for the creation of the annual Phi Literary Award to the outstanding student contributor to the Carolina Quarerly, were approved last week.

King's measure was passed last Tuesday, but a movement is underway to bring the motion back on the floor for reconsideration.

Herman Sieber, of the Di-Phi Committee, asked all members to notify him whether or not they plan to attend the Di-Phi Banquet to be held this Thursday night.

SDA Slates Elections For Tonight

Students for Democratic Action will meet tonight for the last time this year.

Officers for the next year will be elected, plans for primary night party to hear the returns will be made, and final plans for work to be done on primary day will be arranged.

Chairman John Harris announced the time as 7:30 in the Roland Parker No. 1.

All those interested in taking an active part in SDA work next year were invited to come.

Big Week Continues; Ball To Be Saturday

Press Clinic Meets Here; Fifty Attend

Plenty of toes were stepped on and no feelings were spared at an editorial clinic on North Carolina daily newspapers conducted here yesterday by Rufus Terral, an editorial writer of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and a member of the National Editorial Conference.

Copies of at least two editions of each of a number of papers were sent Terral several weeks ago and he had made detailed study of the editorial pages of each one.

At today's session he pointed out what he considered the good and bad points of each page.

Terral stressed the view that editorials should not only make it clear that the paper is for or against something but should include a factual statement to substantiate positions taken.

Approximately 50 editorial chiefs and assistants from all sections of the state attended this, the first North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference for daily papers to be held at the University. The conference was authorized by the North Carolina Press Association at its mid-winter Institute.

Public Health Service Formally Opens Building

The Department of Experimental Medicine of the School of Public Health, under the U. S. Public Health Service, held its formal opening last night in its new Pittsboro Road building with a host of officials attending.

A dinner at the Carolina Inn preceded an open meeting in the Medical School Auditorium from 7:30 until 8 o'clock. From 8 until 10 o'clock an open house was held for inspection of the new two story brick structure.

Dr. Harold J. Magnuson, director of the laboratory since 1946, said the office has been moving into its new quarters since November with most of the transition since the first of the year. It was formerly in the Medical School Building.

Experimenting with about 1,000 rabbits and several hundred white mice, the laboratory scientists are attempting to perfect an immunization for syphilis. Synthetic chemists also assay new drugs to determine their effects on animal infections.

Among U. S. Health Service members invited to attend were Drs. J. W. Mountain, assistant surgeon general, Robert D. Wright, senior surgeon, venereal disease division, Theodore J. Bauer, chief, venereal disease division, and William A. Smith, chief, tuberculosis section, N. C. State Board of Health.

Acting-president Carmichael and Chancellor House were among those representing UNC.

Faculty Lunch, Picnic, Recital Big Features

Other Activities Are On Program For Third Day

By Andy Taylor

The annual Spring Festival Week swings into its third round today with the Men's Faculty Club luncheon, Women's Athletic Association picnic and a piano recital tonight taking top billing on the day's program.

Professor Clarence Heer will be the chief attraction at the Faculty Club affair, scheduled for 1 o'clock at the Carolina Inn. He will give a talk on "Experiences in Korea."

The Women's Athletic Association will hold its annual spring picnic this afternoon at 5:30 at the outdoor pool. Awards will be presented to four outstanding senior girls in athletics and a gold cup given to the dormitory and sorority having the most points in intramural competition.

Tickets for the picnic may be purchased from all WAA council members. All coeds are invited to attend.

Phi Beta Kappa Initiates 101 Here Tomorrow

Dr. A. Henderson Slated To Give Annual Address

Fifty-six juniors and 45 seniors will be initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, at exercises in Gerrard Hall here tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Dean Ernest L. Mackie, permanent treasurer and corresponding secretary for the chapter, made the announcement yesterday.

Dr. Archibald Henderson will deliver the annual Phi Beta Kappa address at a University convocation in Memorial Hall tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Dean Mackie said. Chancellor Robert B. House will preside. Classes will be suspended for that hour.

Following the initiation ceremonies that afternoon, the new members will be honored at a banquet at the Carolina Inn where Lambert Davis, director of the University Press, will give the principal address. Ward Peacock, Chapel Hill, president of the chapter, will preside.

In addition to Dean Mackie and President Peacock, other officers of the Society are Dwight Blackwelder, Concord, vice-president, and Page Harris, Durham, recording secretary.

The Phi Beta Kappa student must attain an academic average of 92.5 on all his or her courses. By virtue of holding the highest scholastic average during the past year, Peacock was named president. Next year's president will be the member with the highest average.

Niggli Talk Scheduled In GM At 7:30

Josephine Niggli, author of best-seller "Step Down Elder Brother" will speak tonight at 7:30 in Graham Memorial. She is sponsored by Chi Delta Phi, honorary society.

Miss Niggli is a resident of Chapel Hill, but was born and raised in Monterey, Mexico. She was educated in San Antonio, Texas, and then came to the University of North Carolina in 1935 to study playwriting under "Prof" Koch.

Under his influence she wrote plays about her native Mexico, the most popular one being "The Red Velvet Coat" which was one of the few plays to run almost every night in England during the war. This play is unique in that a whole Mexican village is portrayed upon the stage.

Miss Niggli then turned to novel writing and published "Mexican Village" which became a best seller and eventually had a movie made from it. For this book she received many awards, including the Mayflower Award for the best book published by a North Carolina resident; Theatre Guild fellowship and the Rockefeller fellowships.

Her second book, also about Mexico, has been chosen as alternate selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club. It is the story of the conflict of different generations with changing conditions.

Preregistration

Tomorrow is the last day for general college students to make preregistration appointments for the fall quarter with their advisors.

Books are in the lobby of South Building with appropriate appointment times listed.

Advisors reminded students already having appointments, to be on time.

Columbia U. Seeks Help In Birthday

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Columbia University today invited the world's leading educators to help make its anniversary year of 1954 a milestone of educational freedom.

The invitation went to 750 colleges, universities, libraries and museums throughout the world, including those in Russia and her satellites.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia, asked them to unite in Columbia's 200th anniversary year to champion "the right of mankind to knowledge and to the free use thereof."

He said Columbia's trustees plan to make educational freedom the theme of 1954 anniversary celebrations. He said foreign educators and scholars may wish to take part in New York City.

Or, Eisenhower added, they may prefer to organize convocations, lectures, publications and the like to forward the theme of educational freedom in their own territories.
