

BSU Slates Picnic, Hayride For Today

A free hayride, weiner roast, games, general picnic and party today will be the Baptist Student Union's contribution to the University's Spring Festival Week. This is the spring social, the last of this year.

Almost everything desirable for fun and fellowship is provided in the outing, with games, swimming and singing high on the interest list, the BSU said yesterday.

Things are slated to get underway today at 4:15 when the largest group will leave the Baptist Church on a rolling haystack to begin the trek. Plans call for the weiners, marshmallows and all the campfire cooking to get underway at six o'clock at Hogan's Lake. Some of the games and recreation planned to precede and follow the "hot-dog cooking" are swimming, softball, volleyball, ping-pong, and horseshoes.

BSU Hospitality Director Jim Ingram reported last night that this social will be the most diversified offered to the students this year by the Baptist group.

A large crowd of students seeking an evening of fun and good fellowship are expected to participate in this social event, the last that BSU will sponsor prior to the impending exams.

Erie Coffield, president of the B. S. U., extended a cordial invitation to all students to have a free party with the usual fellowship and fun.

Ballet Class Sets Recital For Tonight

The Ballet Class, sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. for the children of Chapel Hill, will present a recital tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. Approximately 65 children, ranging in age from 3 to 15, will take part in group and solo dances under the leadership of Mrs. James Childers.

The dancers, children of students, faculty members and townspeople, attend classes each Tuesday and Thursday, in the Vets Club, under the sponsorship of the Y. Janet Lewis is the pianist for the group. Barbara Payne was in charge of the group this year, and Pam Miller is next year's chairman. Old and new treasurers are Carolyn Harrill and Mary Barden.

Although invitations have been sent to dormitories, sororities and faculty members, they are not necessary since there is no admission charge and everyone is welcome.

Officers for the next school year for the Pharmacy School are Bob Collins, president, Bill Van Valkenburg, vice-president, Sarah Pegram, secretary-treasurer, and Ben Harward as Honor Council representative.

NCPA officers are Ben Harward, president, Clarence Swearingan, vice-president, Harold Sauls, secretary, Barbara Carson, treasurer, and Larry McAllister, executive member.

Pharmacy Girls' Association officers are Margaret Booth, president, Barbara Dillard, vice-president, and Fran Parsons, secretary.

The Dance Committee came under fire during the debate, as legislators pointed out that it at present had no controlling hand other than a faculty group.

ARMEZIA EURE

THESE FOUR COEDS were honored in early morning tapping ceremonies by the Order of the Valkyries, highest women's honor organization on the campus. The four were aroused by clanging gongs, initiated in outdoor ceremony, then honored at a breakfast. The group, corresponding to the men's Order of the Golden Fleece, tap new members during each quarter.

-Track-

(Continued from page 3) three heats of eight men each in some events, with some of the best races of the two day meet expected to be produced.

Seven defending champions and three record holders will return. Tommy Reeves of Duke (broad jump and 220-yard low hurdles), Bill Alexion of Maryland (100 and 220-yard dashes), Hal Holden of Carolina (880-yard run), Sam Magill of Carolina (two mile), and Bob Kirk of Carolina (javelin) are the champs who will return.

Moody of Carolina (high jump), Magill, and Jim O'Leary of Duke (shot) are the record holders who will be back.

Bill Albans, who did not compete last year because of a sprained ankle, is expected to pick up anywhere from two to five first places and add greatly to the Tar Heel total. Bill is almost sure to pick up firsts in the high and low hurdles and a good bet to set records in both events. He will also broad jump and high jump.

Some of the top competition of the day will be in the weight events, usually overlooked by the spectators. O'Leary of Duke, Jack Unterkofler of Maryland, W. A. Holshouser of Clemson and Ted Dostanko of State, Turk Ogden and George Verchick of Carolina make up a top-flight

Original music was composed for the show by Frank Groseclose, Atlanta, Ga., and recorded by the Music Department under the direction of Prof. Earl Slocum. Marty Jacobs, Greensboro, is stage manager, and Lynn Gault, Chapel Hill, designed the sets.

Lighting is being handled by Eugene Jousse, Montreal, Canada, and Frank Echols, Asheville, designed the costumes, which were made by the costuming class under the supervision of Staff Designer Irene Smart.

"Medea" is the last major production of the Playmakers' season. There are no reserved seats, and in case of rain, the play will be presented on the next clear night.

Stennis Hits FEPC As 'Strife' Bill

WASHINGTON, May 18—(AP)—Senator Stennis (D-Miss) told the Senate today the "much heralded, so-called civil rights bills" ought to be called "civil strife bills."

He said they result from "political pressure" and "instead of protecting civil rights, they will create civil strife."

Specifically Stennis criticized a bill to set up a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC). It would bar discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion or national origin.
