Awards Made To Students For Abilities

Epps, Sam McGill, Spowden, Holsten Get High Honors

Duan of Awards Ernest L. Mackie yesterday announced the recipients of six of the University's most coveted awards.

Five seniors and a fraternity were honored by the University, with the names of the winners of several top awards not to be released until commencement.

The annual awards night which has been held for the last three years, will not take place this year because there has not been sufficient attendance in past years, Dean Mackie stated. Instead, the presentation of the awards will be incorporated into the commencement ceremonies to be held during the first week in June.

The recipients of the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, bestowed annually upon one man and one woman of the graduating class who have "demonstrated their worthiness to typify a spirit of brotherly love," and who have shown a "desire to be of service," are Helen Peoples Epps of Henderson and Samuel Hays Magill of Shanghai, China.

Helen, a member of Chi Omega Sorority, is chairman of the Women's Council and secretary of the Greater University Student Council. In addition, she is a member of the House Privileges Board, the YMCA, the Women's Cabinet, the Women's Orientation Committee, the Yackety Yack staff, and the Valkyries coed honor society.

Magill, who has been one of Carolina's top track stars during his four years at Chapel Hill, is a Delta Psi, a member of the Golden Fleece, the Order of the Grail, and the Monogram Club. He was captain of the 1949 Tar Heel cross country team.

Roy Walter Holsten, of Glen Rock, N. J., is the recipient of the John J. Parker, Jr., medal for leadership in Student Government. The Parker Medal is awarded annually to "that student who has demonstrated most clearly the highest quality of leadership in perpetuating the spirit of honor and the process of student self-government."

A member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and the Golden Fleece, Holsten was very active in student government while at the University. He was a member of the Men's Honor Council for three years, serving as chairman this year, a member of the Student Council, chairman of the non-partisan Selection Board, and president of the German Club.

The scholarship, established in 1949 by the National Sorority and the local Chapter, is being awarded this year for the first time. The award, for one year, is made on the basis of high scholastic attainment and potentiality of greatest development through University training.

Barbara, who transferred from Agnes Scott College where she attained a high academic standing as well as leadership in many activities, has a record at Carolina that is equally outstanding.

President Cites Five Points Tops In Government Program

A five-point program of student government action was pointed to yesterday in a year's-end report from student body president John Sanders.

The president listed the new summer school governmental setup, the tuition question, the curriculum committee report, the study and reevaluation of both the campus judiciary and the honor system, and the alumni association search for new members from the this year's graduation, as points in the report.

He described this summer's government as the "real test" in the new setup. Under the new constitution, the student government for the summer will consist of the regular honor councils and a special student government board—with complete legislative and administrative powers—composed of nine members.

The board will also act as a Student Council, hearing appeals from the lower courts. An acting student body president and secretary-treasurer will be named.

On the tuition question, the report urged students to seek home county legislators on vacation and help in a drive to get rates lowered at the 1951 General Assembly.

The report pointed out that the University is now in the top half-dozen of state universities in the matter of tuition rates. He said that some sources had predicted a push to get rates raised even higher.

The president's report praised the work of the Student-Faculty Curriculum Committee, and a full-time person be employed backed its recommendation that to help in the work of curriculum evaluation. Time needed to finish the job was estimated at two years.

A complete study of the campus judicial system and the Honor System itself were pointed to in the report. Sanders asserted that a revamping of the trial procedure of the Men's and Women's Councils would come out of the work. The president has in the past recommended such procedure be carefully evaluated and studied in order to make it more efficient and better meet (See PRESIDENT, page 6)

Exchange Student Gets Chunk Of UNC Heart

By Rolfe Neill

"I came here to study city planning, but I have learned much more than that," was all Gere Weigand could muster yesterday afternoon in his broken, emotion-choked English as he received $214 from a big-hearted campus and towns-

Gere left for Washington immediately afterwards to see a friend—the same one he was on the way to see Friday when a youthful trio allegedly picked him up and then left him stranded in a roadside sandwich shop on U. S. Highway 1. They reportedly drove off with some clothes, a camera, and $125 of Gere's money. The money had been saved from his State Department allowance he receives as a foreign exchange student here in the city planning department.

The 26-year-old former Luftwaffe pilot who was shot down four times and at one time because of back injuries spent more than six months in a cast, had a second surprise awaiting him when he walked into the office of YMCA Secretary Shotts.

A small package, donor unknown, when opened contained a new camera and two rolls of film. Between a flashing grin and (See STUDENT, page 6)

Tarnation Hits Campus This Weekend

The last issue of Tarnation for the 1949-50 school year will appear on the campus this weekend, new Editor Herb Nachman said yesterday.

"If the students get as far as the back of the book, they should find a story by Charlie Joyner entitled "Shakespeare and the Kinsey Report, right information (See TARNATION, page 8)

Y Will Hold Article Sale

In order to clear their lost and found file which has accumulated a large number of articles during the course of the year, the YMCA through the help of Alpha Phi Omega will have a sale today from 9 until 1 o'clock in the lobby of the YMCA.

During the course of the year the YMCA has done their best to return articles wherever possible to their owners. However, there were many articles which were impossible to return because of lack of identification.

Prices will be low and the sale is not a profit making proposition—but merely to clear the excess out of the files.

Yack News

Yackety Yacks may be obtained from the Yack office in Graham Memorial this afternoon from 1:30 to 2:30 and Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 4 o'clock. None will be distributed tomorrow.
