Tennessee Rules Negroes Eligible To Study At UT

NASHVILLE, TENN., Sept. 27. (UP)—Tennessee cracked the deep south's solid front against mixed education today by ruling that Negroes can take professional courses at its state university. State Atty. Gen. Roy H. Beeler Grudgingly approved the admission of three Negroes who, he agreed, could not get the kind of advanced training they wanted at state-supported Negro schools. "Strife and turmoil" will follow the "letting down of the bars," Beeler predicted. Nevertheless, his ruling was the south's first voluntary compliance with the supreme court's "precedent" rulings in the Missouri, Texas and Oklahoma University cases. In Georgia, Gov. Herman Talmadge has asserted that the United States doesn't have enough troops or police to enforce a court order for Negroes and whites to sit in the same classes.

But "we in the south have no other alternative," Beeler said in a long, bitter opinion which assailed "outside influences" and Negro demands "prompted by a desire for political preferment." "We must bow to the inevitable and go along as good citizens of the United States," he said. "The opinions of that (U. S. Supreme) Court become the law of the land, notwithstanding any opinions. . . . That may be entertained by any individuals, however sound such opinions may be." (See TENNESSEE, page 4)

Legislature Set To Hold Meet Tonight

Sanders, Weaver, Mitchell To Talk At First Session

The Student Legislature, student government's most colorful arm, will swing into action tonight as it meets for the first time this year.

The solons will assemble at 7:30 in the Di Hall, their old stamping grounds. Speaker Herb Mitchell will preside.

Only business on tap for the first session is a speech by Student Body President John Sanders, reorganization of committees, and a short talk by Dean of Students Fred Weaver.

The body will meet with at least six empty seats. Six of the legislators have resigned because they became ineligible by moving out of the district from which they were chosen. The seats will be filled in the special election.

Sanders is expected to outline his administration's program for the coming year, and ask the Legislature's cooperation in carrying out the aims. Mitchell will also make a short talk on the body's job, while Dean Weaver is expected to discuss the Legislature's role in conjunction with the administration.

All freshmen have been especially invited to attend tonight's meeting. Speaker Mitchell said the body would at all times welcome visitors to the deliberations.

PB Chairman Gives Report

Zane Robbins, acting chairman of the Publications Board, yesterday apologized on behalf of the group to the student body for the lack of features so far in The Daily Tar Heel.

In a prepared statement, Robbins said: ". . . I would like to apologize to the student body in general for the lack of features in The Daily Tar Heel throughout the early days of the 1950-51 school year. We have, as most students know, been curtailed by the Student Legislature, but have been striving to give the campus the best paper possible within the limits of our budget."

Robbins said Steve Canyon, adventure comic strip previously carried by The Daily Tar Heel, will begin appearing soon. Also, he pointed out the Associated Press crossword puzzle will begin running by next week.

"It is our sincere hope that we will be able to add at least one more comic strip within the next few weeks. . . and add more" (See PB, page 4)

Parade, Caravan To Send Off Team

By John Noble

Plans have been laid by the cheerleading squad for a torchlight parade tonight and a car caravan in the morning as a send-off for the football squad leaving tomorrow afternoon for South Bend and its game with Notre Dame.

Joe Chambliss, head cheerleader yesterday said he will be on hand with all of his staff, and hopes to make this "one of the most impressive, if not the greatest, send-offs ever given a Tar Heel team."

The torchlight parade is scheduled to begin in front of South Building tonight at 7 o'clock, will go from there straight to the intramural field next to Woollen Gym, where a gigantic bonfire will be built.

Coach Carl Snively has promised to be on hand with a couple of players to say a few words during the demonstrations, Chambliss said. Chambliss added that Snively may give some idea of the team's chances against the Fighting Irish, who go into Saturday's game with an unbeaten record of 38 games compiled over the last four seasons.

Chambliss said his staff will be present with the band to lead the crowd in all the cheers.

The team will leave Chapel Hill in the morning for Durham Airport, where it will board a chartered plane for the trip to South Bend.

Plans have been made to provide a motor caravan to escort the team to the airport, which will form at the Y Court tomorrow at 11 o'clock and go from there to the airport.

Students who have schedule conflicts are not expected to cut classes to participate in the parade. (See PARADE, page 4)

Playmakers Set Program For Season

In their first meeting of the fall quarter, the Carolina Playmakers got off to a flying start towards what promises to be a banner year.

Samuel Selden, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art, highlighted the informal get-together with his "Adventures in Playmaking" talk, a pictorial recollection of 32 years of Playmaker history.

The dramatic group will make its fall debut in the Broadway satirical comedy hit of last season, "The Madwomen of Chailot." The play, which is an adaptation from the French by Maurice Valency, won the New York drama Critics' Circle Award for the best foreign production of 1949. Tryouts for "Madwoman" were held yesterday.

Shakespeare's immortal tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," is scheduled as the second major production of the Fall quarter. It will go on two 12-day tours, one in the Winter quarter and one in the Spring.

Season tickets will go on sale tomorrow at the Playmaker offices in Swain Hall and at Ledbetter-pickard's. The season ticket insures the holder of a seat at each major production and saves money for the patron. The sale will be limited to 1000.

John Parker, business manager of the group, also announced that contracts will be signed for the appearance of the First Drama Quartet—Charles Laughton, Agnes Moorehead, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and Charles Boyer—in George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" scene from the play "Man and Superman" on March 9 and 10, at Memorial Hall. The Playmakers will also (See PLAYMAKERS, page 4)

Brew Companies Give Million Beers To GI's

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Army today accepted 1,200,000 cans of beer from brewing interests as a gift to fighting men in Korea.

The Army said the offer of free beer was made some time ago after there had been some complaints from servicemen that a ration of one can a day to front line troops had been cut off.

Some people in this country objected against any issue of beer to the fighting men, but the Army said it had received no formal complaints from organizations.

UP Names Candidate For Oct. 10

Allston Presently Assistant Sports Editor On Paper

By Rolfe Neill

Frank Allston, Jr., nominated on the first ballot by the University Party yesterday afternoon, will oppose Student Party nominee Roy Parker, Jr., in the special election on Oct. 10 to give The Daily Tar Heel a permanent editor.

Allston, assistant sports editor of The Daily Tar Heel, won the nomination over Acting Editor Parker and Chuck Hauser, in a UP meeting held in Graham Memorial.

A junior from Arlington, Va., Allston edited the YMCA Handbook for Freshmen this year and is a member of the Order of the Grail. He has worked for The Daily Tar Heel since enrolling here.

The vote was 11 for Allston, eight for Parker, and one for Hauser. Formerly Managing Editor for two years, Hauser is presently serving as Editorial Page Editor.

For one of the Publications Board seats to be filled, it will be a former Tarnation Editor running against the present Editor—and a man he trained.

Tom Kerr will oppose Herb Nachman, now editing the humor magazine, for the seat formerly held by C. B. Mendenhall. Mendenhall graduated during the summer.

Taylor 'Buddy' Vaden was assured of election when he became the only doubly-endorsed man thus far in the special election. He will be succeeding himself in the seat he took over when Hauser, chairman at the time, retired last Spring.

Nachman is from Augusta, Ga. A junior, he has a long line of publications experience which began when he went to work for The Daily Tar Heel as a reporter. Later he became City Editor and then shifted over to Tarnation. Under Kerr he was Managing Editor. He succeeded Kerr last Spring as editor of the bantam magazine.

Bill Kraft, chairman of the UP, said there will be another meeting next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in Graham Memorial. He said there will be a high University official to speak. No political nominations will be made, he said.

The UP still has seven persons to nominate to fill vacancies in dormitory and town districts.

The special election probably will be postponed until Thursday, Oct. 12 because of inauguration ceremonies to be held for Gordon Gray on Tuesday, Oct. 10, the date set for the balloting.

Julian Mason, chairman of the Elections Board, yesterday said his group will make an official statement soon.

The Daily Tar Heel was left without an Editor this fall when Graham Jones failed to return to school. Parker, Managing Editor under Jones, was appointed by the PB to fill the vacancy until an election could be held.

Tarnation Staff

All students interested in working for Tarnation this year will meet in the Tarnation office, basement of Graham Memorial, this afternoon' at 3 o'clock.

Editor Herb Nachman said yesterday that persons with writing talent, artists, ad layout men and editorial assistants are needed.
