

Wake Forest Staggers Tar Heels, 13-7 Students Are Injured In Goal Post Riot After Game Here

Fists, Bottles Fly As Fans Mix It Up

By Rolfe Neill
A Carolina football defeat turned into a bottle-throwing, fist-fighting mob yesterday afternoon in Kenan Stadium as Wake Forest students tried and succeeded in tearing down part of the UNC goal posts. At least two students were seriously injured in the 30-minute riot.

Bobby Blackwell, a Deacon football manager from Orangeburg, S. C., was knocked unconscious by a soft drink bottle thrown from the end zone stands. Elliott Hole of Chapel Hill received a bad gash in his right temple when the crossbar fell on his head. Ironically, the blood-stained, much-fought-for post was dragged to the field's edge and left.

The Wake Forest students poured onto the field after the game. Led by a cheerleader, they ripped down the white metal uprights before most Carolina fans realized what was happening. However, the Tar Heel side was quick to react and headed to protect their goal.

Several fist fights broke out. Chapel Hill police were the only law enforcement officers available and there was little they could do with the fanatics scrapping around the goal line. One policeman attempted to stop a fight and himself nearly was crowned by a bottle.

More than a half dozen soft drink bottles were tossed from the stands into the throng of nearly a thousand.

As the Deacon fans still in the stands taunted "Poor Carolina," Phil Buchanan, a junior from Waynesboro, Va., shinned up one tottering, remaining upright. He put a small Confederate flag at the top, slid down, and was carried away on student shoulders as the UNC rooters sang "There'll Be A Carolina Victory."

The South's ensign soon came loose. And it remained for a State graduate to do the UNC honors of the day.

Teeny Johnston of Shelby clambered back up the pole and put the Confederate flag up for a second time. A short while later he climbed to the pole's top again. This time Johnston capped the flag with a Carolina victory hat.

The crowd finally left after pleas from officials over the loud speakers.

Several hundred gathered on Raleigh Street to stop Wake Forest cars and jeer at the riders. One group made a bonfire of Baptist banners in the street, holding up traffic for about five or six minutes.

No direct violence was reported, however.

Infirmary officials said a person listed as Elbert Herring of Clinton, N. C., was treated for a scalp wound caused by a soft drink bottle.

University officials could not be reached for comment.

Graham Sees First Game At Carolina

By Don Maynard
Sen. Frank P. Graham went to Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon in search of a gift from the Carolina football team in celebration of his 64th birthday. But he was disappointed.

The junior senator, attending his first Carolina football game, just returned from Washington and the last session of Congress until elections.

Last night, however, he was the toasted guest at a surprise party held at his home on Pittsboro Road. Student Body President John Sanders led the congregation of students who honored the former University president.

Graham is leaving Chapel Hill today for Washington and a meeting of the National Securities Resources Board. Asked what he had in mind for the future after he relinquishes his seat in the Senate, the Senator replied, "Goodness knows."

There have been rumors that Graham would accept a post as President of the American Red Cross or as the United States delegate to the United Nations. Both of these speculations have been debunked by Graham.

Attending the game through the courtesy of the University were some 25 newspapermen from the state. Friday night they had been guests at a dinner held in Gov. Kerr Scott's mansion.

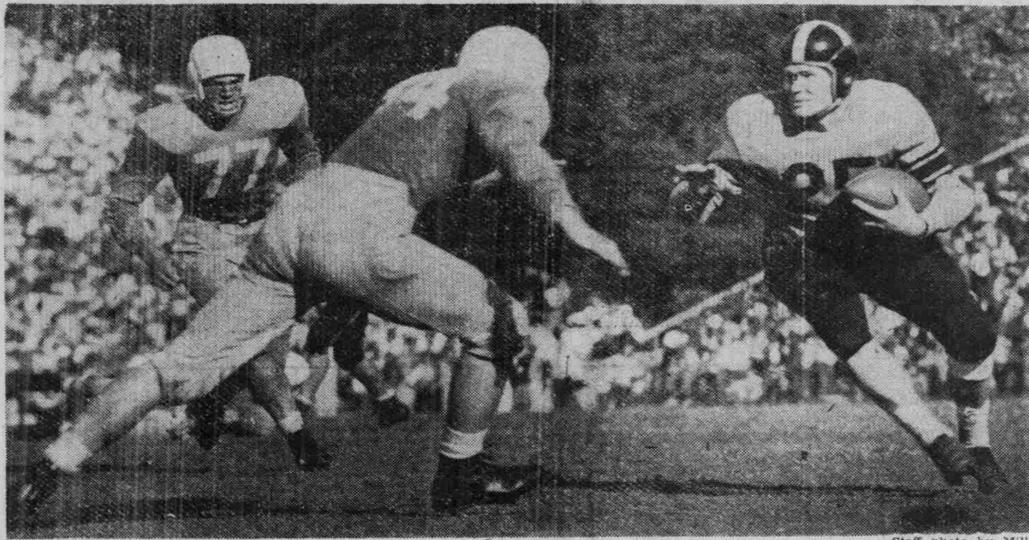

Gordon Gray was absent from the guest box yesterday, instead watching the N. C. State-Duke tilt in Raleigh.

Virginia Tops W&L, 26-21

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14—(UP)—Doughty Virginia, staggering before a Washington and Lee team determined to take its first Cavalier scalp in 13 years, struggled back from the edge of defeat today and won, 26-21, on a 45-yard pass play with less than two minutes to play.

More than 21,500 Tobacco Festival fans went nearly crazy when Virginia's Quarterback Rufus Barkley pitched 30 yards to Halfback Gerry Furst on the Generals' 15 and the little sophomore went on to the winning touchdown.

Gil Bocetti, Washington and Lee's brilliant Split-T Quarterback, set up two of the Generals' touchdowns and scored the third himself. But it was a Bocetti pass intercepted by Cavalier Halfback Norman Scott on Washington and Lee's 45 that set up the winning score.

PUTTING THE HEX ON CAROLINA'S PETE CARR is Demon Deacon William (Nub) Smith as he runs back a punt return in the first quarter of yesterday's Kenan Stadium affair. In the background is Tar Heel End Tom Higgins who finally teamed with Carr to halt Smith after a short gain up the sidelines. But the Deacs just weren't to be held down. Led by Smith's ground gaining antics and the flinging arm of Quarterback Dickie Davis, the lads from Baptist Hollow came back in the third period to tie the score and then went on to pull the contest out of the fire in the last ten seconds. They made it an unhappy afternoon all around for Tar Heel fans and took home a 13-7 victory, their first over Carolina since 1947. At the game's end, Nub and the boys were carried from the field on the shoulders of jubilant Wake Forest students. The Deacon coach was hoisted high up in the air, too. And a few minutes later fans from both sides were scrapping around the goal posts. This fray sent Bobby Blackwell, Deac manager from Orangeburg, S. C., to the field-house. He was unconscious after being hit by a soft drink bottle.

Choo Choo Signs Redskin Contract; Rumored $50,000 Plus Is At Stake

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—North Carolina's All-America halfback, Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice, finally made up his mind today to play pro football with the Washington Redskins.

After four months of negotiations which apparently ended last week when Justice said he would "definitely not play pro football," Choo-Choo said today:

"The offer has been made so attractive that I didn't feel I could afford to turn it down."

The 26-year-old tailback who led the college all-stars to a stunning 17-7 upset victory over the Philadelphia Eagles earlier this year told newsmen in Chapel Hill, N. C.:

"This is the hardest decision I have ever made in my life. My previous decisions not to play pro football were made in good faith and were based on my honor conviction at the time. I realize I have appeared to be wishy-washy, but the truth is that since my negotiations with the Washington Redskins a week ago there have been new developments."

Justice told Tribe President George Preston Marshall by telephone that he would be here Monday to sign the three-year contract which reportedly calls for more than $50,000.

In the absence of Head Coach Herman Ball, Backfield Coach Wilbur Moore said Justice would practice with the Tribe Monday and would make his debut against the Chicago Cardinals next Sunday, Oct. 22. Moore also said a backfield man will be released to make room for the fleet 175-pound Tar Heel but a decision on who it would be would be held up until Justice signs Monday.

The Tribe is expected to make room for Choo-Choo by moving "Bullet Bill" Dudley, a former

All-American from Virginia, to right halfback and installing Charlie in his regular left halfback decision. The other first-string backfield spots are held down by Harry Gilmer from Alabama and Rob Goode from the Texas Aggies.

Justice's collegiate record is truly a remarkable one. As a freshman, just out of the Navy, he made the All-America third team. As a sophomore he was on the AP All-America second team and the last two years the All-America first team.

He was not only an excellent passer, runner and kicker, he also starred on defense.

There was some skepticism about his ability but this was dispelled in the all-star game when he hung up runs of 47, 31, 28 and 12 yards which led to two touchdowns against the feared Eagles, one of which he scored himself.

Last Minute Score Is UNC Undoing

By Frank Allston, Jr.
A 41-yard pass from Dickie Davis to End Ed Butler with ten seconds remaining in the game gave the powerful Wake Forest gridders a hard-earned 13-7 Southern Conference victory over the defending champion Tar Heels in Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon before 43,500 fans.

The long heave climaxed an uphill struggle for the Deacons which saw them come from behind to tie the game at 7-all midway in the third period, then stave off a Tar Heel scoring threat at the goal line and finally register the six points that meant victory. It was Carolina's first Southern Conference loss since these same Deacons turned the trick in October of 1947.

Carolina's lack of scoring punch meant the downfall of the Big Blue warriors, who only last week tied Georgia, 0-0. Twice in the final period, the Tar Heel attack stalled for lack of power.

Billy Hayes and Bud Wallace collaborated on a 51-yard scoring pass with five minutes and 17 seconds elapsed in the first period to give Carolina a 7-0 lead which the Tar Heels held until Wake Forest broke the ice in the third frame.

Jones elected to receive the opening kickoff and returned the ball himself from his own 15 to the 24. Three running plays left the ball at scrimmage, so Jones punted to the Carolina 43 where the ball was downed. Wallace quick-kicked on second down for 55 yards to the Wake eight-yard line.

After trying three plays, Wake punted and Bunting hauled it back to the Carolina 45. Wallace picked up four yards at right tackle and Hayes missed End Tom Higgins with a hard pass.

Then Wallace went out on the left flank, got behind the secondary and caught Hayes' long floating pass on the Wake Forest 18. From there it was a simple matter to outrun the Deacon safety for the score. Fred Sherman came through with the seventh point on a conversion that split the uprights.

The remainder of the first quarter was spent around midfield with Carolina's Bunting and Wallace and Wake Forest's Jones and King doing plenty of punting.

Wake Forest started off the second quarter with a drive that carried from the Deacon 39 to the Carolina 15 where the scoring machine ran out of gas.

Midway in the quarter, Chalmers Port intercepted an errant Wake Forest aerial at the Carolina 33 and legged it back to the Wake Forest 38. Hayes passed to Gantt for eight and Wallace hit tackle for seven, but both sides were offside and Carolina couldn't make the first down.

Team Numb After Loss To Deacons

By Bill Peacock
The Tar Heels stumbled into their locker room, and slumped against the walls, too stunned and disgusted to undress. A few hurried to the showers, but most, like Dalt Ruffin, stared at the floor and cursed.

A student was brought into the room, bleeding profusely from a scalp wound. No one in the room looked up. It was that sort of day.

Carl Snively seemed to be as stunned as any of the players. He considered each question put to him for many seconds, before giving any sort of answer. Comptroller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., congratulated Snively for playing the game to win, rather than holding onto the ball and running out the time. Snively nodded a thanks.

No particular part of the team could be singled out for good or bad play, King Carl decided. "The defense was terrible, but it was no worse than the offense. They stopped us when we had the ball, but we couldn't stop them."

Was Wake Forest stronger than you expected, someone wanted to know. "They played about like I expected they would. They're a doggone big team. Our boys made contact with them, but couldn't move them." Snively paused again and added, "That Miller boy is a fine fullback. Those penalties hurt us terribly." Carolina had four first downs nullified by penalties.

A visiting reporter wished Coach Snively good luck for next weekend. "We'll have better luck next week; we don't play," Snively said. I think the layoff will help us."

Snively finished with: "The boys haven't shown the development since the Notre Dame game that we hoped for."

Charlie Justice popped in and tried to console Guard Joe Dudek: "You did all right. There's still six games left."

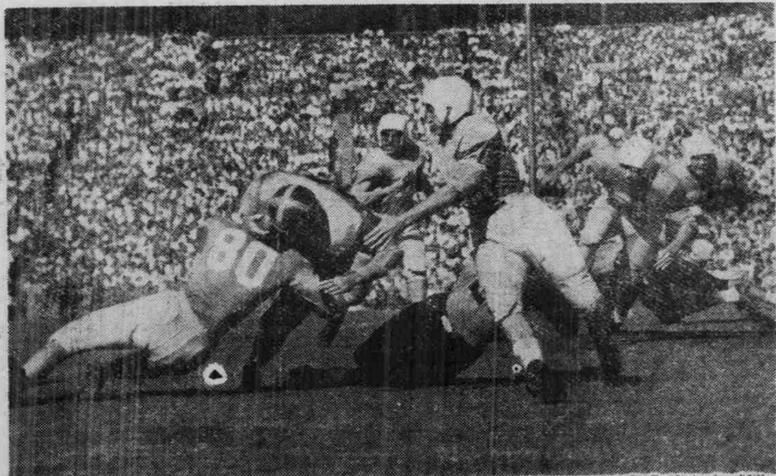

Wingback Bob (Goo-Goo) Gantt summed up the situation. "It's no fun to play ball like this—four games and only one win."

Clean Shaven?

Bushy Cook, keeper of Carolina mascot Rameses VI, may not be so bushy today.

He told a Daily Tar Heel reporter at yesterday's game that he had bet his beard on Carolina. "And I'm not worried either," he added.

At the game's end, and the short one for UNC of a 13-7 score, Bushy was nervously running his fingers through his lengthy growth. And probably worrying about that wager.

AN UNIDENTIFIED WAKE FOREST BACK is stopped by Carolina End Benny Walsler after making a small gain in yesterday's Big Four clash between the Tar Heels and the Demon Deacons in Kenan Stadium. Reaching out to help Walsler with the tackle is Tar Heel Bob Page. Other Carolina players pictured are Bill Kuhn (51) and Roscoe Hansen (76), both at the far right.

Mich. State Overpowers W&M, 33-14

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 14—(AP)—Michigan State College hit the comeback trail today with a sparkling 33 to 14 victory over a dead-game but disabled William and Mary eleven.

The powerful Michigan State team, playing before a homecoming crowd of 35,856 fans, drove almost at will through the South-erners' line.

Only in the last period did the visitors, both of whose scores were set up by Michigan State bobbles, stiffen and show an attack of their own. And that was against reserve - studded opposition.

The hometown Spartans were paced by the play of left halfback Sonny Grandelius who scored two of their five touchdowns. Other markers were made by Jesse Thomas, Leroy Crane and Don McAuliffe.

Honors for the visiting Indians were claimed by halfback Dickie Lewis, who tallied on Ed Magdzak's pass in the first period, and End George Helflin, who grabbed Paul Yewic's heave in the final stanza.
