By Zone Robbins
Who Said Over-Emphasis?

A GROUP OF SOME 50-odd students, interested townspeople, instructors, and what-have-you gathered in Di Hall of New West football. Seems many of the local scholars feel the footballers are getting too much cream in their coffee.

Some of those in favor of the de-emphasis contended that the University is spending too much money on football, and not enough in developing the academic status of UNC. In the past few years, however, Carolina has added a planetarium, is now building a new dormitory, a new school of business administration, making additions to the library and med school, and is undertaking a number of other projects to strengthen the academic standing of the University. During the same period, the footballers have seen an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse, and new press and guest boxes have replaced the outmoded boxes in Kenan Stadium. Is that over-emphasis of football?

Others contended that football plays such an important part in the life of Tar Heel students that the Intramural program is woefully neglected. The figures show that 347 men are entered in the mural wrestling tournament beginning today—and that's just one division of the manifold mural program. Over-emphasis of football?

Block Fee Blunder

ANOTHER POINT THAT WAS hinted at by the Dialectic Senate debaters was that some students pay the block fee and do not attend all home football games. So what? The Carolina Athletic Association touches not one penny of the money taken in by block fees. All that money goes to the Student Legislature for allocation to the various student organizations. And while on the subject, I doubt seriously if every student reads The Daily Tar Heel every day and goes to bed with a copy of Tarnation five times a year. And how many attend every performance of the artists brought to campus by the Student Entertainment Committee?

Then, too, there were those who declared that scholarship is badly crippled by the antics of 40-odd footballers during the fall. The records show that the difference in the all men's scholastic averages between the fall quarter and the winter quarter (highest average of any quarter) is only 0.1240. It must be taken into consideration in any discussion of scholastic differences that the green freshmen and transfer students are here for the first time during that period. And, of course, there are some of us who just naturally have a hard time in getting back into the swing of classes and night-time study after three months of relaxation. I wouldn't say football is to blame.

Football, by the way, is largely responsible for building and maintaining that fine Carolina spirit of which we are so proud. Opponents almost invariably compliment the UNC student body on its fine spirit and sportsmanship at any athletic event—let's remember where we got that spirit.

New York, Books and Di-Hards

REMEMBER THE NEW YORK trip last year? A rip-roaring gang of Tar Heels took the city by storm, peppered Manhattan with Confederate flags, had a wonderful time, and even caused the usually-calm countenances of dyed-in-the-wool New Yorkers to break into a happy, approving smile. The football team, you may remember, dropped a 42-6 game to Notre Dame in Yankee Stadium that weekend. Yes, the football team lost, but the student body won.

Some of the Di-hards found it well nigh impossible to reason that a school can have a good football team and a good academic record. One of the most commonly referred to parts of the various universities that came up for discussion was the library. Of the top 10 teams in this week's Associated Press football poll there are three universities boasting more than 1,000,000 million that is, books in their 'l'l' of libraries. Those three schools are Illinois, California, and Princeton—fair-to-middlin' halls of learning, I'd say. Army has been one of the perennial grid powers for the past several years, and West Point is without doubt one of the finest educational centers anywhere.

As one member of the Di so aptly put it after the good Senators had voted in favor of de-emphasis of football: "I suggest the members of the Di meet at 2 p. m. every Saturday, since there seems to be so little interest in football."

And what'll we debate next?

Tar Heel Cagers To Play Pros Here Tonight

Good Crowd Is Expected For Contest

The Carolina basketball team will play host to the Grand Rapids (Mich.) professionals at 8 o'clock tonight in Woollen Gym. Tonight's battle will be the final home game for the Tar Heels during the exhibition season.

The game originally scheduled here tomorrow night has been shifted to another site. Instead of playing the Tar Heels again on Friday, the pros will meet Wake Forest in a benefit game for Tom Scheer, a Deacon basketball letterman who was recently killed in an automobile wreck.

The Grand Rapids Hornets will be led by their coach, Bobby (Mr. Basketball) McDermott, a 2nd president, George Glamack, one of the all-time All-Americans. In addition to Glamack, another former Tar Heel will be in the Grand Rapids lineup. He is Fritz Nagy, who played freshman ball here a few years ago and then transferred to Akron University where he won All-American honors.

Leading the Carolina team in tonight's game will be Co-Captains Hugo Kappler and Charlie Thorne. Howard Deasy and Dick Patterson, starters on last year's team, are expected to see a lot of action tonight. Vince Grimaldi, Bud Maddie, and Jack Wallace, all up from last year's freshman outfit, are expected to be in the starting lineup along with Kappler and Deasy.

Rasslin' Begins

Intramural wrestling begins today in Woollen Gym with 347 gruni and groaners participating in the largest enrollment in the largest sport in the record.

Zeta Psi and "B" Dorm furnished the winning teams in their respective divisions last year, and the Zetas are expected to make a good showing again this year with such returning standouts as individual champions J. Chamblis—121 lbs., T. Gregory—136 lbs., and A. Gregory—165 lbs.

Other individual champions in the Fraternity division who are returning are: J. Bourne—145, Sigma Nu; R. Blades—175, DKE; B. Harris—heavyweight, Lambda Chi.

Penn State Will Play Tar Heel Soccermen

Students who do not make the trip to Tennessee this weekend will be able to see what is probably the best coached team in college soccer circles when Bill Jeffrey brings his undefeated Penn State Booters to Chapel Hill on Saturday to meet the once-beaten Tar Heels on Fetzer Field at 11 a. m.

The Nittany Lion soccer team is at present on a 20-game winning streak.

Only once this year have the Penn Staters been pushed and that was when Navy lost to them, 1-0. Cornell and San Francisco hold ties with Penn State during this three year streak. The tie with Frisco enabled the Pacific Coast team to gain the Co-National Championship last year in the soccer bowl in St. Louis.

Jeffrey has coached the Nittany Lions for 25 years and saw them go through a pre-war streak of 65 straight wins. His 24-year record stands at 134 wins, 21 losses and 27 ties prior to this year.

His 13 unbeaten teams have placed 34 different men on All-America teams. This year his outfit is paced by three All-Americans, Harry Little, inside left, Ron Coleman, inside left, and Joe Lane, center forward.

Last year the Tar Heels were one of the two teams that gave the Nittany Lions a scare. Carolina dropped a close decision, 3-2, at Penn State while Maryland, Southern Conference winner, forced Penn State into overtime before losing, 2-1. Incidentally, the Maryland Conference win was a result of 1-0 victory of the same Tar Heels.

Penn State, after another National Championship with its strong this year and could break formidable array of stars, will be loose on any afternoon this fall.

BILL JEFFREY
Penn State coach

a heavy favorite, but the once beaten Tar Heels may prove a match for the Nittany Lions with such men as Eddie Foy, Bud Sawyer, and Bob Brannon in the front line and Bill Rhoades and Buck Blankenship on the defense.

The Tar Heels are potentially strong this year and could break loose on any afternoon this fall.

Moody Leads In Decathlon Over Terrell

Jack Moody, varsity trackman, took a substantial lead over Laddie Terrell in the open division of the Campus-wide Decathlon after the first full day of competition yesterday.

Moody swept first place in the broad jump, high jump and 110-meter high hurdles. Big Jack jumped 6 ft. 3 in. to top the high jump and leaped 22 ft. in the broad jump. His time for the highs was 15.8.

Terrell, who ran an 11.4 100-meters to tie with Bill Crimmons for the day's best performance and high jumped 6 ft., will probably gain ground on Moody when the 400-meters are run this afternoon.

Coaches Joe Hilton and Dick Maxwell, who are directing the event, said yesterday that the program would probably run through Friday rather than ending today as originally scheduled. The decathlon is being run off in four divisions, open, freshman, fraternity and dormitory. Trophies will be awarded to the first three men in each division.

In the freshman division, Billy Duke took the first day's lead. He ran the 100 meters in 11.5 and broad jumped 19 ft. Sonny Beall ran the 110, highs in 16.7.

Tar Heels Lose To Pros 82-77 In Charlotte Tilt

CHARLOTTE, Nov. 1-(AP)—The two teams tangle again tonight at Woollen Gym in Chapel Hill.

The Grand Rapids Hornets of the National pro Basketball League won their ninth straight game of their North Carolina exhibition tour, 82-77, over the University of North Carolina here tonight.

The collegians closed fast but could not overcome a 43-34 half-time deficit.

Leading scorers with 18 points apiece were George Glamack of Grand Rapids and Hugo Kappler of North Carolina. Elmore Morgenthaler, seven foot center for the pros, had 15. For the collegians Jack Wallace made 14 and Howard Deasy 12.

At the end of the third quarter, the Hornets led Carolina, 61-48.

Hayes Has Fractured Cheekbone Reset; Team Scrimmages Late For Big Game

Coach Carl Snaveley still does not know whether he will have the services of injured Fullback Billy Hayes when the Tar Heels tangle with Tennessee gridgers in Knoxville Saturday.

Reports from Durham yesterday stated that the condition of Hayes was not such that doctors could say whether he would or would not be able to play. Coaches were still hopeful, however, that he would be able to play since the doctors would not definitely say that he would be out.

Officials at McPherson Hospital said that his fractured cheekbone was reset yesterday afternoon and that he might be released today.

The team worked until after 6 o'clock with the lights turned on for a heavy scrimmage session. Much of the defensive stress was put on pass defense and linemen getting downfield under punts.

The defensive team also got a good workout against Tennessee plays, especially passing.
