

Billy Williams Leads Tar Babies In Victory Over Virginia

Old Rivalry Comes Due

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 3 — It's Carolina versus the rough, tough Volunteers of Tennessee here at Shields-Watkins Field tomorrow afternoon, and this is another of those games where anything can happen—and usually does.

The Carolina-Tennessee rivalry dates back to 1893 and is the oldest renewal on the Volunteer schedule this fall. In 20 games, Tennessee has come out second best against the Tar Heels only eight times. One game ended in a 0-0 deadlock, but the Vols have won the other 11 engagements.

All is not black on the Carolina side of the ledger, however. Carolina holds the distinction of running up the highest score on a Tennessee team. That happened the very first meeting of the two schools when the Tar Heels piled it on to the tune of 60-0. Last year's 35-6 win over Carolina marked the highest point total the Vols have ever amassed against the Blue and White gridders.

Vols Are Favored

THE VOLS ARE FAVORED by some 14 points in tomorrow's game, but the bookies learned a long time ago that it's best to tear up the parlay card, forget about the dope bucket when the two inter-conference foes mix it up. Tennessee was favored two years ago here in Knoxville when Carolina chased the Vols up and down the field for 60 minutes to pull a 14-7 upset. The odds were reversed last year when the mighty Tar Heels played host to the Hillbillies at Kenan Stadium.

As things turned out, the score was also reversed—reversed and a few points added. The Vols won that one, 35-6, and Carolina has never quite recovered from the blow.

In fact, the Navy Field keynote all week has been "Remember '49." That blow stunned the Tar Heels last year, and was one of the most disgraceful defeats suffered by a Carolina team in recent years. The gridders are determined it won't happen again this year—odds or no odds.

Big Huck Holdash, All-America center candidate, said a few days ago, "We'll beat 'em by 20 points." Blockingback Paul Rizzo seconded, and the motion carried unanimously—although all the players didn't agree on the 20-point margin. Some said it'll be Carolina by 35, others said Carolina by six, but all said Tennessee will be on the short end of the string when the firing ceases tomorrow afternoon.

Tennessee Is Strong

TENNESSEE IS PLENTY STRONG this year, and it will take a lot of doing for the Tar Heels to upset the Volunteer appalcarr. The Hillbillies lost to Mississippi State, 7-0, in the second game of the year, but have brushed aside five other opponents with comparative ease.

Washington and Lee's Generals proved last week that the Knoxville lads are not invincible, however, as they extended the Vols to the limit before dropping a 27-20 decision. It might be said here that the Generals had the edge in statistics in that battle despite the final outcome. W&L rolled up 19 first downs to Tennessee's eight, picked up 251 yards rushing to 171 for the Vols and passed for 75 yards while Tennessee was stopped cold in the aerial department.

The Volunteers, nevertheless, are powerful in every department. Bud Sherrod is rated as one of the finest defensive ends in the nation. Duke will testify to that. Big Johnny Gruble, a Mount Any product, has been one of the top offensive ends in the SEC for the past two years, and is going great guns again this season.

Jack Stroud and Pug Pearman of Charlotte are topnotch tackles, and Ted Daffer is rated one of the finest guards in the conference. Bobby Davis and Bill Jasper give the Vols plenty of strength at center. In the backfield, the Vols have Tailback Hank Lauricella, Bert Rechlar, and Ken Pruet, all of whom can really move with the ball.

Add to this impressive combination, the coaching wizardry of General Bob Neyland and you have a pretty tough shell to crack—but here's at least one vote that says Carolina has enough to dump the high-and-mighty Hillbillies in Tennessee.

Out on a skinny limb, but with one hand grasping tight the old school tie, I'm picking the Tar Heels to defeat Tennessee tomorrow by the score of 21-7.

Tennessee Favored In Game Against Tar Heels Today

between the two teams, Tennessee holds the edge. The Volunteers have won 10 of the games, Carolina has taken eight and there is a lone tie on the books, that coming in 1919.

Since General Bob Neyland took over the reins at the Tennessee institution, however, his teams have won eight of 11 games. Snavelly, however, has coached five Carolina teams against Tennessee and they won three of those games, in 1936, 1947 and 1948.

Tennessee operates out of the "Tennessee single wing" which is basically the same as the Snavelly system. The Vol formation uses a balanced line whereas Carolina's calls for an unbalanced forward wall.

Tailback Hank Lauricella, wingback Bert Rechlar and Fullbacks Andy Kozar and Dick Ernsberger pace the Vol attack. All three are powerful runners and Lauricella is one of the Southeastern Conference's better passers.

Up front, a typical rock-wall-end Neyland line provides murderous blocking ahead of the ball carriers. Neyland always turns out what is considered to be one of the nation's top lines. In 18 years at Knoxville General Bob has turned out six All-America linemen.

Horace (Bud) Sherrod has received rave notices for two years for his defensive line play. Sherrod plays the strong side and wrecked Duke's running game in Durham a month ago when the Vols pounded out a 27-7 win.

UNC Tops Cavaliers Here, 34-0

By Bill Peacock

Billy Williams, a running and passing star from Henderson, put on a one man show yesterday as the freshman football team won its first game since 1948, walloping the University of Virginia frosh, 34-0 in Kenan Stadium.

The shifty 164 pound tailback, one of the state's top high school stars last year, scored three touchdowns, one of them on a 102 yard kickoff return. In addition he kicked four extra points, handled a good part of the passing, and punted once.

He had fine support from the entire team which ran over the Virginians for its first win in three games this year. Charles Motta, a speedy wingback from Tennek, N. J., was a consistent long gainer on reverses and scored one touchdown.

Williams gave the Tar Babies their first touchdown shortly before the end of the first quarter when he went 15 yards over left tackle. The drive began on the Carolina 46 after End Ken Yarborough partially blocked a punt by Wilson Tinsley, Motta went to the Virginia 22 on a reverse, but Dick Lackey, replacing Williams, was thrown on the next play back to the 40.

But Williams started the drive again by passing to Bill Ryder on the 34 and Motta carried on another reverse down to the 15. From there Williams scored standing. He added the extra point with Motta holding.

Williams took Russell Carrocio's second half kickoff two yards in his own end zone and burst up the middle behind almost perfect blocking to score unmoleted. His placement for the extra point was good.

Guard Jack Maulstys of Chapel Hill recovered a fumble by Nick Klonis on the Virginia 24 to set up Carolina's third touchdown. Williams went down the right side to the eight yard line on first down, and Motta took a reverse around left end for the tally.

A moment later Williams rang up his third touchdown of the day, this one a 64-yard pass interception runback. He took a Wheat Wallenborn pass on his own 36 and went down the left sideline for the touchdown. His placement was good, but Carolina was penalized for holding and he missed a second attempt from the 17 yard line.

Carolina's final touchdown was a 17-yard pass from reserve tailback Lewis Britt to End Jeff Newton. Running plays by John Gaylord, Tommy Medlin, and Lackie, plus a 15 yard roughing penalty carried the ball to the 17.

The Virginians, led by quarterback Sonny Nichols, who directed the split-T, were extremely spotty and could not maintain a sustained drive. Donald Alexander, a 214-pound guard was a defensive star for the Cavaliers.

Score by periods:
North Carolina 0 7 20 7—34
Virginia 0 0 0 0—0
Scoring: North Carolina — Touchdowns: Williams 3, Motta, Newton. Points after touchdown, Williams 4 (placement).

JOE DUDECK AND ROSCOE HANSEN, two of Carolina's strongest defensive linemen, are expected to see plenty of action against Tennessee's rugged Volunteers in Knoxville today. Dudeck and Hansen have played outstanding ball all year, and were instrumental in Carolina's 40-7 rout of William and Mary last week.

Cross Country Team Meets Tennessee Harriers Today

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

KNOXVILLE, Nov. 3—The Carolina cross country team arrived here this afternoon for its meet with the strong University of Tennessee harriers tomorrow morning.

Coaches Dale Ranson and Tommy Scott and five team members arrived by car. Another came on the football plane and the remaining three are due on the "Carolina Caravan" tomorrow morning.

The hopes of the Carolina team to bring its season record up to three and three rest on the shoulders of Gordon Hamrick, Co-Captains Frank Hooper and Otis Honeycutt and Bill Burgess. If these top four men can place high in the first seven and the fifth man turns in a good performance, the Tar Heels might win.

Tennessee, sparked by ace Swedish runner Alf Holmberg will be favored to defeat the Tar Heels. John Trent, the number two man for the Vols, Frank Albertson, John Blane, Walter Duval and Al Kuykendall round out the Tennessee top men.

Also running for Carolina tomorrow and fighting for that fifth spot will be Bobby Webb, Jack Bennett, Jerry Lewis, John Ross and Thomas Norman. One of this quintet will compete unofficially, however.

Carolina's record to date shows wins over Davidson and William and Mary and losses to State, Duke and Maryland.

Chapel Hill Edged, 18-13

By Ed Starnes

Chapel Hill High put up a great battle last night but a 67-yard run by Connie Gravitte in the last two minutes gave Roxboro High a 18-13 victory in the Homecoming game at Carrboro Stadium.

Chapel Hill went ahead late in the final period by a 13-12 score. Hoot Neville kicked an extra point after Goodwin had caught his second touchdown pass. The game appeared won, but on the first play from scrimmage after the kickoff, Gravitte swept his right end and danced a jig down the sideline to score. It broke the hearts of the fighting Wildcats.

Gravitte gave his team a 6-0 lead in the second quarter when he hit left tackle, cut inside, reversed his field and outran the entire Chapel Hill team 65 yards to the goal.

Tech-Duke Tilt Today

DURHAM, Nov. 3—While no championships, no national ratings and no unbeaten records are at stake, one of the "gol-darndest" finest football games of the current season is expected here today when Duke and Georgia Tech clash in Duke stadium at 2 o'clock.

The two teams have the record of furnishing southern grid fans year in and year out with highly thrilling football games and this clash will certainly be no exception.

The Engineers have as much—maybe more of their famous "razzle dazzle" as ever and they will cut it loose tomorrow. They have the record through the years of being a team able "to do anything, at anytime, anywhere."

Two of Tech's losses this year have been to a pair of the most highly rated teams in the nation—S.M.U. and Kentucky. Most of the experts say that the Engineers are the most improved team in the south as the season has rolled along.

But this will be a different Duke team than the Yellow Jackets have met in the past. This 1950 edition of Blue Devils, cerebral of the post-war teams, have a lot of trick stuff of their own.

They will throw all that against Duke team and at the same time cut loose with the finest passing attack in Duke history and one of the best aerial games in the entire nation.

Carolina Soccer Team Meets Unbeaten Penn State Today

The big day that the Carolina soccer team and its fans have been waiting for since the Booters held Penn State to a 3-2 win last season arrives this morning at 11:00 when the Tar Heels get their second shot at the co-national champions as the Penn State Nittany Lions invade Fetzer Field.

The Nittany Lions carry a streak of 25 straight victories into today's game with the Tar Heels as Coach Bill Jeffrey, coach of the American Cup teams and 25 year coach at Penn State, continues to coach his team to another national championship.

To try and lead the northern boys to their sixth straight victory of the season will be Harry Little, Ron Coleman, and Joe Lane. This triumvirate of all-americas will compose the very center of the Lion forward wall.

Coach Marvin Allen is hoping that the defeat that the local booters received Tuesday from Duke will spur them on to knock off the favored Penn State.

Allen feels that the team needs to play a little harder and get on the ball more often. Yesterday Allen in the final practice had the team working on keeping the ball low—a trick used successfully by the visitors.

The probable starting lineup for the Tar Heels will be somewhat different than that which has started the previous games. Allen is still experimenting with a team that lost its centerforward, Gus Varkaris, early this fall.

The lineup: LW-Gwynn, RW-Milledge, LI-Sawyer, RI-Winsor, SF-MacCalman, LH - Montgomery, RH-Goslin, CH-Foy, RF-Rhoades, LF-Kalb, and G-Blankenship.

Sommy Snead Victor In North-South Open

By Daily Tar Heel Wire Services

PINEHURST, Nov. 3—Defending Champion Sommy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, Va., shot a two-under-par 70 here today to edge Johnny Palmer of Badin for top honors in the annual North-South Open Golf Tournament. Snead's 72-hole total was 275; Palmer's was 279.

Claude Harmon, Mamaronock, N. Y., matched Snead's 70 today to take third place honors with a 281 total. Julius Boros of Mid Pines and Tommy Bolt of Durham tied for fourth spot with identical 282's.

Durham, N. C., Nov. — Duke University's football teams have won 11 games against Georgia Tech elevens and have lost six.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 5...THE GNU

"I gnu the answers...but I wasn't talking!"

The debating team couldn't make much use of this non-talkative baby...but one look at his "literary leanings" tells you that tests don't buffalo him. Specially those tricky cigarette tests! As a smoker, you probably know, too, that one puff or one sniff—or a mere one-inhale-comparison can't prove very much about a cigarette!

Why not make the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test. You judge Camel mildness and flavor in your own "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste) ...for 30 days. Yes, test Camels as a steady smoke and you'll see why...
