Report From Manhattan

OUR SPECIAL MANHATTAN CORRESPONDENT penned a note the other day about Art Weiner, our dear, departed All-America end. The correspondent, Joe Petritz, also handles publicity for the New York Yankees in his spare time and knows his business pretty well when it comes to sounding off about the Yank team members.

Petritz had this to say about Weiner: "Art got off to a slow start, as do most rookies, and has gradually climbed in the receiving department while doing an increasingly better job each week as a blocker. He hasn't been used on defense, but we know he could be moved there any time."

"In our upset of the Chicago Bears last Sunday (Oct. 29), 38-27, Art caught three for 119 yards and a touchdown, setting up another TD with a beautiful catch and run. His TD play covered 58 yards and put the Yanks ahead, 28-13, after they had trailed, 13-0, in the first seven minutes. All passes were from George Ratterman (the 'Yankees' ace quarterback)."

Strader Praises Big Art

PETRITZ ALSO MENTIONED PRAISE heaped upon Weiner by the Yankee coach, Red Strader. Strader, one of the top coaches in pro football said, "He (Weiner) is one of the finest rookies we've seen this year in the entire league, and now that he has got his bearings, he should be a really outstanding star."

"He's one of the finest and most cooperative players I've ever worked with and it's a real pleasure to have him on our squad. He came to us extremely well grounded in fundamentals, as might be expected from a Carl Snavely product."

"That's a pretty nice pat on the back from one of the game's most astute coaches, and Tar Heelia can well be proud of one of its favorite adopted sons. Art, by the way, plans to return to Chapel Hill after the close of the pro grid season, and will play on Coy Carson's Carolina Clowns basketball team."

But let's take a look at the statistics. They tell a pretty tale about our favorite end. Weiner tops all Yankee ends in the scoring department with four six-pointers, and ranks fifth in team scoring. He has hauled in 14 aeriels for a net gain of 347 yards. Topping him in the pass-catching department is the veteran Bruce Edwards who has nabbed 31 passes for 494 yards. Weiner has the edge over Edwards in the averages, however. The ex-Tar Heel has averaged approximately 25 yards per catch, while Edwards' average stands just under the 16-yard per catch mark.

Don't Forget Choo Choo

OF COURSE IT'S IMPOSSIBLE to forget Charlie Justice in any discussion of Carolina alumni and pro football. The mighty Choo is looking better and better as he gets more big-time experience under his belt. Two weeks ago Justice scampered 71 yards against his old cousins, the Philadelphia Eagles, and did yeoman duty at halfback for the Washington Redskins—but the 'Skins lost.

Last week Charlie made a neat catch of a Sammy Baugh pass and skipped into touchdownland for the Washingtonians' first touchdown. Bill Dudley's foot following the tee-dee tied the Redskins and New York Giants at 7-all.

Justice continued his fine offensive work throughout the game and sparked several Washington drives—but the Redskins lost. A number of newspapermen jumped all over Charlie for his last play of the day. On that one, Justice took a lateral from Hugh Taylor and tried to toss the ball out of bounds to stop the clock, giving his mates time for one more play—and an opportunity to break the 21-all deadlock that prevailed at the time.

As fate would have it, a Giant lineman charged in to intercept the attempted out-of-bounds lateral, and Ray Poole booted a 40-yard field goal as the final gun sounded to give the New Yorkers a three-point victory.

Justice's boner was, at least, an honest one. Those made by other Redskins were the result of dumb play analysis or just plain lack of thought. Two Washington backs had, only a few seconds before, stood by while a Giant runner trotted into the end zone with the third New York tee-dee. Poole added the point from placement that knotted the battle and set the stage for Justice's costly blunder.

Still it seems the two ex-All-Americans are giving pretty fair accounts of themselves in their rookie season in the big time.

UNC Frosh End Second, Varsity Third

By Frank Allston, Jr.

RALEIGH, Nov. 6—State College's harriers scored a double win here this afternoon in the State cross country meet, edging Duke, 34-40, in the varsity meet and clipping Carolina, 43-49, in the freshman action.

The Carolina frosh had seemingly won their meet until an official calculation of scores at the end of the meet showed that the State frosh had won by a slight margin.

In the varsity meet, Carolina scored 66 points while fourth-place Davidson amassed 78.

Other Scores

Other freshman scores were Duke 81 and Davidson 85. Pfeiffer Junior College, an unofficial team entry, had only three contestants and did not figure in the scoring.

Tar Heel Gordon Hamrick started off the varsity meet fast and led for the first mile and a quarter. Clyde Garrison stuck close behind and then passed Hamrick at the point, increasing his lead to fifty yards at the two-mile mark. He never relinquished the lead after that.

Garrison's winning time was 20:56.5, breaking the old course record of 22:05.1, set by Garrison in October, by better than a full minute. The first ten men all broke the old record. This was the first time that the State meet was run over the course used here today.

Mayer Sets Record

Duke freshman Bob Mayer also set a new mark for the freshman course, speeding the two-and-a-half miles in 13:38.2 to break the record of 13:59 which he set here three weeks ago in a dual meet with State.

Hamrick wound up ninth in the varsity, running the four miles in 21:51. Co-captains Frank Hooper and Otis Honeycutt finished eleventh and thirteenth respectively. Their respective times were 22:06 and 22:19. Other Tar Heel finishers were Bobby Webb, fifteenth; John Ross, eighteenth; Jack Bennett, 24th, and Tommy Norman, 26th.

Soccer Team Hopes To Avenge Duke Loss Today; Conference Title In Balance

After dropping two contests last week the Carolina soccer team is out for a new start this week, with its eyes pointing towards the Southern Conference title, when it tries to avenge its 3-0 defeat last week to a strong Duke club that will be here today on Fetzler Field at 3 o'clock for the last game in a home and home series.

Duke hopes to make it a clean sweep and knock the Tar Heels out of contention for the title this year. If Carolina can win today and go on to win its games against Washington and Lee and N. C. State, the team will have the best record in the conference except for Maryland, whom the Tar Heels play in their last game of the year.

A loss to Carolina would be Duke's second since the Blue Devils lost to Maryland. State has already been beaten by the Tar Heels. The Generals were tied by Virginia. Maryland does not play as many games as do the Tar Heels; thus the nod for the title would go to the Tar Heels.

Carolina held the title in 1948 and lost it last year when Maryland beat the local booters, 1-0, to close down last year's campaign.

Coach Marvin Allen's charges are in high spirits for the Duke game after playing their hearts out against Penn State. Members of the national championship club said that the Tar Heels gave them their toughest game.

Allen held practice sessions yesterday and Sunday to polish off the more aggressive offense shown Saturday, and if the team can show as well today it should play a closer game with the Blue Devils, and go on to put the title on the line against the Terrapins Nov. 20.

Carolina scored 10 goals in its first two games but has gone scoreless in its last two times out. Carolina is outscoring its opponents, 12-7, but unfortunately has not distinguished the goals evenly and consequently has a win-loss record of three and two with those four Conference games remaining.

Hayes, Holdash In Light Togs As Tar Heels Drill For Terps

Fullback Billy Hayes returned to football practice yesterday as the Tar Heels held long drills under the lights of Navy Field in preparation for this Saturday's game with Maryland.

Hayes donned light equipment, but took part in all the offensive drills. Captain Huck Holdash, who injured his shoulder against Tennessee, also worked out in light equipment, but did not practice with either the offensive or defensive teams.

Defensive End Glen Nickerson, who suffered a sprained knee Saturday, did not attend practice. However, both Nickerson and Holdash are expected to be able to play full time against Maryland.

While the offensive team held the regular Monday drills, the defensive team worked against a team running the Maryland Split-T formation. Maryland, coached by former Carolina tackle Jim Tatum, has won five of seven games this year including a win over Michigan State. Last week they ran up an easy 23-7 win over George Washington.

The Tar Heels showed a lot of spirit and hustle, running through the drills with enthusiasm. End Coach George Radman, who has scouted the Terps all year, directed the Carolina team against Maryland offensive and defensive formations.

Cadets Lead Football Poll

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 — (AP) — Army nosed out Ohio State in a photo finish today to recapture the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press weekly college football poll. Southern Methodist, leader the past two weeks, tumbled to seventh place with only two firsts among 314 votes.

Ohio State's high-scoring machine actually received more first place ballots than Army, 94-88 but the Cadets rolled up enough points for second and third to eke out a win, 2,451 to 2,402.

Texas, which knocked SMU out of the perfect record class, moved into fifth position with 11 firsts and 1,911 points.

Terp Tickets

Tickets for the UNC-Maryland game are selling fairly fast but an ample number of seats are still available in the end zones and in the corner sections on both sides.
