CAROLINA RALLIES LATE TO TIE TERPS, 7-7

MU President Thinks He Got Big Demotion

Byrd Was Grid Coach 23 Years At Terp School

By Don Maynard
A man who felt he "received a demotion" when he was named president of the University of Maryland after serving as the school's football coach for 23 years played armchair general from the Kenan Stadium president's box yesterday afternoon and said there was no predicting the winner of the Carolina-Maryland game.

By Frank Allston, Jr.
An underdog Carolina eleven played Maryland's heavily-favored Terps to a standstill in wet Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon to gain a 7-all, deadlock, before 32,000 fans. An all-day drizzle had turned the Kenan turf into a veritable mudhole and seriously handicapped Maryland's tricky Split-T offense.

Goo-Goo Credited Holdash With Tying Team Up Before the Game

Goo-Goo credited Holdash with tying the team up before the game with a little talk to the team. "I can't remember what I said, now, but I told them we ought to win the game," Holdash explained. "This proves that we can play good ball if we want to," said Huck. "And we're going to play good ball for the rest of the season."

George Norris and Bob Gantt, who both played 60 minutes of football, were singled out by Coach Snavelly.

"Norris, you know, is just a sophomore, and I wasn't sure how he could handle his job and Nickerson's too. And you know Gantt is sorta smart to play two tough positions, backing the right side and playing wingback."
