UP Switches Its Policy Regarding Meetings

More Interest In Government Aim Of Party

Sororities, Dorms, Fraternity Groups Will Get Meetings

In a move to "carry its policy-making to the students," the University Party has junked its traditional policy of holding its meetings in Graham Memorial.

According to Party Chairman Dick Jenrette, all future meetings will be held in dormitories, fraternities, and sorority houses.

The decision to take the meetings out of Graham Memorial and into the dorms and fraternity houses was made by the party in its regularly scheduled Tuesday night meeting. The motion was carried unanimously.

Jenrette reported the move was the first by the party in an effort to rejuvenate interest in student government campus activities, and politics.

"Usually you find the same group of students attending party meetings each week," he added. "By rotating the meetings over the campus we expect to come in to contact with many students who never before have taken an interest in campus affairs."

Publicity Chairman Frank Daniels said yesterday the first meeting of the University Party under the new plan will be in the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity house, with the next tentatively scheduled for B Dormitory. Daniels added that efforts will be made to hold meetings involving nominations in the districts from which the nominees are being selected.

In other action this week, the UP filled two legislative vacancies. Pat George was nominated for a seat in the Women's Town District while Bob Glenn was chosen for the vacant Town Men's District 4 seat.

The following committee to draw up the University Party platform for the spring elections was appointed: John Stump, Jack Lackey, Ralph Craver, Ben James, and Archie Myatt. Myatt, as vice-chairman of the party, will head the committee.

The UP will begin its nominations for spring elections on Tuesday, Feb. 6.

Langford Wins Prize In Florida Exhibit

Eugene Langford, art student here, has been notified that his "Fishing Village" has been awarded first place in oils at the St. Augustine, Fla., national art exhibit.

In addition to a $100 prize, the citation carries with it national recognition in fine art circles. The show is to be reported in Art Digest, the article to be accompanied by photographs of the winning pictures.

Tactics Changed

The Sad Old Man of the Yackety Yack, Jimmy Mills, decided yesterday to completely change his tactics, at least about trying to collect snapshots from uncooperative students.

Mills was startled by a man who walked into the Yack office and said, "I wasn't going to give you this snapshot, but my wife made me come up here." The picture showed the same man with a baby on his knees.

From now on, Jimmy is through appealing to students. He said today that he was going to concentrate on asking students' wives.

Deacs Announce 3-Year Program

High School Graduates May Enter In June Under Accelerated Policy

WAKE FOREST, Jan. 24—(AP)—Wake Forest College today announced it is offering an accelerated program in which students may graduate within three years.

College President Harold W. Tribble said that under the program high school graduates could enter summer school next June and receive their diplomas in June, 1954. They would have to complete the required number of credit hours in the regular terms and three summer sessions.

AF Accepts Volunteers February 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Air Force today announced the resumption of volunteer enlistments Feb. 1.

Recruiting was halted last week to ease crowded conditions at Lackland, Tex., Air Force Base.

Present schedules call for the admission of 1,200 recruits daily at Lackland, and 300 daily at the recently opened Sampson, N. Y., air training base. The Air Force said more trainees will be channeled to Sampson as soon as more buildings are completed there.

The Navy today extended its temporary freeze on voluntary enlistments at least to the end of this week.

Navy recruiting was halted last week because training centers were taxed to capacity.

New System Is Instituted By Di Senate

The Dialectic Senate has instituted a new debate rating system, one which promises recognition of individual and team preparation and presentation of debate.

Last Monday night, when senators discussed a bill calling for the concentration of American military strength in the western hemisphere, the negative debaters were rated the winners and John M. Schorenberg named "speaker of the evening."

Senators defeated the bill to the count of 19-2 after attackers of the measure had pointed out its isolationist tendencies. Neophyte Senator Charles Carroll pointed out in his first speech before the body, "The United States must pursue actively its present policy of supporting European nations in their fight for peace."

Carroll, a freshman from Burlington was joined by James M. Maynard, also of Burlington, in the oath of allegiance to the Senate.

Nehru Thinks Reds Sincere

NEW DELHI, Jan. 24—(UP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today expressed conviction that the Chinese Communists seek direct negotiations to end the Korean war.

He said in a radio broadcast that to brand the Chinese Reds as aggressors would only make things worse and might end hope of a negotiated peace.

Nehru called on both sides to stop long distance diplomatic exchanges and denunciations and to get together at a conference table.

Women's Court Changes Policy On Voting Rule

Coeds Also Change Publication Rule By Unanimous Vote

Changes in both the voting procedure and publication policy of the Women's Council were announced yesterday by Winifred Harris, council chairman. Both were adopted unanimously by the coed court.

New voting regulations provide that two thirds of the voting members must be present before any business can be considered. In order for any business to be enacted, two-thirds of this quorum must pass on it.

This is a change from the old requirement of a majority vote on all matters.

Because of last spring's constitutional changes, the Council now has 11 members.

Chairman Harris also announced that from now on a listing of all cases coming before the Council will be published in The Daily Tar Heel two weeks after a decision has been made.

However, no names will be given in these releases. This is in accordance with the practice of the Men's Council. In past years the Women's Council has followed a policy of no publication whatsoever of its actions.

18-Year Draft Will Hit Colleges—NEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Defense Department's proposal to draft 18-year-old boys for 27 months military service was criticized sharply today by a spokesman for the National Education Association.

He told a Senate Preparedness Subcommittee that the plan if carried into effect would force

The witness, Ralph W. McDonald, a former University of North Carolina professor, was outspoken in his opposition to the plan: to cut the draft age from 19 to 18, extend the period of service from 21 to 27 months, and install as soon as possible a permanent system of universal

Lady Rings Bell Again Tonight

Mrs. Spencer's Fight To Reopen University To Be Featured On University Hour Tonight

By Walt Dear

"Not only the smartest woman in North Carolina, but the smartest man, too."

These words of Zeb Vance, one time governor of our Tar Heel state, aptly describe Cornelia Phillips Spencer, the woman who was responsible for reorganizing and reopening the University of North Carolina in 1875.

The story of Mrs. Spencer and her fight to rid the University of a corrupt administration and replace it with real educators is being portrayed this week by the University Hour series on 46 stations throughout the state. Starting its seventh week of broadcasting, the greater University sponsored-program will bring to the microphone one of Carolina's most outstanding personalities.

Based on Philip Russell's "The Lady Who Rang The Bell," which won the Mayfair Award last year, the dramatization was written by Gail Oliver of Wilmington, a radio major. Under the direction of Arthur V. Briskin, producer-director of the series, and with a staff of over 20, the program recounts the stirring events that happened before the rebirth of the University and the powerful influence of Mrs. Spencer whose articles spearheaded the drive to re-establish the University without politics.

Louisa Cartledge, graduate student from Pisgah Forest, will play the title role of Mrs. Spencer. As a star in the Playmaker production of "Romeo and Juliet," Miss Cartledge received much acclaim. She has also done much radio acting. She is a dramatic art major.

Mrs. Spencer's crowning achievement was in 1875 when she rang the bell announcing the rebirth of the University. By means of her articles appearing in the now defunct Raleigh Sentinel, she was able to arouse the public and the state legislature to reorganize the University and start it on its way of educating Tar Heels again.

The Spencer dormitories here and at Greensboro are named after her.

As a Greater University project, the University Hour is presented each week on a State-wide hookup for the purpose of acquainting Tar Heels with the stories of great sons and daughters.

Ranking Officers In 8th Army Claim Initiative On War Front

Abortive Offensive By Enemy Forces Seems Petered Out

WITH U. S. 8th ARMY, KOREA, Jan. 25—(UP)—Ranking officers of the U. S. 8th Army agreed cautiously today that the Allies held the initiative in Korea for the first time since the start of the abortive end-the-war offensive just two months ago.

It is a limited initiative, described as "holding the edge in a stalemate, according to the estimate of division commanders in the field and competent authorities in 8th Army Headquarters.

But it is demonstrated by the thrusts of powerful 8th Army patrols from five to 20 miles above the main Allied line, now solidly established 140 miles across Korea.

To the north of that line, by official estimate are 350,000 to 400,000 Chinese and North Korean troops.

And behind the Allied line were some 20,000 to 30,000 guerrilla infiltrators and North Korean soldiers by-passed in the Allied sweep northward last autumn.

They are hunted more than hunters. Hiding by day and moving when they can by night, they are harried by powerful anti-guerrilla patrols and scourged by a far-ranging air force.

Grads Sought Despite War

Many business firms and industrial organizations will continue recruiting promising college graduates regardless of their draft status, Placement Director Joe Galloway said yesterday.

In connection with this job-recruiting policy, Paul W. Boynton, employment supervisor of Sonoco-Vacuum Oil Company, will discuss "Six Ways to Get a Job" at 8 p.m. Monday in Gerrard Hall.

Seniors who will be job-hunting following graduation or after military service, as well as interested underclassmen, are invited to learn what employers seek in college graduates.

UNCHospital Will Operate In November

RALEIGH, Jan. 24—(AP)—The University of North Carolina's new four-year teaching hospital probably will be ready for operation in November, the Joint Appropriations Committee was told yesterday.

L. D. Moore, an official of the State Budget Bureau, said the University expects receipts from patients to reach $507,200 during the remainder of the fiscal year 1951-52. For the next year, when operation will be fully underway, receipts are expected to total $1,426,500.

Moore said a schedule of suggested tuition fees had been set up. For medical and dental students from within the state the tuition would be $600 a year.

Coed Senate Elects Whipple As Editor

The Coed Senate elected Bobby Whipple as editor of the 1951 Women's Handbook at its meeting early this week, Speaker Kash Davis announced yesterday.

The Handbook outlines University rules and regulations, and describes Carolina life for new coeds entering school.

Candidates for the position of Orientation Chairman for new women students next fall will be interviewed by the Senate Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Phi Hall.

In order to qualify for the position the coed must be a junior student.

Girls interested are asked to contact Kash Davis or Beverly Serr at the Alpha Delta Pi house

Trouble-Hunting UN Patrols Stab 12 Miles To North

TOKYO, Thursday, Jan. 25—(AP)—Allied patrols hunting for trouble Wednesday stabbed 12 miles northward to within 33 miles of the 38th Parallel in central Korea and found few enemy troops.

On the patrols' southeast flank, other Allied troops behind a rolling artillery barrage and air blows seized the mountain road hub prize of Yongwol.

A field dispatch said the patrol which knifed toward the parallel rolled 10 miles north from Wonju to Hoengsong. It then pushed on about two miles north. Hoengsong, 55 miles due east of Seoul, is 35 miles south of Parallel 38.

Air Forces In Europe Are Welded

prior to the Tuesday night meeting.

The Coed Senate also will select a chairman for the Leadership-training program and a chairman for May Day at the same meeting. Both of these girls must be seniors in order to qualify.

Wiesbaden, Germany, Jan. 24—(AP)—American air power in Europe was welded today into a single command for future control by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In a broad reorganization move, U. S. Air Force headquarters in Europe re-activated the wartime 12th Air Force to command air power in Germany and Austria.

The Air Force headquarters, located in Wiesbaden, became the overall director of all units in Europe, the Mediterranean and England.

An announcement said the new ultimate location of U. S. Air Force headquarters in Europe would conform to requirements of Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE).

Gen. Eisenhower, the Allied military chief, has not yet selected his headquarters, although observers said it probably would be at Versailles, outside Paris.

Air Force officials indicated the headquarters probably will be moved to wherever Gen. Eisenhower sets up his permanent offices. No date was set for the transfer.

Some airmen have long chafed over the proximity of the U. S. air command in Europe to the Iron Curtain.

Jack Schofield Says His Group Invites Probe

Committee Gets Board Hearing To Review Rules

By Edd Davis

Complaints against the Dance Committee were aired at a public hearing yesterday afternoon, and Committee Chairman Jack Schofield said his group welcomed the investigation 100 per cent.

"We are operating completely above board and have nothing to hide," Schofield said. "We wish to cooperate with the investigating committee completely in this matter."

The investigation is being conducted by a special committee by the Student Legislature to review complaints received relating to the enforcement of rules by the Dance Committee at University dances.

One fraternity representative said his organization had been found guilty of violating the rules and had been sentenced without knowledge of the offense.

He said that the fraternity had not been informed beforehand of the charge being brought against them, and therefore, did not have the opportunity of defending itself at the trial which was held behind closed doors.

The representative also pointed out that, on receiving the notice by mail, his fraternity appealed the decision. But, since the appeal went to the same group that had convicted it, the chapter felt that the entire process would be useless. He said his organization was denied the right to face its accuser.

Jake Froelich, president of the German Club, said that his organization questioned several of the rules, and that revisions of many would be in the best interest of the campus.

Froelich said that the rule pertaining to girls not being allowed to leave the dance without a chaperone was being applied to the men as well. He proposed that pass-out checks be issued to the men so that they could leave the dance at their wish.

Froelich also said they have the opportunity to sell only 900 tickets for the concerts preceding the dance, and, since there are more than 900 members of the German Club, the added attendance of the full Dance Committee at the concert does not allow all the members of the club to attend the concerts.

He also questioned the use of so many doormen at the concerts.

Another issue brought forth was the rule of the Dance Committee that no other dance could be held the same night of a Grail Dance. (See HEARING, page 4)

Selection Board

The Bipartisan Selection Board will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Men's Council Room in Graham Memorial. Members who served on the Board in the fall will be expected to attend the meeting.

The board will consider applications at a later date to fill two vacant seats on the Men's Council caused by the resignations of Horace Stacy and Jack Tripp. When the board is ready to conduct interviews with interested persons, the announcement will be made in The Daily Tar Heel.
