Budget Unit Plans Hearings Tuesday

The Budget Committee will begin open hearings on the 1951-52 budget Tuesday, Secretary-Treasurer Banks Talley announced yesterday.

Talley reminded all organizations to file copies of their proposed budgets with the Committee by Monday. Budgets must be filed on time so that considerations can be fully met, he said.

The Secretary-Treasurer, who serves as chairman of the Budget Committee, urged all student legislators to attend the hearings so that they will be well-informed when the measure is brought up on the floor. The meetings are open to anyone who would like to attend, and any constructive suggestions are welcome, Talley pointed out.

The executive branch of student government is expected to lead off the hearings next Tuesday when it presents their budget requests for next year.

Dean Weaver Will Address Junior Girls

Dean Fred Weaver will speak on "Your place as Christian leaders" at the second YWCA Junior Council meeting Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Monogram Club room.

The series of programs has been planned to give junior girls interested in working with the YWCA next year a full opportunity to become acquainted with the purposes and work of the Y. This year marks the fifth annual Junior Council Orientation. In the past, it has proved an excellent way of determining who is interested in the Y, a spokesman said. Therefore it is important for such girls to attend the programs regularly, as the candidates for next year's officers are usually chosen on the basis of Council attendance and interest shown.

Y Vice-president Jean Bloom is Chairman of the Junior Council. The next program will be an informal discussion on "Our YWCA" led by Gay Currie and Ann Birmingham on Monday, Feb. 12. Completing the orientation series will be a talk by Rev. Samuel S. Wiley, on Monday, Feb. 19.

Duke Find

DURHAM, Feb. 1(UP)—Dr. Powell, Duke University librarian, announced today that the library has recently acquired a rare 800-year-old manuscript of the four Biblical gospels in Greek.

Powell said the book was discovered by Dr. Kenneth W. Clark, professor of New Testament, who bought it from a Greek collector in Alexandria, Egypt.

Tennessee U. Asserts Right To Segregate

Lawyers To Base Case On Proviso In Supreme Law

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 1—(UP)—The University of Tennessee asserted its state constitutional rights today to bar Negroes from its professional schools.

Privately-hired attorneys for the University Board of Trustees, including Gov. Gordon Browning, and school officials filed an answer to a Federal District Court suit whereby four Negroes seek to enter the University.

In its nine-point petition, the University cited as its main defense a provision of Tennessee's antiquated constitution requiring segregation at all educational levels.

The trustees last Dec. 4 at Memphis took this same position in rejecting the applications of six Negroes, including the four plaintiffs, who had applied for admission to the University's Law and Graduate Schools.

The four Negroes, all of Knoxville, then filed suit under the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution, alleging that they have been denied admission solely on the grounds of race and color.

Sidestepping the state attorney-general, who has held that the University cannot forever bar Negroes from its professional schools, the University trustees retained a Nashville law firm to defend them. All trustees, Browning, University President C. E. Brehm and three other school officials, are defendants.

The University also alleged that the Negroes are not entitled to relief because steps have been taken to provide separately professional education which they seek at the all-white university here.

This obviously was a reference to a long-proposed plan to expand the state Agricultural and Industrial School for Negroes at Nashville to university level.

Coed Court Announces 3 Decisions

Chairman Winifred Harriss yesterday announced several recent Women's Council decisions.

In a case involving two coeds who were reported for Campus Code violations, one girl was exonerated, while the other was given an official reprimand and indefinite social probation. The Council decided she was directly responsible for the circumstances leading to both occasions of returning to residences more than one hour late.

Another coed was found guilty of failing to sign out for an overnight absence from her dormitory. She was given a sentence of three night of social probation for this Campus Code violation.

Word To The Wise

Hints Given To Imports In Reissue Of Booklets

Does your date for next week-end's Ray Anthony dances know the do's and don'ts of behavior at a Carolina dance?

If you're not sure, a re-issue of "So You're Coming to a Carolina Dance" is what you've been looking for. Published by the German Club, in conjunction with the Order of the Grail and the Interfraternity Council, the booklet contains all you need to know to keep out of trouble with the Dance Committee and still have a good time.

Written in the form of a letter from a coed to an import, it serves as a reminder to those who should be well acquainted with University rules, and as a guide to those visiting Carolina for the first time.

Specifically mentioned in the pamphlet are University policies regarding drinking, smoking on the dance floor, and chaperones. There is also a warning to the girls—don't be disappointed when your date doesn't provide flowers. The men feel that their money can be better spent elsewhere and the lack of a corsage doesn't mean a lack of regard for you.

There is one particular reminder to the imports, regarding a state law that forbids your date from paying for your room, a mighty helpful hint to those who might forget to lay enough aside for that purpose. Mentioned also are those taboos on leaving a dance, and restrictions on smoking and refreshments on the dance floor.

Dedicated To The Wounded In Korea

Student, Mechanic, Professor Donate Blood, But More Volunteers Needed To Fill Quota

They were all there yesterday—the University student and his professor, the garage mechanic and the newsstand dealer—standing in line to help the Red Cross meet its 750-pint quota of blood to be shipped to wounded GI's in Korea.

The Red Cross said it had nearly met its Thursday quota, but that today was the big day. It said that students, townspeople and University staff members and anyone fit to give blood was needed. And they did not have to have reservations.

All that was necessary, if individuals did not have appointments, was to come to Graham Memorial this morning beginning at 9 a.m. and wait their turn. Reservations were not crowded

UN Assembly Cites Peiping Aggressor By Vote Of 44 To 7

World Parliament Orders Red China To Cease Fire, Leaves Door To Peace

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 1—(UP)—The United Nations General Assembly today voted final indictment of Communist China as an aggressor in Korea.

The American-sponsored resolution was whisked through the world parliament by a vote of 44 to 7 (the five-nation Soviet bloc plus India and Burma). There were nine abstentions—Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Yemen and Yugoslavia.

In its key points, the resolution, one of the most far-reaching in UN history, does the following:

1. Finds that Peiping has "engaged in aggression" by aiding the North Korean aggressors and sending its own troops against UN Forces.
2. Sets up a 14-nation committee to launch an immediate study of additional punitive measures, such as sanctions, which the UN might take to meet Communist China's aggression.
3. Creates a new three-man "good offices" team to press UN efforts to find a peaceful settlement with Peiping.
4. Authorizes the sanctions committee to hold up any recommendations if the mediation team "reports satisfactory progress."
5. Calls on Mao Tze-Tung's Regime to cease-fire and pull its troops out of Korea.

UN Regiment Fighting Out Of Red Trap

TOKYO, Friday, Feb. 2—(AP)—A surrounded American-French regiment in central Korea fought desperately Thursday night to crack a ring of screaming Chinese attackers as bayonet-wielding United Nations troops on the western front stabbed ahead three miles in the Allied drive towards Seoul.

The two-nation regiment was cut off in the mountains 18 miles northwest of Wonju, near the juncture of the central and western fronts.

It staved off two attacks by one regiment of Chinese that struck it from three sides Thursday morning. A second Red regiment joined the attackers in the afternoon and blocked the Allied escape route.

The outnumbered American and French infantrymen battled the Reds with bayonets to keep from being overrun.

Moon To Get Into Huddle With Planets

Those who have a clear sky just after sunset Wednesday can see in the southwest three planets and the moon closely grouped.

This forecast was made today by astronomers at the Morehead Planetarium, where the current showing is "Invasion from Mars."

"For our State of Bethlehem show in December and the first week of January," Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Planetarium, explained, "our great instrument was set to show us the skies for the years just before the beginning of the Christian era."

"When we put the instrument forward almost 20 centuries to our own time," Dr. Marshall continued, "we were surprised to find an almost straight-line arrangement of the planets Jupiter, Mars, and Venus, in the southwestern sky after sunset. When we checked up, we found that our instrument was correct and that only the bright twilight in nature had prevented our seeing it."

The conditions for visibility have now improved, according to Dr. Marshall, and Venus has emerged from the glare of the sun. On February 7, the very slim crescent moon should be just above and to the right of the brilliant planet Venus, and the moderately bright planet Mars should be very closely up to the right of the bright planet Jupiter, the two of them up to the left of the Moon and Venus, he said.

"On the following evening, Feb. 8, the moon, a slightly fatter crescent, will stand up to the left of Jupiter and Mars," he added. "On the evening of Feb. 10, Venus will stand below and to the right of Jupiter, while on Feb. 11, Venus will be up to the left of Jupiter, having passed it at about 10 a.m. on Sunday."

Selection Unit To Interview All Candidates

Bipartisan Board To Fill Two Seats On Honor Council

The Bipartisan Selection Board will interview candidates for two vacant seats on the Men's Honor Council on Tuesday and Thursday of next week in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Graduate students will be eligible to apply for the seat vacated by Jack Tripp, who resigned from the Men's Council two weeks ago to enter the Army. The other vacancy will be open to sophomore, junior, and senior men.

The second vacancy occurred when Council Chairman Horace Stacy resigned to join the Air Force. Stacy's seat was a holdover position.

The Bipartisan Board, made up of four representatives from the Student and University Parties, plus two members of the Men's Council, will hear applications from 2 until 6 o'clock on both Tuesday and Thursday.

"Students applying for the vacant seats should understand the importance of the position and must be willing to devote a considerable amount of time to their duties," Budy Vaden, chairman of the Men's Council, said.

Y To Show Free Film

The film "Les Miserables" will be shown in Memorial Hall Monday night at 7 o'clock, sponsored jointly by the YMCA and Hillel Foundation.

Charles Laughton stars as the arrogant Javert and Frederick March as Jean Valjean in the movie which attacks a social system that places law above justice, and personal property above human needs.

Following the showing, an open discussion will be held. Admission to the movie is free.

General Loses Pants

Clark Landed In Africa From Sub, Foxed Nazis

General Mark Wayne Clark, 54, who will speak here Tuesday night under the auspices of the Carolina Forum, made a dramatic landing in German-held North Africa during World War II.

As Commanding General of 2nd Corps, Commander of the Ground Forces in the European Theater of Operations, and Deputy Commander-in-Chief, he laid the ground work for a vast organizational, housing and training program in the British Isles.

He played a leading part in planning the invasion of North Africa. Clark made a dramatic and hazardous trip by plane and submarine from London to French North Africa for a secret rendezvous with a group of French officers to arrange details of the proposed landings. It was on this mission that he lost his pants, an incident widely publicized at the time.

He flew from Gibraltar to Algiers on the day following the landings, Nov. 9, 1942. Clark took Admiral Jean Darlan, Cabinet Minister in the German-dominated French Government at Vichy and Commander-in-Chief of all French Forces, into custody.

He commanded the 5th Army, which landed a division in Italy at Salerno, the first to invade Europe in World War II.

On June 4, 1944, the 5th Army and the British 8th Army took Rome. Later Clark was elevated to command both these armies.

He is now Chief of Army Field Forces, Fort Monroe, Va. His favorite recreations are fishing and hiking. He has two children.

Pharmacy Protests Proposed Increase In Rates For Tuition

Student Government Begins Campaign Against Hike In Medical Affairs Units

The Pharmacy School student body went on record yesterday as unanimously opposed to an increase in the tuition rates of that school and voted to cooperate completely with an extensive student government campaign against the proposed increases for the Medical Affairs division.

Bob Collins, president of the pharmacy students, introduced John Sanders, president of the student body, who outlined the proposed changes and the effects they would have on the students as a whole.

Playmakers Begin Tour On Monday

The Carolina Playmakers will leave the campus Monday, on a projected 12-day tour of the state to present Shakespeare's famous tragedy of love, "Romeo and Juliet," in 12 towns.

Traveling by chartered bus, this tour is under the management of John W. Parker, business manager of the Playmakers, and is the 42nd such road company in Playmaker history.

The famous drama group will perform in Nashville, Sanford, Warrenton, Murfreesboro, Salisbury, Chapel Hill, Meredith College, Greenville, Asheboro, Fayetteville, Burlington, and end the trip at High Point February 17.

The talented cast of 13, directed by Samuel Selden, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art, is basically the same as that of the successful production of the play here last December.

Included are Anne Martin, Cherokee, as Juliet; Donald Treat, Waterbury, Conn., as Romeo; Frederick Young, Monroe, La., as Mercutio; Robert Thomas, Oxford; as Tybalt.

The Playmakers plan a 43rd tour in March which will take them through several states, including South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi.

"Although several members of the General Assembly said they knew nothing about any plans for a proposed increase, we were able to find others that were willing to say that it is being considered. In fact, one of the members invited us to his room where he showed us the actual printed suggestions of the entire agenda which will be submitted to the assembly by the Advisory Budget Committee and assemblymen."

"We want to get underway an intensive drive to show the legislative body in Raleigh that we are completely against this proposed increase," Murphy said.

The student government speakers pointed out the fact that Governor Kerr Scott previously had released a statement to the effect that the tuition rates at the University would be lowered when possible.

"On the basis of that statement alone," one spokesman said, "we feel that the policy should be a general lowering of the tuition rates instead of an increase in any or all divisions of the University."

Murphy said yesterday that his office has facts and figures showing the level to which the proposed raise is being considered by the legislative body in Raleigh. "The state constitution specifically says that the tuition costs of the University will not be prohibitive to students obtaining the rights and privileges of an education," Murphy said.

"If the costs are increased at all, we think that many students will be deprived of an education," he added. The complete text of the Student Legislature resolution on the proposed tuition raise follows:

WHEREAS: Tuition was drastically raised in 1946 by legislative action; and WHEREAS: This action was taken as an emergency measure with the expressed intention that as soon as conditions would permit, the tuition rates should revert to the 1938 levels; and WHEREAS: The students of the University of North Carolina have twice (See TUITION, page 4)

Hobo Party

All persons who have the tendencies of a bum are asked to make it official and attend a hobo party at the Episcopal Parish House at 8:30 tonight. Prizes will be awarded to the most authentic costume. There is no admission fee, and interesting entertainment and free refreshments will be offered.
