ADMIT NEGROES, TRUSTEE GROUP MOVES

Salstonstall Gives 'Beat-Reds' Plan

Mass. Senator
Lists 6 Points
To Fight Reds

Need To Maintain
Balance Of Power
In Three Fields

Stressing military, economic and diplomatic "balanced power," Sen. Leverett Salstonstall (R-Mass.) last night in a speech here presented a six-point program for combatting Communism.

The minority whip in the Senate and a member of the Appropriations and Armed Services Committees, the Senator spoke under the sponsorship of the Carolina Forum.

"This nation's No. 1 problem today is our security," the lawmaker declared in his Memorial Hall talk. To meet Communism's danger, he said:

"1. We can never gain our security through a program that leads to isolationism, or

"2. by a program that follows a path of appeasement.

"3. We can only gain our security by supporting our agreements by our actions, at least until we know that the other parties to those agreements do not intend to do their share.

"4. We must move ever forward on a policy of strength and confidence. Our actions cannot be dictated by fear. We have the strength, the resources, and the tradition, materially and spiritually, to take the initiative against all threats to our security.

"5. We can never make this nation secure by hesitation, faltering, backing-and-filling.

"6. We must strive for unity of purpose and of action at all times. There is a tremendous difference between honest criticism and mere obstructionism. The former is vital in a democracy at all times. The latter cannot be tolerated when the safety of our country and the security of our citizens are at stake."

WORLD, NATION, STATE

RALEIGH—North Carolina's budget blueprint for the next two years bogged down in details yesterday and a subcommittee spokesman in the General Assembly said there is no chance of bringing the measure out before next week.

KEY WEST—President Truman flew back to the White House last night after a three-week vacation at this coastal tip resort town.

TOKYO—There wasn't much news from the Korean War front yesterday, as United Nations troops sat almost on the 38th Parallel and awaited orders whether to move on or dig in.

NEW YORK—James J. Moran, central figure in one of the city's biggest political scandals, bowed to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's ultimatum yesterday and resigned his $15,000 a year lifetime post as water commissioner.

Legislature Approves Budget Of $55,926 In Record Time

By Rolfe Neill

Moving with almost phenomenal speed for a budget session, the Student Legislature last night zipped through most of the appropriations bill in record time, cut only $306 from the recommendations of the Budget and Finance Committees, and then passed a budget of $55,926 for the 1951-52 academic year.

At one point the group bogged down for nearly an hour as UP Floorleader Paul Roth tried to breathe financial life into the Debate Council, which he chairs, and failed. The budget contained no appropriation for the Council.

Only major change made in the nine-page bill presented to the lawmakers by Finance Committee Chairman Ben James was an overwhelming of Coed Senate requests. A $50 item for conventions was stricken from the Senate's budget after Legislator Biff Roberts pointed out that most other organizations are foregoing trips of this kind during the present campus dollar shortage.

After SP Chairman Peggy Warren explained that the Coed Senate has a surplus of $2,400, Roth moved to delete the $250 requested for the annual Coed Ball. The vote was unanimous for his motion.

The Woman's Council lost $6 which was to have gone for robes.

SP Floorleader Bill Prince charged that the robes are frequently worn "to scare defendants."

While the Budget-Finance Committees' recommendations contained no appropriation for Tarnation, the pocket magazine was still listed in the budget since it exists until the Legislature votes it out of existence. The body did so last night on a motion by Jim Lamm.

Based on an expected minimum average enrollment of 4,000 students next year, the $55,926.50 budget contains an inappropriate ed balance of $2,348.50.

Roth pleaded for an appropriation of $1,000 for the Debate Council.

Roth said that such a move at the present time is impractical and would seriously impair the Council in its work. He said the Council had a surplus of $1,378 but would need a minimum of another $1,000. The motion for the appropriation was defeated 19 to 12 by a standing vote.

Secretary-Treasurer Banks Talley advised Roth that if efforts to get University financial support failed, the Legislature would most likely vote the Council an appropriation later on in the year.

Another piece of business handled was the setting of the inaugural date for spring electees as Thursday, April 26.

N&O Editor Talks Here Wednesday

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, will speak here next Wednesday night in Gerrard Hall at 8 o'clock.

Sponsored by the Young Democrats Club, Daniels will talk on the national political situation and open the first of a series of talks given by prominent Democrats and presented by the YDC.

The club will present U. S. Senator Willis Smith in April to round out the overall picture of the Democratic party in this state.

Daniels is a staunch supporter of the Truman Administration's policy and is currently serving as a member of the Democratic National Committee. His book, "The Man From Independence," a biography of President Truman, received wide comment in the press.

Daniels was secretary to Truman and has long been a personal friend and adviser to the President.

New Selection Unit Set Up By Parties

Formation of a reorganized Bipartisan Board for selecting Men's and Women's Honor Council candidates was announced yesterday by Student Party Chairman Peggy Warren and University Party Chairman Dick Jenrette, and the first meeting of the revamped group was scheduled for Monday night.

The Board will hold an organizational meeting only at 7 o'clock Monday evening in Graham Memorial.

The two party chairmen said the Board was set up in a cooperative move between the two parties as in the past.

The new Board will be composed of one member plus the chairman of the Men's Council, one member plus the chairman of the Women's Council, and three persons appointed by each political party.

The chairman of the Council for which the applicants are being interviewed will sit as chairman of the Board during interviewing sessions. The Men's Council chief will be responsible for calling meetings and will act as chairman of the Board at all times when it is not considering Women's Council candidates.

Those persons approved by the Board will have endorsement marked by their names on the ballot. Failure to receive approval of the Board will not prohibit an applicant or any other person from running for a seat on either council.

The old Bipartisan Board was composed of four persons from each political party plus the chairman and one member of the Men's Council. It only interviewed applicants for Men's Council seats.

Miss Pekarsky graduated from the University of Michigan where she was recipient of the Albert Lockwood Scholarship, presented annually to the outstanding music student. She attended the American School at Fontainebleau, France, where she appeared in concert and was a pupil of Jean Battailat, head of the piano department at the Paris Conservatory.

Miss Pekarsky's program this evening will include representative compositions of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Liszt, Debussy, and the contemporary composer, Norman Dello Joio.

O. Max Award Given State's Dr. Anderson

Recipient Third To Receive Prize; Is Botany Dean

By Don Maynard

RALEIGH, March 22—Dr. Donald Benton Anderson, associate dean of the Graduate School of the Consolidated University and head of the Division of Biological Science at State College, tonight was named the winner of the third annual Oliver Max Gardner award by Governor W. Kerr Scott at ceremonies on the State College campus.

At a banquet which contained all the ceremony of its two predecessors but not the punch element of a surprise announcement by the Governor, Dr. Anderson was cited as the University faculty member who, during this current scholastic year, "made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race."

He followed in the footsteps of the first winner in 1949, Miss Louise Brevard Alexander, political science teacher at the Women's College, and Dr. Robert Ervin Coker of the University at Chapel Hill, 1950 recipient.

Both these previous awards, however, were accompanied by limelight-stealing developments. The first was the announcement of University President Frank Graham's appointment to the U. S. Senate and the second by the first official appearance of Gordon Gray as president elect of the Greater University.

Governor Scott, after receiving a standing round of applause from the attending 450 faculty, administration and Board of Trustees members, presented the award to Dr. Anderson.

In thanks, Anderson remarked that he was "disturbed" that Dr. B. W. Wells, former head of the Botany Department, was not similarly honored. He gave credit. (See GARDNER, page 4)

Effective Where No Equal Facilities; Board Of Trustees Must Pass Move

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, March 22—The Trustee Executive Committee today recommended to the full Board of Trustees that Negroes be admitted to University of North Carolina graduate and professional schools when equal facilities are not provided for their race elsewhere in the state.

Recommendations of the Executive Committee are usually routinely passed by the full Board of Trustees.

The Committee, meeting this morning in Governor Scott's office, passed a resolution which had been drawn up Wednesday in Chapel

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, March 22—Consolidated University of North Carolina President Gordon Gray, at the conclusion of tonight's O. Max Gardner Award ceremonies, stated that he was in "full accord with the Executive Committee's actions" concerning the admission of Negro students to the University.

Hill by the Trustees' Advisory Committee on Admissions. It now goes to the full Board at a special meeting April 4 at 10 a.m. in the YMCA Building at State College.

The ruling affects only schools on the graduate and professional level. This would mean that when Negroes are qualified, the University would have to admit them to the Medical, Dentistry, and Public Health schools. No such facilities for Negroes are provided. The School of Nursing at UNC would not come under the proposed policy since it is an undergraduate course.

A University official said it is merely a question of time before the Federal courts order admission of Negroes.

Where no possible opportunity for Negro graduate work exists, their applications will be considered along with all the rest, the policy provides.

The University at present is being sued by a Raleigh Negro who says he was denied admission to the Medical School because of his race. Also, four Negroes have a case on appeal to obtain an injunction which would force the University to admit them to its Law School.

Last fall, Federal Judge Johnson Hayes ruled in Middle District Court that facilities at the Negro law school in Durham were equal and denied their petition. It is now being reviewed by a Federal District Court in Richmond, Va.

May 17, 1948 the Board of Trustees adopted a resolution stating: "Be it resolved by this Board that it is premature for it to consider any application of a Negro for admission to any University graduate school until after the individual qualification and competitive standing of the applicant have been determined in the usual and customary manner."

The Advisory Committee which met Wednesday in Chapel Hill, "deeming it desirable that explicit clarification be given to the resolution," passed the following for presentation to the Executive Committee. It in turn passed it during a two hour and a half session today.

The text: "1. The dean of each graduate or professional school will be responsible for the formulation of rules and standards of admissions for student applicants. Such rules and standards shall be considered with the purpose and function of the Consolidated University of North Carolina as disclosed in the State Constitution and statutes and shall include scholarships, residence, and character requirements. In each case the rules and standards shall be submitted to and approved by the Chancellor and by the Chancellor submitted to the President of the Consolidated University.

"2. In all cases of application for admission for members of racial groups other than the white race to the professional or graduate schools when such schools are not provided by and in the state of North Carolina for such racial groups, the applications shall be processed without regard to color or race and the applicant accepted or rejected in accordance with the approved rules and standards of admission for the particular school."

DTH Takes Stand On Election Policy

Chuck Hauser, Managing Editor of The Daily Tar Heel, yesterday outlined the newspaper's policy on covering the coming political campaign for the benefit of candidates, political parties and readers.

"It is up to the candidates and the parties to see that they get play and space equal to their opponents," Hauser said, "not up to this newspaper to see that they get equal space. We will guarantee only that they will get equal treatment and consideration."

The Managing Editor continued, "If one candidate says more and does more than his opponents, he will get space proportionately. It is up to the opponents to make their news. Our job is just to report it."

The Daily Tar Heel will give as complete coverage of the campaign and the election as possible.

Tarnations

Students who have not received their copies of Tarnation may pick them up at the main office in Graham Memorial.
