Local Boards Hold Draft Aptitude Test Forms For Students

Test Scheduled Here May 26; Exams Won't Interfere; Should Apply Early

By Fletcher Hollingsworth
Col. F. C. Shepard, University veterans adviser, yesterday urged students desiring deferments under the new Selective Service aptitude test to immediately contact their local draft boards for the necessary application forms. Only one chance is given students to pass the test. If they fail to make qualifying scores, they are likely to find themselves leaving the classroom and heading for the induction center. Col. Shepard suggested that any person registered under Selective Service and wishes to be deferred because of his status as a student, regardless of his present classification (even if he has a postponed status), take the test on May 26.

The test will be given here at 8:30 a.m. in as many auditoriums and classrooms as are needed for students desiring to take the test. W. D. Perry, director of the University Testing Service, announced yesterday. Final examinations for spring quarter were previously scheduled for that date, but because of this test, Dean William Wells, chairman of the examination committee, and the committee along with E. S. Lanier are working out a new schedule which will make exams start at a later date. There will be no conflicts for students wishing to take the test.

As a prerequisite for taking the test, each student must write to his local board, or contact it personally, and make request for an application to take the test. The registrant's local board is the only source from which he can obtain an application blank.

The application blank which the student must fill in and mail to the address given on the application must show the date, place, and number designation of the testing center, where it is desired to take the test. The number designation of the University Testing Center should be shown as 761 Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina.

Other tests will be given on June 16 and 30. There is no announcement of passing grades to be required or the scholastic standing which will also be considered. Col. Shepard said these standards will be announced later.

"Scores on the test, together with evidence of scholastic performance, will be used by the local boards in considering the eligibility of registrants for occupational deferment as students," Col. Shepard stated. Further information may be secured from Col. Shepard in room 315 South Building.

Seven Planks Are Pledged By Maynard

Don Maynard, veteran staff member and associate editor running independently for editor of The Daily Tar Heel, yesterday released a seven plank platform which ranged from stumping for coed drinking in fraternity houses to obtaining more and better student columnists.

The Long Island, N. Y., senior said in a statement he also would lead a fight to gain equal visiting privileges for men's dormitories to those of fraternities.

Maynard declared his plans included representing dormitory men through society page columns devoted to their activities. Pledging increased scope in the sports page, he said he would see that intramural news and major sporting events were more fully covered.

In order to obtain a larger staff, Maynard stated he would launch a campaign of letters to promising high school students in publications inviting them to attend the University and join the paper's staff. Working closer with the Journalism School also was listed.

"I will take a definite editorial stand and not straddle the fence on any issue. Of course, I'll invite comment from those who both agree and disagree with editorial opinions," he said.

He promised a greater variety of better student columnists.

Maynard has worked on the paper as feature editor and reporter and in addition to his present job of associate editor, handles President Gordon Gray's office. He has been on The Daily Tar Heel for three years.

Takes Second Helping

Dr. Archibald Henderson Breaks His Own Rules For Good Health

Does Dr. Archibald Henderson adhere to his rules of health by never taking seconds on desserts?

Hale and hearty in his 74th year, Dr. Henderson has always claimed to follow a certain regime to keep him fit, and in an interview sometime ago he said that, to keep his weight down (the years seem to have added no pounds) he exercised regularly and refused second helpings.

But following a recent visit with Maxwell Steinhardt in New York where the first formal meeting of the Shaw Society of America was held, Dr. Henderson, who is president of the Society, apparently slipped up.

Selection Unit Releases List For Election

Bipartisan Board Has No Nominees For Two Positions

Buddy Vaden, Chairman of the Bipartisan Selection Board, yesterday announced the completion of interviews and selection of students to run for seats on the Men's and Women's Honor Councils in the spring elections next Wednesday.

Women's Council candidates: Senior seats (three open); Adair Beasley, Libby Royall, Mary Jane (Sandy) Wilson, and Judy Patton; at-large-seat, Caroline Hasinger and Betty Ann Reese.

Men's Council: Senior seats (three open); Allan Milledge, Joe Privott, Al House, George Freeman, and John Hazelhurst; Junior seat, Bob Simmons and Dan Perry; and graduate seat, Hobson Chinnis.

Yale Yanks Are Roused By Kluxers

It was a warm night, and the trainer of the Yale baseball team stuck his head out of a window in Kenan Stadium Field House for a breath of fresh air.

The serenity of the Carolina night was suddenly interrupted as a band of white-robed figures with flaming torches marched onto the playing field and stopped on the 50-yard line.

The trainer rubbed his eyes, looked again, and let out a yell to the sleeping Yankees that the Klan had come to get them.

After a quick conference of left-handed pitchers finally remembered that fraternity initiations were in season, the reassured Yankees crawled back to their sacks.

UNCTeam Will Debate Princeton In Twin Bill

The Carolina debating team will meet the Princeton debaters here tonight at 8:30 in a twin bill that will take place simultaneously in Gerrard Hall and Saunders Hall.

While the UNC affirmative team, composed of Fred Scher and Lacy Thornburg, engages the orators from Nassau in Gerrard, the local negative combination of Bruce Marger and Bob Clappitt will be speaking against Princeton's affirmative squad in Room 109 Saunders.

The topic for the debate will be this year's National Inter-

Trustees To Meet In Raleigh Today To Discuss Admitting Grad Negroes

Grad Negro Acceptance Gets Di OK

Debating Society Quickly Approves By 10 To 7 Vote

The Dialectic Senate Monday night approved, by a three-vote margin, a bill providing for the admission of qualified Negroes to the University on the graduate level. The question was not submitted to a pro-con debate.

Final endorsement of the bill came after a spontaneously formed coalition of members of the debating society attempted to block all discussion by postponing the bill indefinitely.

Thomas Mayfield, moving to postpone the bill, said any argument on the question would necessarily be based on dissent to the admission of Negroes. Such a discussion, he said, would in all probability be derived from attitudes of the individual members.

"I do not want to see the Di desecrated by having its discussion, reflecting these attitudes, publicized," he stressed.

Although defeated, Mayfield's motion affected the Senate's action on the bill, members later revealed. The group swiftly rejected an amendment to the bill and approved, by a 10 to 7 vote, the admission of Negroes to University graduate schools.

No dissenting opinion was voiced in the short discussion.

Newly-elected Di President Walter T. Tice said after the meeting that passage of a bill "without negative discussion" was a rare occurrence for the Senate.

collegiate Debate topic: Resolved, That the Non-Communist Nations Form a New International Organization.

Judging the competition will be Dean E. L. Mackie in Gerrard Hall and Dr. William Poteat in Saunders.

Members of the local debate team, in announcing the meet, stressed the fact the public is cordially invited to attend tonight's activities.

Paul Roth, chairman of the Debate Council, also announced that an intramural debate tournament for novice debaters will be held soon.

IFC Sets Standards For Men Who Cannot Be Initiated Now

By Don Maynard
A ruling passed by the Interfraternity Council Monday night opened the way for fraternity pledges who are scholastically ineligible for initiation under present scholarship rules to become active members before June.

And at the same meeting, the IFC set up the machinery for a special spring quarter formal rush week. With a date still to be set for the week, plans call for fraternities to select two evenings of the week for their formal rushing.

From out of a clarification of existing initiation scholastic regulations came a motion passed by the IFC to the effect that a man pledged last fall who had not met established grade regulations may be initiated at the conclusion of this spring quarter if he obtains a C average this quarter. In a law passed near the end of the fall quarter, the IFC ruled that a pledge needed an overall C average to become initiated.

Two exceptions were made, however. The first was that men pledged during the spring quarter, 1950, would abide by the old regulation of 25 hours of passing and 10 hours of C work.

The second affected fall, 1950, pledges, and stated those men needed either a C average for the winter quarter or an overall C average.

Those pledges coming up for initiation now would have fallen in that category, according to the IFC.

The original November ruling laying down an overall C average requirement will apply to all those pledged during the past winter quarter and all thereafter. It requires an overall C average and two quarters of residence.

Sophomore pledges must have 35 hours of passing work, half of which are C's, according to Dean Fred Weaver's office.

In addition, the IFC clarified the transfer student's position. A transfer student pledge who has 35 hours credit, either obtained here or at his former school, and who has passed 10 hours of C average work here may be initiated, the IFC ruled.

Will Consider Policy Backed By Exec Unit

Gray, Carmichael Asking To Appeal Law School Case

Special to The Daily Tar Heel
RALEIGH, April 3—The University of North Carolina Board of Trustees will meet here tomorrow to consider a recommendation that Negroes be admitted to University graduate and professional schools when no such facilities exist elsewhere in the state for their race.

Also, Consolidated University President Gordon Gray and Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., will urge the Trustees to appeal to the Supreme Court the recent decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond which ordered the University to admit Negroes to its Law School. The suit names Carmichael as defendant since he was acting president at the time it was filed.

The Executive Committee previously passed with but one dissenting vote the recommendation that Negroes be admitted to the UNC graduate and professional schools when Negro facilities do not exist elsewhere in the state. The recommendation was drawn up by the special Advisory Committee on Admissions.

Usually the full Board of Trustees routinely passes recommendations made by its Executive Committee. However, it is known that at least one Trustee has a resolution which would transfer the Negro admission problem to the General Assembly and take it out of the hands of the Trustees.

If the group decides to appeal the reversal of the Hayes decision last week in Richmond, it must ask for an injunction preventing the Negroes' entrance in September. Any of the three Richmond judges or a member of the Supreme Court may grant the request.

Award Won By Penegar

Dick Penegar, junior from Gastonia, has been notified that he is the winner of a $200 scholarship given annually by the Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

This scholarship, one of 20 such awards made throughout the United States and Canada, is given annually by the Kappa Sigma Scholarship-Leadership Award Program for use during the recipient's senior year.

Penegar is president of the local chapter of Kappa Sigma, president of the junior class, and a candidate for the student body presidency in the coming spring elections.

Two Days Left

Today and tomorrow will be the last chance for seniors to buy graduation invitations.

Jim McIntyre, member of the Grail which sponsors the annual sale, said orders may be placed between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. today, and 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Y.

Payment must be made at time of ordering, McIntyre said.

Dear Desires Better Policy In Editorials

WALT DEAR

Walt Dear, Daily Tar Heel reporter nominated by the Student Party to run for editor, "will strive to put the paper back in the good graces of the students through a better campus editorial policy and more invigorating coverage of the day's news," his campaign manager said yesterday.

Through his manager, Art Greenbaum, Dear expressed the desire for a "more complete" campus newspaper, particularly in the coverage of dormitory activity, intramurals, and coed affairs.

Dear said he plans a positive editorial policy.

Calling for a complete reversal of procedural methods in obtaining a staff, Dear asked that the editor work with the Journalism School and help to get a UNC press club started. He also suggested a competitive selection program to "arouse the interest of new students for staff positions."

The sophomore candidate's program includes an idea for getting The Daily Tar Heel back to a six-day-a-week basis. "By establishing an endowment fund, staging money-making ventures, or cutting the size of the paper, we can get The Daily Tar Heel on the old basis again," he asserted.

Dear also is running for the junior seat on the Publications Board. He has worked for The Daily Tar Heel since last spring, beginning in the Sports Department. At present he also is publicity director for the Interdormitory Council.

Yearly UC Carnival Slated On April 20

The University Club yesterday invited all campus organizations to sponsor booths at the Annual U. C. Carnival to be held Friday night, April 20, in conjunction with Blue-White Weekend.

The Carnival will be held from 7 to 11 o'clock in the evening.

Erline Griffin, chairman of the Booth Committee, said yesterday that the Carnival offered an "excellent opportunity to make some money to increase the treasures of dormitories, fraternities, sororities, the Town Men's and Town Girls' Associations, and the YW and YMCA."

Erline said any organization interested in sponsoring a booth should submit plans to the University Club for three booths, listed in order of preference. Entry blanks should be submitted as soon as possible in order to get first choice of booth ideas, she continued.

Grad Club To Meet Tonight At 8 In GM

Members and interested students are invited to a Graduate Club meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 3 of Graham Memorial.

A talk, "Employment Prospects for Graduate Students in Colleges and Universities in Light of the Draft and UMT," will be presented and plans for the club's picnic will be discussed.

Princeton Buys A Still And Brews Controversy

Special to The Daily Tar Heel
PRINCETON, N. J., April 3—In all innocence, Princeton University recently bought a $7,000 50-gallon still for its Department of Chemical Engineering. Trouble immediately began to brew.

Miss Muriel Kinsey, president of the New Jersey Anti-Alcohol League, has said her organization would take legal action if Princeton persisted in installing the still.

"There's only one use for a still," Miss Kinsey maintained in a letter addressed to prominent members of the administration and Board of Trustees, "and our organization will fight

The deadline for submitting application for booths is next Tuesday, and all organizations will be notified of their acceptance shortly thereafter.

Last year's Carnival featured girly shows done in collaboration by fraternities and sororities, sideshows, gambling wheels, baseball throws, sideshows, and such exhibits as a "get-her-bathing-suit-wet" booth.

9 CDA Plays Slated Today

The nine-play production schedule of the Carolina Dramatic Association for today was released yesterday. All plays are of one-act length, and there is an admission charge of 25 cents for each session.

Morning session, beginning at 10:30: Balls Creek High School Dramatic Club, Newton, "Lady Killer"; Banoak High School Dramatic Club, Vale, "Pink and Patches"; and Lansing High School Dramatic Club, Lansing, "The Red Key."

Afternoon session, beginning at 2 o'clock: Broughton Little Theater, Raleigh, "Dead Men Can't Hurt You"; Hendersonville High School Dramatic Club, Hendersonville, "Fog on the Valley"; and Masketeers, Charles L. Coon High School of Wilson, "Eh?"

That use tooth and nail." Right behind her, but for different reasons, were local liquor dealers. One dealer voiced a minority opinion among the otherwise unanimous group of owners, saying, "It would make it very convenient for everybody."

More typical was the idea, "If they really do such a thing, it will certainly be tough on all package store owners."

One of the pros in the Chemical Engineering Department, John C. Whitwell, summed up the idea for most of his fellow teachers:

"It would make awful bum whisky."
