Capps Began Record Show In Greenville

Three of the main cogs in Hank Beebe and Orville Campbell's program of original popular music set for Hill Hall Sunday night at 8:30, have had varied backgrounds in the field of music.

Jimmy Capps, master of ceremonies for WPTF's popular late evening record program, "Our Best to You," will emcee the Beeltones in their presentation of Beebe-Campbell's ditties.

Capps, who is originally from Charlotte, began his radio activity as a member of the staff of a local station, WSOC. Later he joined station WFBC, Greenville, S. C., and there he originated his now-popular record show.

Since 1947 he has been announcing for Raleigh's WPTF and has become one of the most well-known members of the staff.

Beebe, who is originally from Pitman, N. J., received an A.B. degree in English in 1945, and in 1950 received his master's degree in music, both from the University. He has worked under Fred Waring for two summers, is a member of Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa.

Campbell, who is originally from Hickory, graduated from the University in 1942. He was editor of The Daily Tar Heel his senior year. He was a member of the faculty at Woman's College in Greensboro until the summer of 1947, at which time he returned to Chapel Hill and established Colonial Press, Inc.

Gen. Omar Bradley To Speak Here Tonight

Marital Confab Planned Here; Starts Monday

Daily Seminars, Clinical Meets To Be Featured

Daily seminars, group discussions, and clinical sessions on marriage and family counseling will feature the 14th annual Groves Conference on Marriage and the Family to be held here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Each night general sessions will be devoted to demonstrations and lectures by specialists, according to Dr. Reuben Hill, University sociologist, who is continuing the pioneering work in marriage and family courses for colleges and universities begun at Chapel Hill by the late Dr. Ernest R. Groves. His wife, Mrs. Gladys Hoagland Groves, is assisting Dr. Hill.

Sponsors of the three-day conference are Marriage and Family Council, Inc., the University's Institute for Research in Social Science, the American Association of Marriage Counselors, Inc., National Council on Family Relations, North Carolina Family Council, and Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

Chairmen of the various daily seminars, to be held in the Alumni Building, are Robert Harper, head, Family Life Department, Merrill-Palmer School, Detroit; David Mace, Drew University; Marietta Henderson, family life coordinator, Asheville Public schools; Marjorie Cosgrove, counselor in home and family living, Highland Park, Mich. public schools; Merton D. Oyer, Director, Marriage Counseling Clinic, Ohio State University; and M. C. Elmer, chairman, University of Pittsburgh Department of Sociology.

Party Will Arrive At Airport At 5:15

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will arrive at the Raleigh-Durham Airport at 5:15 this afternoon and be driven to Chapel Hill to deliver a public address at 8:30 tonight in Memorial Hall.

The General's party will be met by Bob Evans, chairman of the Forum, Dean Fred Weaver, Special Assistant to the President Bill Friday, Capt. J. E. Cooper of the NROTC and Lt. Col. J. J. Moorhead of the AROTC at the airport.

From there Bradley's party will be taken to the Carolina Inn for a dinner presided over by Consolidated President Gordon Gray. The guest list for the dinner includes some 60 people among whom are Lt. Gov. H. P. Taylor, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, the Advisory Budget Commission, and Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kyser. The General is expected to make a few remarks at the dinner.

The speech will immediately follow the dinner at the Inn. The Seaboard and Blade, honorary military society, will be on hand to usher.

Evans will preside at Memorial Hall. The platform party will include Gordon Gray, who will introduce the speaker, Captain Cooper, Lt. Colonel Moorhead, Colonel Matthews and Lt. Colonel Clifton of the General's party, and Governor Scott.

Contrary to previous reports, the speech will not be covered by a major network. Bradley's office said that network coverage was called off since General MacArthur is scheduled to speak to Congress today.

Greensboro television—WFMY-TV—still has tentative plans to televise it, however. The Communications Center will make a tape recording to be used by local radio stations.

The Voice of America in New York has also requested a recording for beaming to Europe.

Following the talk, Bradley will pay a visit to the Gordon Grays at their home. After this brief visit with his old boss, the General will fly back to Washington.

The doors of Memorial Hall will be opened tonight at 7:30, one hour before the speech.

Cornerstone Is Laid Amid Noise Of Work

Building Debris Is Not Deterrent To Masonic Rites

By Mac White

The cornerstone of the new Medical School teaching hospital was laid late yesterday afternoon according to Masonic rites revised for the occasion and to the tune of grinding construction elevators. Some 200 persons attended the event.

The Masonic ceremony, which requires that a building be no higher than the cornerstone at the time of its laying, was altered for this occasion, since the hospital is nearly completed.

A gaping hole was left near the base of the northwest corner of the main building, and into this the stone was slipped after due ceremony.

The formal ceremony began after a procession of the Masons was led by North Carolina Grand Master W. E. Caldwell through brick piles, mobile cranes, and construction workers to a temporary platform.

The platform, decked in green burlap and perched on top of a gravel pile, was large enough to hold the 18 or so Masonic dignitaries.

Documents telling of the fight to get the hospital were sealed up in the stone. The stone, after being tested by ceremonial squares and levels for its perfectness, and after being blessed by the Grand Chaplain, was ready for inspection by the Grand Marshall.

Sure of the stone's soundness, the Grand Marshall proceeded to douse it with wine, oil and shell-eared corn as symbolic assurances of happiness, peace and plenty.

Complete with all these fixings, the four by one-and-a-half by two-foot stone was hoisted into place.

The approximately 75 Masons on hand for the ceremony sported loincloth-like Masonic aprons. The aprons of the higher Masons were blue and white gold-fringed velvet, while those of the less important were plain white.

R. B. House, Chancellor of the University, acting as master of ceremonies, called the occasion "actually and symbolically the beginning of a new era." He compared the occasion to the Old East cornerstone laying in 1793 which was presided over by W. R. Davie, the founder of the University.

Sigs' Derby Is Thursday

The Seventh Annual Sigma Chi Derby, which carries out a general horse racing theme, will be held next Thursday in Kenan Stadium.

Coads from all sororities, the Stray Greeks and the Independent Coed Board will participate in the Derby which will get underway at 2 p.m. with a big parade.

The Derby itself consists of contests ranging from a pie eating contest to the crowning of Miss Modern Venus, who is chosen from among the coeds.

SP Takes Charge Of Administration For Third Straight

By Chuck Hauser

The Student Party took over the administration of student government for the third consecutive year yesterday as runoff election results bowled Henry Bowers into office with a 532-vote majority over Ben James. Independent coed candidate Glenn Harden swamped independent Don Maynard with a two-to-one majority for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel.

Bowers captured 1,360 votes to 823 for his independent opponent as 2,224 students cast their ballots to choose officers for the 1951-52 academic year. Harden received 1,421 votes to Maynard's 712—a margin of 709.

Other offices filled in yesterday's sunny balloting included: For president of the senior class: Archie Myatt (Ind.) with 438 votes over Bill Bostic (University Party) with 248.

For senior vice president: Al House (Ind.) with 346 over Jack Owen (UP) with 310.

For senior treasurer: Al Donald (UP) with 349 over Clay Johnson (SP) with 307.

For three women's seats on the Student Council, winners were Joan Charles (SP) with 263, Pat George (UP) with 208, and Winx Wheeler (Ind.) with 203. Eliminated was Gina Campbell (Ind.) with 189.

One seat on the Woman's Honor Council went to Betty Ann Reese with 127 votes. Eliminated were Caroline Hassinger with 119 and Eleanor Martens with 80.

All elected officers will be inaugurated next Wednesday night.

Harden carried every district in her race, while Bowers lost in only the two men's town districts, and those by extremely close margins.

In the men's dormitory districts both Bowers and Harden received twice the votes of their opponents. In the men's town districts James was only 11 votes ahead of Bowers—10 ahead in one district and a single vote ahead in the other.

Bowers swamped James in the women's districts, while Harden grabbed an almost two-to-one majority in the women's districts and a substantial majority in men's town districts.

Here is the way the vote went:

President	DM1	DM2	TM1	TM2	DW1	TW1	Inf.	TOT.

Saved $125, Too

Mason Is All Smiles As Elections Close

By Rolfe Neill

With it all over but the counting, Julian Mason was smiling broadly yesterday as the runoff voting was completed, and he found in a financial check that his Elections Board had made about $125 this year.

The $125 figure came about from $75 collected in fines and the rest in a saving from the budget appropriation of $301. Mason, the chairman, only requested $280 for the group next year. It was granted by the Student Legislature in the new budget.

In totaling up expenses for the year, it was discovered much to the surprise of both Mason and Secretary-Treasurer Banks Talley that last fall's special election, regular fall election, this spring's election, and all runoffs cost only $260.

At 5:30 yesterday afternoon, one half hour before time for the polls to close, Mason said two persons had not turned in expense accounts. Nancy Burgess, society editor of The Daily Tar Heel, and

PB Releases New Policy On Posters

The Publications Board yesterday released a statement of policy regarding a political poster made up in a miniature format of The Daily Tar Heel used in the recent campaign by Don Maynard.

The Board said it considered Maynard's use of a miniature Daily Tar Heel "flag," or front page name-label, as "highly unethical."

The Board condemned such practices and said it was requesting an opinion from the Student Council on the matter, "urging that such conduct be made, an Honor Code violation in the future."

An answer from the court assured the Board that such a matter could not be considered an Honor Code offense, since it did not involve lying, cheating or stealing in any way.

The Board's statement continued, "The Board feels that Maynard took unfair advantage of his four opponents in publishing the newspaper and that he had absolutely no right to use the exact format of The Daily Tar Heel without authorization by the Board."

Managing Editor Chuck Hauser pointed out yesterday that Maynard's political poster was "far from an exact format of The Daily Tar Heel." Hauser added that Maynard had "full authorization" to use the "flag" from Editor Roy Parker.

Speaks Sunday

Rev. Richard L. Jackson, minister-elect of the United Congregational Christian Church who has recently returned from China, will speak at the local church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

J. Earl Daniely, acting minister, said Reverend Jackson is on a speaking tour until September, when he assumes his duties as pastor of the United Church.

Chinese students attending the University are especially invited, it was emphasized.

Council Action Is Reported For Year By Chairman Botto

Student Council Chairman Larry Botto yesterday released a report to the student body of Council activities for the year, including cases handled and decisions handed down.

Members of the out-going Council are Pat Bowie, Bob Holmes, Nancy Smith, Frances Drane, Kyle Barnes, Bob Evans, Dick Jenrette, and Bobbie Whipple, who replaced Carolyn Bishop Thornhill in fall elections. Botto is the only member who was re-elected to his seat on the highest campus court.

Botto's report: 1. A student who was a candidate for a-campus office was disqualified by the Elections Board for not meeting the requirements of the General Elections Law concerning the compulsory candidates' meeting. He appealed the decision to the Council, and was reinstated as a candidate.

In another Elections Board action, a student was disqualified because of his scholastic standing. He appealed to the Student Council on the grounds that the law setting up the scholastic standards had been passed after he was already a candidate under the old requirements and therefore he was being punished by a statute that was ex post facto in nature.

The Council held that the law passed by the Student Legislature was not in contradiction with the ex post facto provisions of the state constitution and that the enforcement of the law could not be considered punishment. The action of the Elections Board was upheld.

2. The Council heard an appeal of action by the Interdormitory Council Court which had found a student guilty of gross violation of dormitory regulations and prohibited him from further residence in University dorms. The Student Council found that the IDC Court had acted upon evidence that was sufficient to convict and upheld its decision.

3. In an appeal from the Men's Honor Council the Student Council found that evidence upon which a student was convicted of an Honor Code violation was insufficient. The Men's Council decision was reversed and the student exonerated.

In a second appeal from the Men's Council the Student Council found that the sentence of indefinite probation imposed by the Men's Council was too severe and it was reduced to an official reprimand.

4. The following cases were appealed from the Woman's Honor Council:

5. A coed found guilty of a Campus Code violation appealed on grounds that the evidence was insufficient to convict. The Student Council found the evidence to be sufficient and upheld the decision of the lower court.

A coed convicted of violation of the Campus Code for failing to sign out of her dormitory for an all-night stay appealed on grounds that her sentence of social probation was too severe. The Council found these grounds invalid and upheld the sentence of the Women's Council.

Another coed who failed to sign out of her dormitory for an all-night stay and was convicted by the Women's Council challenged (See COUNCIL, page 3)

Phi Defeats Bill Opposing Mac's Ouster

The Philanthropic Literary Society Tuesday night voted 11-4 to defeat a bill "opposing the action of President Truman in dismissing General MacArthur."

A former speaker of the Phi, Jack Lackey, told the group, "It is not a question of justified dismissal, but rather a question of whose policy was the better and whose policy would bring us peace, President Truman's or General MacArthur's."

Robert Pace declared, "The fact that President Truman was able to remove a popular general from his position is a sign of the healthiness of the American democracy."

Plans for the annual Di-Phi banquet were discussed, and Mel Respass urged members of the group to enter the intramural debate tournament.

204 Donors Give Blood

The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 204 pints of Carolina whole blood yesterday, packed up its equipment and left Graham Memorial again until the latter part of June.

Bloodmobile workers said the mobile unit would return to the campus every two months from now on, under present plans.

The quota for the two-day stay was 400 pints, and while business the first day was slow, the number of donors picked up considerably yesterday.

Red Cross Gray Ladies were again on hand to help handle donors and serve refreshments following donations.
