Top Nominees To Be Chosen By Committee

Morehead Group Will Meet Here For Interviews

A seven man Central Committee will meet here Monday and Tuesday to interview 40 applicants for the recently established Morehead Scholarships.

The committee will make final recommendations to the Morehead Trustee Foundation Wednesday and the selections will be announced soon after.

The 40 nominees have been selected from 14 different senior colleges in this state and will be on campus for the interviews next week. Five UNC men are included among the nominees.

Controller W. D. Carmichael, a member of the Central Committee, explained the basic requirements of the fund and pointed out the purposes of the Scholarships in an effort to clear up conflicting ideas about the fund.

"Mr. Morehead's main purpose in giving the $1500 annual scholarships to graduate students is to secure the very superlative men in the state for this University," he said.

Financial need has no part in the selection of Morehead scholars.

Included on the Central Committee are Dr. W. F. Plemmons, Fred Weaver, and Gordon P. Spruill representing the University. Those appointed by the Foundation are James S. Childers, chairman of the group, Claude Teague, and Carmichael.

6-Day Week DTH Tabloid Due Tuesday

Daily Tar Heel readers will begin getting a smaller paper Tuesday morning, but it will come out six days a week instead of the present four times weekly.

It will be the much discussed tabloid. Strictly on a trial basis, the new paper will be published Tuesday through Sunday. It will vary from four to eight pages.

The Daily Tar Heel staff will meet this weekend to iron out technical kinks and set up for the new format. Managing Editor Andy Taylor pointed out yesterday that deadlines for news will remain the same as in the past—3 p.m. weekdays and 10:30 a.m. on Saturday.

Spring Germans Start Today; Senior Festivities Underway

Upperclassmen In Final Fling Over Weekend

Carolina seniors are taking a final and determined stand against the polished customs of the civilized world today as they defiantly display their famous and naked Tar Heels to campus underclassmen in solemn observance of Senior Barefoot Day.

Today's barefoot activities are a continuation of the Senior Week activities which began last night with a special free movie for seniors at the Carolina Theater. Tomorrow's events include a big picnic at Hogan's Lake for all seniors and their dates.

A bus will leave the Y Court at 10:15 a.m. and will proceed to the lake via the women's dorms.

Barbeque, hushpuppies, slaw, and cold drinks will be served at the picnic. There will be planned recreation with equipment provided for softball, horseshoes, and volleyball.

Barefoot Day originated here some 15 years ago and has since become a Carolina tradition. Class President Ned Dowd has warned that all seniors failing to shed their shoes will be subject to an unnamed but severe social chastisement.

All seniors were reminded yesterday that they will have to display the tickets handed out at the Y during the first of the week in order to attend the picnic.

All of the activities of Senior Weekend have been brought about through the efforts of the officers of the senior class. They are Dowd, Jim Gwynn, vice president, Mike McDaniel, treasurer, Frances Sweatt, secretary, and Phyllis Costner, social chairman.

RALPH FLANAGAN

Concert, Dance Set To Follow Here Saturday

The year's last and biggest social weekend gets underway here tonight with Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra playing for a German Club-sponsored formal dance in Woolen Gymnasium from 9 until 1 a.m. marking the opening of Spring Germans.

Festivities will continue tomorrow afternoon with an open-air concert in the Forest Theater from 4 until 6 o'clock. Flanagan will again be the feature attraction and will wind up the weekend with another formal affair in Woolen tomorrow night from 8 until 12 midnight.

In case of rain tomorrow's concert will be moved to Memorial Hall.

The German Club figure of officers and their sponsors will be presented at tonight's dance. The club, which is composed of 13 campus fraternities, sponsors one big dance each quarter.

The faculties of the English Department and campus Air and Naval ROTC units will be guests of the German Club for the festivities. This is in line with their policy of inviting different departments to each dance, which was started last year.

The Dance Committee members wish to emphasize their usual set of rules governing the Forest Theater concert and Woolen Gym dances. They include "no drinking or drunkenness on the dance floor," and coeds may not leave the dance and return without a chaperon.

Dance Committee personnel will be on hand at the dances and the concert.

The open-air concert will be the first to be presented by the German Club in several years and should prove to be a big success.

Ira W. Rose Is Honored At Banquet

Prof. Ira W. Rose, for 20 years a member of the University School of Pharmacy faculty, who has reached the age of retirement, was honored Wednesday night at a banquet at the Carolina Inn given annually for members of the graduating class by the Justice Drug Company of Greensboro.

Ralph Edward Carter, Roxobel, president of the class, presented Professor Rose with a television set on behalf of the class and Dean E. A. Brecht presented him with an engraved silver tray.

Orientation

Interviews for Orientation Counselors will be conducted Monday night in the Student Government Office. Students desiring to be counselors either in the summer or fall are requested to be present at 8 o'clock.

If it is impossible to be there at this time, those interested should contact Ken Barton, orientation chairman, before then and make arrangements for an interview.

Texan To Play Here Monday With Orchestra

A dynamic young Texan, Tully Moseley of Dallas, will be piano soloist with the North Carolina Symphony when the orchestra presents a "Pop" concert in Chapel Hill Monday.

The program will be played in Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m. as a benefit for the Symphony's Sustaining Fund. Director Benjamin Swalin invited Mr. Moseley to play in the Chapel Hill concert, following his successful appearance with the Orchestra in Hickory earlier this month.

Mr. Moseley, who is red-haired and still in his early twenties, will play the First Movements of the Tchaikovsky Piano Concerto in B Flat Minor, made popular by dance bands recently as "Tonight We Love."

The "Pop" concert will open with the Overture to Strauss' "Die Fledermaus." Also included on the first part of the program will be "The Moldau," "Smetana," and Excerpts from the "Nutcracker Suite," Tchaikovsky.

Playmakers Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for the annual Carolina Playmaker Capers have been set tonight at 7:30 in the Playmaker Theater, director Ed Loessin announced. The celebration will take place on May 26th.

Several excellent parts must be cast, and Loessin plans to arrange rehearsals so each person will put in a minimum amount of time. The auditions are open to all students, and a big turnout is needed.

Invitations

Distribution of senior class graduation invitations will continue upstairs in the Y today through 4 o'clock this afternoon. All students who have not picked up their invitations should do so immediately.

Any extra invitations which were ordered by the Order of The Grail will be sold on a first-come-first-served basis.

Book Store Probing Is Asked Of Solons

By Mac White

Student Party Legislator Paul Barwick introduced a bill in the Student Legislature last night which would set up a commission to investigate the University Book Store.

"Many students feel the prices of the store in buying and selling used books from the students are unjust," Barwick said in a conversation after the meeting.

Chapel Hill, Carrboro Set Celebration

Armed Forces Day will be celebrated in Chapel Hill and Carrboro next Wednesday, according to a joint resolution issued recently by Mayors Edwin S. Lanier of Chapel Hill and J. Sullivan Gibson of Carrboro.

Plans for a parade and program at 3 p.m. have been made. The parade will be made up of bands, University military units, veterans' organizations and various civic groups. Merchants are expected to display flags throughout the day.

Grand Marshal of the parade will be Admiral Donald Loomis, who was named by the Arrangements Committee composed of Mrs. Norman Cordon and William Alexander and headed by Roy Armstrong.

The program will take place following the parade at a reviewing stand set up near the Post Office, Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor will be the main speaker. Other prominent guests will be President Gordon Gray and Chancellor R. B. House of the University, Congressman Carl Durham, the Mayors of Chapel Hill and Carrboro, Lt. Col. Jesse L. Moorhead of the University ROTC, and Commander William J. Manning, of the NROTC.

Deadline Near For Draft Test

Final date for applying for the College Qualification Tests with local draft boards is May 15, Col. F. M. Shepard announced yesterday.

Shepard advised students to take the tests and to write any board immediately to get applications.

Four Coeds Enter Beauty Pageant

Four coeds have entered the first annual Chapel Hill Beauty and Personality Pageant being sponsored by the Jaycees. The pageant will be held Wednesday at the Carolina Theater.

Peggy Durham, 21-year-old Chapel Hillian, is the daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Carl T. Durham. She attended Stratford College, Danville, Va., before coming to the University. While she was there she was Queen of Hearts at a Valentine Ball and an attendant in the May Day festivities.

Betty Lou Worthington of Ayden is a third-year music major. She sings and plays the piano and was chosen as a member of the Yack beauty court.

A third-year English major, Joan Erskine of Selma, Ala., is president of Smith dormitory and Chi Delta Phi literary society. She is also on the staff of the Carolina Quarterly.

Planetarium Holds Quiet Anniversary

The University's Morehead Planetarium underwent a quiet second anniversary on campus yesterday with no exceptional fanfare or celebration, according to A. F. "Tony" Jenzano, Planetarium director.

The Planetarium had its opening here just two years ago yesterday, on May 10, 1949. But the South's first planetarium, the sixth in the country and the most recent of 20-odd such buildings in the world, was packed all day with visiting school groups and students attending the "End of the World" show.

Jenzano said that an extra showing was necessary to take care of the overflow. Shows in the morning, afternoon, and night were given.

One of the oldest alumni of the University was given a special showing of "End of the World" yesterday with his daughter and Controller W. D. Carmichael attending.

Dr. Marion Charles Millender, Class of '33, visited Chapel Hill yesterday with Miss Helen Millender and was a special guest at the Planetarium. He enjoyed the show immensely and was pleased with the technical aspects of the presentation.

According to the Alumni office, Dr. Millender is the fifth oldest living alumnus of UNC.

The Planetarium has experienced a large increase in attendance in the last few months and total attendance in the last few months and total attendance since the opening "Let There Be Light" presentation has been 285,000.

The present show is now in its fourth week and will end this Sunday, Tuesday, "A Trip To The Moon" will be featured.

YWCA Awarded Annual APO Cup

The YWCA has been awarded the Alpha Phi Omega Service Cup as the campus' outstanding organization in the line of service and contribution to the student body, campus, and community.

The cup is awarded annually by the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity to the organization which devotes the most time, energy, and effort in public service.
