

27 Frosh Coeds Enter Nurse Unit

A full-fledged freshman coed class is entering the University for the first time and there are bright indications that the six to one edge the coeds have over men students will drop sharply in the next few years.

The reason?

Those 27 girls that are members of the first class entering the new School of Nursing will mix a general college education course with their nursing studies, meeting in University classrooms until their own building is completed. The School of Nursing building and two dormitories are expected to be finished next summer.

"This first class of freshman nurses represent the future charter members of the alumnae association and will have many responsibilities," Dean Elizabeth L. Kemble, head of the new School said. Dean Kemble indicated that when the full nursing program is underway, there will be 200 students with a large teaching faculty. A faculty of four including Dean Kemble will teach the new students.

Studying in a four year program for the Bachelor of Science in Nursing, the nurses are full fledged University students and will participate in the usual extracurricular activities. During their first year they are taking one nursing course a quarter, which is taught in the School of Medicine building, plus general college subjects.

Janet Merritt of Chapel Hill has been chosen Temporary Class Chairman by her classmates. The girls are living in Smith Dormitory. Coed closing hours will be similar to those of the Women's College for freshmen.

Dean Kemble pointed out that the new nurses will work in small rural hospitals, public health agencies, and other positions during their college years and will help to relieve the critical nurse shortage in North Carolina. Most of the girls are from this State and expect to serve this area when they complete their nursing work.

Dean Kemble came here over a year ago to set up the administrative end of the School. Miss Ruth Mary Boyles and Mrs. Alice Gifford joined her later. They are serving as faculty members.

DAVID C. HUNTLEY

Senior Gets Scholarship

David C. Huntley, a rising senior in the University of North Carolina, has been awarded the $200 art scholarship recently set up by the Art Department of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, it was announced today by Mrs. C. A. Richardson, Brevard, art chairman of the Federation.

A talented and versatile young student, Huntley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huntley of Lenoir. He spent the last two summers at Cherokee where he played a part in "Unto These Hills," helped with technical work at the Playhouse, and also found time for painting, sculpture and ceramics.

The accompanying picture shows Huntley wearing the beard which he grew this summer for his part in the Cherokee drama.

Huntley began his art studies in the Lenoir High School under Miss Margaret Harper. Since entering the University he has studied painting under Kenneth Ness, John Allcott and George Kacheris, and sculpture and art history under Mary Louise Davis, Robert Howard, and Dr. Clemens Sommer.

He will return to Chapel Hill this fall where he hopes to complete work for his degree in creative painting.

UNC Artist Closes Work

Archie Daniels, Chapel Hill artist and member of the staff of Person Hall Art Gallery in the University of North Carolina, has almost completed a book he has been working on for several years and hopes to have it published soon.

It is entitled, "Sunshine and Shadows."

In the foreword, the author explains that the book presents a close scrutiny, or perspective, of how Chapel Hill looked to him in 1940, the year he came here to live, and how it gradually changed from a college village to a wide-awake cosmopolitan community with thousands of busy, happy inhabitants, including a large number of celebrities.

In another passage from the foreword, Daniels says, "The twin sister to sunshine is shadow. At night darkness overshadows half of our planet. This magical drama is in operation all the time. On this fascinating subject I have based the fundamental principles for the title of my book. In the bewitching drama of human life, an occasional shadow will fall

State Department To Send Green On Extensive Tour

Books, mostly in the field of American drama, are being mailed by the University of North Carolina Library to foreign countries in connection with a world tour which Paul Green, North Carolina playwright, will make for the U. S. State Department, beginning Oct 1.

Selected by Green, the books are being packaged and shipped by members of the staff of the Bull's Head Bookshop within the Library with a $5,000 fund from the General Education Board in New York, a Rockefeller-financed agency.

Shipments of 60 packages to the University of Tokyo and 17 to the University of Ceylon in Colombo have already gone, and the University of Burma at Rangoon and other countries in Asia will come next.

Purpose of the tour is to ac-

cross the path of each individual."

Daniels said that the book has four general themes: art, education, religion and temperance.

quaint foreign countries with American education and culture, American ways of life and American ideals. Green's contacts will be with educators, writers and government officials. He will talk with teachers and students and attend various conferences.

Traveling by air and accompanied by Mrs. Green, he will return to this country Jan. 12.

Welcome, Tar Heels

May we "keep you clean" this term? You'll like our laundry and our service—it's cheaper by far.

Shirts Finished by Hand

Rosemary Automatic Laundry

329 W. Rosemary
Phone 5121

NC

Welcome! Old and New Students

Serving Hours:

Breakfast	Lunch	Dinner
7-9 a.m.	11:30-2	5-7:15 p.m.

Closed on Sundays

"The Home of Good Food"

CAFETERIA

USED TEXTS

To S-T-R-E-T-C-H Your Dollars

Prices on new texts get higher and higher. Even used texts have a mean bite now-a-days. But we've done our best to stock books at prices as merciful as the times allow, and we think it will pay you to check up.

For instance, we have used copies of:

- Brooks and Watson — Modern Rhetoric
- Ferguson and McHenry — The American Federal Govt.
- Four Great American Novels
- Introduction to Historical Geology Plus dirt cheap editions of
- Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn
- Neuf Contes Choisis de Daudet
- The Scarlet Letter

BRING IN YOUR OLD TEXTS:

- We buy most any used text, but we particularly need:
- Crockford and Knight Physical Chemistry
 - Wish Contemporary America
 - Ogburn and Nimkoff Sociology
 - Barck, Wakefield and Lefler The United States
 - Weatherwax Plant Biology
 - Best and Taylor The Living Body
 - Lunt History of England

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin Street

Open till 9 P.M.

THE ASPHALT JUNGLE
The City Under The City

Varsity

Thursday & Friday

RETURN MATCH!

RANDY TURPIN
vs. SUGAR RAY ROBINSON

Highlights in SLOW MOTION!
Better Than Ringside Seats!

Distributed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.

OFFICIAL Exclusive WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP FILMS!

A Complete Show of the Entire Fight