Duke, Carolina Law Chapters Hear Devin

Chief Justice Devin of the North Carolina Supreme Court was guest speaker at luncheon at the Carolina Inn last Saturday given by the Duke and Carolina chapters of Delta Theta Phi, national law fraternity.

In his address he emphasized the point that maintaining high ideals and working hard are essential to the achievement of success in the legal profession. He also gave factual situations in several cases, which are now before the Court for decision.

Prof. R. H. Wettach, of the University Law School, and Paul Bryan of Washington, D. C., an attorney and master inspector for the national senate of Delta Theta Phi, were guests at the luncheon. Following Chief Justice Devin's address, Bryan commented on the activities of other senates he had recently visited.

On Saturday night members of Battle senate of the University, their wives and dates were guests of the Byrnes senate of Duke for a dance held in the Shriners' Ballroom in Durham.
