Another Bowl Suggestion

REX ENRIGHT, FOOTBALL COACH at South Carolina raised an interesting point recently when he said the Southern Conference "would go for a permanent contract with a bowl that would match our champion with another."

There was a certain amount of sentiment for such a bowl hook-up even at the Richmond meeting and apparently the feeling has increased. One of the conference's most powerful representatives has said privately on several occasions that he can see nothing wrong with a set-up like the Big Ten has with the Rose Bowl.

It is not the rule on how many times a team may represent the conference that interests most of the schools, but the division of the money. In the Big Ten after expenses are subtracted, the representing school gets two shares of the gate, the conference office gets a share, and all the other nine schools get a share.

"This way," says Max Farrington of George Washington, the president of the Southern Conference, "no team could embark on a tremendous building program and get it all back in one full swoop." He also points out that football, which contributes nothing to the conference office, could help maintain the office under this plan.

The Plan Has Merit

THIS PLAN CERTAINLY HAS merit. The glory of playing in the bowl and the enjoyment of the players would be just as great, even if the cut was reduced radically. Illinois got less than $50,000 after expenses for playing in the Rose Bowl, which is considerably less than Carolina makes for playing Duke.

Whether the reduction in the payoff would make some of the presidents of the conference approve the bowl is doubtful. If all 17 schools in the conference got a cut, playing in bowls would certainly not be a financial killing.

Apparently the NCAA would not prevent the conference from signing such an agreement. The NCAA voted to terminate agreements with bowls after January 2, 1953 until further study is made, which would not prevent the conference to play in the next bowl game under such an agreement.

The bowl people seem interested in such a set-up, because the adverse publicity threatened this year to put them in a bad way. Only the Orange Bowl and the Sugar Bowl of the major bowls are still free to make an agreement. The Sugar Bowl board meets shortly and such a plan will undoubtedly be discussed.

The rub in the Southern Conference comes with selecting a champion. It is possible for two teams to have a perfect record in conference play, but still be second or third in the conference in actual strength. The only way to avoid this would be to have the teams play more conference games, but the big time schools have no interest in playing more than four or five conference games.

And this last problem brings up the old question of breaking up the conference, which many observers say will come shortly.

The New Trophy Cases

LET'S LEAVE THE SOUTHERN Conference and turn to something of purely local interest. The new trophy cases have been installed in Woollen Gym just to the right and left of the main doors in the lobby. But there remain quite a number of trophies which can't be put in the cases and if some philanthropist or class here at Carolina is having trouble disposing of some money they could well donate additional cases.

It would cost about $800 to build a case like one of the two now in Woollen Gym. Last year, the senior class, with trackman Frank Hooper doing much of the arranging, donated $650 towards the cases and Monogram supplemented that amount with $200. The Athletic Association paid the difference of about $350.

The room now occupied by the football coaches was originally a trophy room, but after the war the physical education department expanded until the coaches were forced to move in there, displacing the trophies.

It has been suggested that additional cases be placed in the long hall that runs outside the gym floor. But nothing can be done until some more money comes in.

Tar Heel Relay Team Sets Record

(Special to The Daily Tar Heel)
ATLANTA, Jan. 19—The Carolina swimming team, led by its fine 400-yard relay team which set a new pool record, easily defeated Emory University here today, 57-27, for the Tar Heels' 19th consecutive victory.

The relay team of Jack Edwards, Buddy Heins, Stan Tinkham, and Donnie Evans won in 3:36.2 in the outstanding performance of the day. The new pool mark misses the Southern Conference record of 3:35.8 for which the team is shooting.

Carolina's swimmers smashed three Georgia Tech pool records last Friday night in Atlanta while defeating the Yellow Jackets, 54-30.

Buddy Baarcke cracked the lone individual record, swimming the 200-yard backstroke in 2:19.9. The Tar Heels also topped the record in the 300-yard medley relay with a time of 2:59.1 and that of the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:40.

Tech took only one first place—that in the 100-yard free-style.

The Tar Heels had little trouble winning today, taking nine of 10 first places with Harris taking the only Emory first in the breaststroke.

Freshman Warren Heeman, who has performed well in each meet for the Tar Heels, won his specialty, the backstroke in 2:19.5. Joe Kelson turned in his fourth win of the year in the diving event.

300-yard medley relay—1. Carolina (Baarcke, Wall, Tinkham). Time: 2:59.1. 220-yard freestyle—1. Milton (UNC), 2. McDonough (E), 3. McGruder (E). Time: 2:18. 50-yard freestyle—1. Levy (UNC), 2. Carolina (Edwards, Heins, Tinkham, Evans). Time: 3:36.2. (new pool record.)

Cagers Play Fort Bragg For Charity

The Carolina basketball team will get a stiff workout for next week's scrap with N. C. State when a crack Fort Bragg service team comes here for a March of Dimes exhibition game Tuesday night. Game time is 8 o'clock.

In a preliminary contest the popular Chapel Hill Cub Scout troop will perform in a pair of midget game starting at 7 o'clock.

The Tar Heels will have a big edge in height over the Fort Bragg team which averages only six feet, one inch. However, the soldiers are speedy and aggressive and will offer a good test for the Tar Heels.

The service five has players from all parts of the country on its roster. Five states are represented in the starting lineup. Washington, Ohio, California, Illinois and Colorado have native sons in the first five.

George Campbell of Seattle, Wash., and Charlie Moore of Peoria, Ill., will get the starting forward positions, while Carl Merritt, a Portsmouth, O., service man will open the game at center. Denver's Don Kilker and Bill Murray, a San Francisco star, will perform at guards.

The visitors are coached by Lt. William A. Hobbs.
