

Swimmers Meet Bainbridge Today

Allen Stack, Olympic Star, Leads Navy

by Bill Peacock

The Carolina swimming team, which has polished off four conference foes this year with no difficulty, meets a fine team from the Bainbridge Md., Naval Station today at 4:30 p.m. in Bowman-Gray pool.

The Navy team is led by Allen Stack, the former Yale and Olympic star who will be shooting for Jimmy Thomas' pool backstroke record. The Carolina ace set the record at 2:09.8 which Stack could challenge if he is in top condition. He holds the American long course record in the 100-yard backstroke at 59.7.

Stack, a six-foot, five-inch giant, will have to go some to better Thomas' best performance—2:08.2, which was a collegiate record until 1951 when Jack Taylor bettered it. Stack holds world marks in the 150-yard, 100-meter, and 200-meter backstroke events.

The Top Races

Two of the top races of the day should be the 220 and 440-yard freestyles where Carolina's Donnie Evans and Cecil Milton meet Charles Stephanos, former Ohio State All-American sprinter. Stephanos placed second in the AAU and Intercollegiate meets last year, while Evans and Milton are among the top men in the South in their event. Stephanos has done the 220 in 2:11.4 while Evans has done 2:16.5 and Milton 2:18 this year.

Another star for the Navy is Bill Ballou, the 100-yard freestyle champion of the Middle Atlantic Conference. He will swim against Jack Edwards and Buddy Heins of Carolina in that event and may team with Stack against Baarcke in the backstroke.

Jarvis Blake, All-America high school star from Lodi, N. J. and Henry Daume, 19-year breast-stroker, are two other stars. Daume will be opposed by Carolina's Barry Wall in the breast-stroke.

Rely on Levy

The Tar Heels will rely on Rick Levy, the conference record-holder, in the 50-yard dash and Evans and Baarcke in the individual medley, and Joe Kelso, who is improving each meet, in the diving.

Carolina's fine relay teams, both of which are hoping to set conference records this year, give the Tar Heels added strength. The 300-yard medley relay team will be composed of Baarcke, Wall and Buddy Heins, and the 400-yard relay team will be composed of Stan Tinkham, Heins, Edords, and Evans.

The Tar Heels go into the meet with four straight wins this 19 consecutive wins, the last one being a 57-2 victory over Emory. Bainbridge defeated 50-34 this year and last night met State in Raleigh.

Carolina coaches Dick Jamerson and Ralph Casey attended the meet last night and got a line on the Gobs and the Wolfpack, the team rated the best chance of stripping the Tar Heels of their conference championship.

There will be no admission charge for the meet, but there will be a collection place for money for the March of Dimes.

UNC Champion Cage Teams Will Hold Reunion Here

Four of finest basketball teams of the old days will hold a reunion here Friday, February 1, the night the current Tar Heels meet Duke's Blue Devils in Wool-len Gymnasium.

They are the 1922, 1924, 1925 and 1926 combinations, which won Southern championships in the old tournaments held in Atlanta, which embraced what is now the Southeastern conference, the Southern conference and the S. I. A. A.

The players, numbering 18, along with their coaches and managers, have been invited to the game by Coach Tom Scott and will be introduced between halves.

In Scott's invitation to the "old champions" he wrote: "We believe you would enjoy an evening with your old teammates. You must know that yours was a colorful saga in the University's basketball history and is now a part of Carolina's athletic tradition."

The visitors will be the guests of the University Athletic Association before the game in one of several functions planned at a dinner at the Monogram Club in their honor.
