

Sigma Chi's Honor W. Stutz At Kiddie Party

When five year old Willie Stutz held his birthday party at the Sigma Chi house last Friday night, Sigma Chi's and their dates turned into children again to attend the festive occasion.

Dressed as toddlers for the Kiddie Party, members and dates first had to complete a hopscotch game before entering. The guests had received crayon-written invitations from Willie several days before, which stated that presents were not necessary.

Guests were given bubble gum and party hats at the door and greeted by the music of Frank Wright's Bull City Night Hawks. In the living room, baby blue and pink streamers flowed from wall to wall, helium-filled balloons festooned the ceiling, and paintings of animals, representing chapter activities, decorated the walls.

The kiddies then scooted downstairs to enjoy refreshments at the bar, now bearing the sign, "Corner Drugstore." Advertisements covered the walls and tables and chairs were arranged so that guests could order their choice of cherry pop, animal crackers, ice-cream cones or punch, and an array of candies including all-day suckers, bon-bons, and chocolates.

For February!

For one thing it's the only month with spirit enough to have an extra day once in awhile — and every day counts when you have a bushel of good books to read.

For another, it brings St. Valentines Day, and we're pushovers for romance.

And especially in Leap Year. It perks us up. Even dry old Aristotle upon the shelf has shaken off a little dust and edged over to where he could be reached by Moll Flanders.

Yes sir, these February evenings are just right for a browse a deux in the cosy old bookshop. Come join the the fun, won't you?
