

Campus Club Resembles Miniature United Nations

By Walt Dear

A thriving miniature United Nations here on campus is doing its part to bring more understanding and friendship among foreign lands and this country.

Meeting every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial, the Cosmopolitan Club is a center for world wide discussion. "Cosmopolitan" doesn't just mean foreign students. Besides the students who represent some of the 62 foreign countries many American students also belong. The only passport required for membership is a genuine interest in other nations and payment of dues.

"We try to encourage close contacts and personal friendships among members with the object of helping to promote understanding and friendship among nations," said Bill Huntley, club president.

"Understanding" is gained by discussions of international politics, intrigues and economics. Customs, traditions, and ways of life typical of various nations, are presented through small shows on Sundays. Japan, Belgium, Norway, France, Germany, India, Latin American countries, and others are represented in the club's membership.

To accomplish the club's program, however, more members are needed, Huntley pointed out. No invitations are needed to join.

Coming events on the agenda include the annual dance to be held at the Carolina Inn with the Cosmopolitan Clubs of Woman's College and State and the International Club of Duke.

A Cosmopolitan show will be staged February 10 in the Playmaker's Theatre. Typical songs, dances and dress of many nations will be featured. Last year's show was a complete success and drew good-sized audiences.

The heart of the club's activities, however lies in the weekly meetings when members and guests have discussions and enjoy refreshments.

Conceived shortly after World War Two by religious groups on campus, the club became popular with Carolinians.

Last quarter's president Shahan Haroutunian, of Iran, resigned because of graduation, and has returned home.

Scout Week Begins Here February 6

Scouts all over the world will don their khaki outfits tomorrow to greet their annual Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12.

Nationally the Boy Scouts are taking on a three program named "Forward On Liberty's Team." The program is designed to make the world see the need for appreciating the concept of liberty and participating citizenship.

Bill Roth, District Advancement Chairman, announced that Chapel Hill is cooperating in the weeks celebration. Window displays put in by the scout patrols will be judged and two trophies will be awarded one to a Cub division and one to a Scout division. The Chapel Hill Merchants Association will make the awards.

Sunday night at the Methodist Recreation Center a community dinner will be served for all the scouts and their parents which will be followed by the Court of Honor ceremony at 8:00 p.m. in the Methodist Church

Dean Kemble Will Head Committee

Dean Elizabeth L. Kemble of Utah School of Nursing is chairman of a committee of 17 men and women named by the Southern Regional Education Board which has made recommendations as the beginning of a program to relieve critical nursing needs in all states.

The committee, headed by Dean Kemble with William J. McGlothlin, consultant for professional programs of the Southern Regional Education Board, was appointed to make recommendations after education, health and hospital forces in 14 southern states initiated a regional program aimed at increasing the number and improving the training of nurses.

Recommendations, which are being distributed to universities, hospital schools and other institutions throughout the region, include increasing master's degree programs at college schools of nursing.
