

Mountaineers Top Carolina, 80-65

West Virginia Ties NC State For SC Leader

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—The West Virginia University basketball team moved into a first place tie with N. C. State in the Southern Conference tonight by trouncing an outclassed North Carolina five, 80-65 before a sellout crowd of 7,000 in West Virginia Memorial Fieldhouse.

The high scoring Mountaineers moved into a 23 point lead in the first half, and were able to weather a Carolina rally in the final period that pulled within 8 points of the West Virginians.

The Tar Heels, trailing 47-24 at the half, began to chip away the Mountaineer lead in the last half, and with the fourth quarter almost gone, were threatening the powerful WVU club.

At that point Workman tossed in a basket, and his teammates added two more to kill the Tar Heel rally.

High score for the evening was Workman's 35, while teammates Mack Isner and Jack Shockley scored 14 and 10 respectively.

Al Lifson led the Carolina scoring with 16 points, while Vince Grimaldi collected 14. Jack Wallace hit for 9 points.

The win gives West Virginia a 3-1 record in the conference, equalling that of State who lost to William and Mary Tuesday night. Carolina now has a 6-6 loop mark and a 10-10 overall record. The loss makes the Tar Heels' chances for a berth in the conference playoff seem very remote.

Workman hit on 44 per cent of his shots from the floor, making good on 11 of 25 attempts. His 11 connections of 14 free throws were good for a .777 percentage.

Wrestlers Seek Second Win Against Bulldogs Tomorrow

"Men, this hold is the greatest equalizer since the Colt .45," Coach Sam Barnes told his Carolina wrestling team a few days before last Friday's West Virginia match.

Ed Haines, a solid 147-pounder from Philadelphia, stepped up to serve as the guinea pig. He knew that the young coach was worried about the tough Mountaineers and anything he could do to help get himself and the squad ready for the meet would be beneficial.

"You put your arms around your opponents shoulder this way," explained Barnes grabbing Haines, "and you flip him this way."

"You can break a man's shoulder with this hold if you aren't careful."

The flip occurred.

Haines groaned but didn't move.

"You did, Coach," he answered.

"Did what?"

"Broke my shoulder," the grappler replied.

The junior prospect from the Quaker City managed to get to his feet. His right shoulder was cracked.

"As I was telling you, men," Barnes mumbled, "it takes a tough man to get out of this one in good shape."

The Tar Heels dropped a 30-0 decision to the West Virginia team a few days later without the services of Ed Haines.

The Carolina wrestling team will be seeking its second win of the season tomorrow night when it meets The Citadel. The Tar Heels have lost their last four starts and were shutout 30-0 in their last contest with West Virginia.

The Bulldog team is built around three returning lettermen. The most successful of these is John Scott, a senior, who was undefeated in dual meet matches last year. He wrestles in the 157-pound class and went to the third round of the Southern Conference tournament before being defeated.

The other two Citadel lettermen are Ed Laney and Bill Williams. Laney, another senior, has won eight matches and lost only four in three years on the team in the 130-pound class. Williams wrestles in the 177-pound division and Coach Bostwick of the Bulldogs expects him to better his won one lost three record of last season.

Backing up these lettermen Coach Bostwick has several fine prospects in Douglas Kelley, 123-pound class, Guy Blakely, 137-pound class, D. J. Galvin, 147-pound class, Don Shriner, 167-pound class, and huge Jerry Thayer, 240 pounds, in the heavy-weight class.

Coach Sam Barnes believes the Tar Heels will whip The Citadel. The team is in fine shape and is looking forward to a win Friday night.

The meet will be held at 6:15 as a preliminary to the Citadel-Carolina basketball game.

Duke-W & M Tonight Bird Cagers Hot

DURHAM, Feb. 6—One of the best basketball attractions of the season between a pair of tough teams battling desperately for berths in the annual Southern Conference tournament will be served up in Duke's Indoor Stadium at 8:15 o'clock tonight when the Blue Devils go against William and Mary's Indians.

The Blue Devils who were impressive last week in wins over North Carolina and George Washington, will enter the clash with a five-game winning streak since they dropped a double-overtime to N. C. State's conference champs. They have a 6-3 mark in the conference and at the close of last week's play were tied for seventh spot in the rankings with George Washington.

The Indians had a 6-3, their latest victory being a 70-61 one over N. C. State at Norfolk.

And both of the outfits face tough sledding after their games tonight.
