

Closer Chapel Hill-Carrboro Tieup Asked By Mayor-Professor Gibson

Closer cooperation between Chapel Hill and Carrboro can eliminate much of the duplication of costs and services for the adjoining towns, Carrboro Mayor J. Sullivan Gibson, dean of the geology and geography department here, told the local Rotary Club at its meeting this week. Mayor Gibson who was elected last May, said he plans to devote much of his time to maintaining and improving the relationship between the two communities.

He felt that such a program can best be carried out through three avenues: the governing bodies, the business organization and the community affairs groups, such as civic clubs.

The police departments of the two towns have been cooperating effectively, he said. "When Carrboro is short of a man, we call on Chapel Hill and vice versa. We have no jail in Carrboro and therefore avail ourselves of the Chapel Hill jail. The two fire departments cooperate splendidly."

Interviewer For New Air Program To Visit Campus

Major Ralph J. Ferree, USAF, of North Carolina Military District, Raleigh, will be here February 13-14 to interview applicants for pilot training and for the aircraft observer course of the new program for training young men to become commissioned officers skilled in navigation, bombardment, radar operation, and aircraft performance engineering.

Basic training lasts 27 weeks and is taken by all students. The advanced phase of training varies in length depending on the specific course pursued, but all successful candidates are commissioned at the same time after approximately 52 of training. Graduates of this program may be assigned as crew members of bombardment, transport, reconnaissance, or interceptor type aircraft.

As to qualifications, applicants must be 20 to 26½ years of age, and must have completed 2 years of college in an accredited institution. They must be single, and agree to remain so during the training period. Their physical standards are the same as for Aviation Cadet pilot training, except for less stringent visual requirements.

Major Ferree's primary mission will be to interview and give information to all students who may be interested in this course. He will be available for interviews in the YMCA Library Room on Wednesday and Thursday, February 13 and 14.

For additional information, contact the Placement Service, 209 South building.

There's nothing so impressive

As a beautiful copy of an appropriate book

Say, This is My Beloved, or For You, My Love.

Or maybe, The Prophet.
