

String Concert Tonight In GM

The Marianne Kneisel string quartet will present a program of chamber music in Graham Memorial's main lounge at 8 o'clock.

Billed as the "Foremost Woman's String Quartet," the group has been received enthusiastically throughout the country.

The New York Times said of this quartet: "Highest traditions of chamber music; finely developed sense of ensemble playing. Marianne Kneisel, the first violinist, seems to wield the same powers of leadership which made her father so great a figure in the world of music. Altogether such grace and charm were woven into their playing that it was an evening of delight."

Said the Boston Transcript: "With firm strokes they play sweeping bows and seek a large full-rounded tone. They shape, phrase and period broadly, keep rhythms sharp, cut modulations clean and cultivate a close-knit progress."

Miss Kneisel is the director of the famous Kneisel hall, Blue Hill, Maine, where she presents concerts during July and August and also conducts ensemble classes.

The group has made numerous transcontinental tours, devoting much of their time to performances at Army, Navy and Air Force bases.

Tonight's performance is open to the public without admission charge.

Harvard Club

The Harvard Club of North Carolina will hold its annual dinner meeting on Monday night, April 21, in Lenoir dining hall at 7 o'clock. It was announced yesterday by Mayor J. O. Talley, Jr., Fayetteville, president of the Club.

Principal speaker on the program will be Dr. Kenneth B. Murdock, Francis Lee Higginson professor of English literature in Harvard. He has been associated with Harvard since 1916 when he received his A.B. degree there. As a result of lectures at the University of Upsala, the King of Sweden in 1949 bestowed on Dr. Murdock knighthood in the Royal Order of the North Star.

The State of the Campus conference will wind up this afternoon with a student government pow-wow featuring political candidates for major offices at 2 o'clock, Camp New Hope.

Ham Horton, Ken Barton, Jim McLeod, and Julian Mason will participate.

Press Club Meeting Switched To Bynum

The UNC Press Club will make a change in meeting place and date for its spring quarter activities, club president Leo Northart announced yesterday.

The first regular session of the club this quarter will be held tomorrow night in 306 Bynum Hall at 7:30.

Northart stated that the plans to make the switch were discussed at a recent meeting and both the changes in place and date would be permanent.

"We have received full cooperation from the School of Journalism in regard to using Bynum hall, and I hope the switch will bring about an increased interest in our activities," he said. The organization previously held its sessions in Graham Memorial.

The change to meeting on Monday nights from Thursday was made because many of the members indicated conflicts with other campus affairs on Thursday evenings.

All members and other interested persons are requested to be present at tomorrow's meeting, as plans for this quarter's projects will be discussed.

After the Dewey loss in 1948, the club died out for want of leadership. It is now being reactivated by Curt Ratledge, Guilford College and Jim Watts, Taylorsville.

-Albert Coates Honored-

speech follow:
The words of Coates are a reminder of those of Philosopher Socrates who 23 centuries ago on one occasion said: "No one undertakes a trade he has not learned, even the meanest, yet everyone thinks himself sufficiently qualified for the hardest of all trades—that of Government."

Even in those days, Love said, such talk was considered such false ideology that Socrates was sentenced to death by the drinking of hemlock.

"Long a prophet without honor in his own community, Coates has not suffered from any lack of national acclaim," the Trustees' statement said. Authorities in government, statesmen, and professional societies over the country have applauded his determined efforts to preserve the strengths of our governmental machinery and to strengthen its weaknesses.

"Four years ago a leading national publication offered to finance and sponsor a speaking tour to permit every state in the union to hear Coates preach the gospel of the Institute of Government. Coates declined. He explained, 'There is too much work to do right here in North Carolina.'"

Love said the University community "has been slow in formally honoring Albert Coates; but all along he has had staunch friends inside the University and outside. Over $150,000 of private donations have been given to the Institute.

The General Assembly has shown its gratitude for Coates' work by increasing appropriations. The Institute operates on a budget of $85,000 a year, part of which is the State's appropriation; the rest is membership fees paid by participating cities and counties. Eighty-five percent participate.

Reserve Rooms For Summer

Male dormitory residents yesterday were reminded they have an option for reserving rooms for the summer and fall quarters.

It was pointed out that a room reserved for the summer only does not entitle the occupant to that space in the fall. The reservation with deposit must be made with the University cashier, South Building, not later than May 1. Summer school deposit is $15 and the fall deposit is $6.

Lewis and Connor dormitories will be used for graduate men students only this summer.

The following dormitories will not be available this summer: Battle-Vance-Pettigrew, Manly, Ruffin, Whitehead, Alexander, Joyner, and Winston. Occupants of these buildings who plan to attend summer school will be assigned other rooms.

All triple rooms in the lower quadrangle will be changed to double rooms.

Women students have until April 1 to make reservations. Only a $6 deposit is required for each quarter for women students. The deposit may be made with the cashier at South Building.
