

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LX CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1952 NUMBER 133

Greek Week Views Offered By Barton, House, Others

Although still wheezing and wobbling on weak legs, Greek Week was found by a Daily Tar Heel survey of fraternity officers to be better this year and definitely here to stay.

The survey, printed in yesterday's paper, polled all of the campus' 22 fraternities.

In the same issue a story was printed in which President Henry Bowers asked that the power to try hazing cases be removed from the Interfraternity Council court and given to the Men's Honor Council. He cited the IFC court's acquittal of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity as "inadequate" in a statement given to this paper.

Printed below are statements of various other student and Administration leaders regarding Greek Week.

Ken Barton, SP nominee for president of the student body: "The fact that Greek Week has not been as successful as was originally hoped has been a great disappointment to me. I have always opposed hazing in any form whatever and believe firmer steps towards its elimination should be taken. There is no place on a mature college campus for such foolishness. It is a violation of the rights of freshmen and all codes of decency.

"However, I do not believe that transferring the violation cases suggested by President Henry Bowers to the Men's Honor council will solve the problem. It will only break down law enforcement. The Interfraternity council should be allowed to enforce its laws.

"... Hazing has been abolished in words; now is the time to abolish it in action."

Chancellor R. B. House: "Personally and on behalf of the University, I am delighted with Greek Week as it has worked out here this year. I know the careful planning that went into all the arrangements. I have heard good reports about various parts of the program which I could not attend personally, and I participated in the culmination of the whole program in the banquet in Lenoir hall Thursday night.

"I think what was represented there by the elder brothers from the fraternities, in the character, brains and personality of the pledges, in the ideals of the University as presented by Dr. Greer, all of which found a warm response from the students—all of this, I believe, is a high point in student life, and I believe it prophesies great things for fraternities in the University at Chapel Hill."

Roy W. Holsten, assistant dean of students: "The Interfraternity council, particularly Arthur Spaugh and his Greek Week committee, is to be congratulated for the positive contribution which the activities of fraternity pledges made to the campus during the past week. Carolina should be proud of the fact that its Greek Week program is looked upon as an example by colleges throughout the country.

"This year's activities culminated in one of the best displays of campus spirit I have seen in the past few years..."

Dr. L. C. MacKinney, chairman of the faculty fraternity committee: "Greek Week ended in a fine display of esprit de corps as I have ever seen among the Greek neophytes on this campus... as I watched Lenoir hall banquet the intelligent, intent faces of the handsome young men... I felt sure of the successful future of UNC."

Arthur Spaugh, Greek Week chairman: "We're still thinking too much in terms of Hell Week. Greek Week was far better this time than it was last year. And next year it will be even better. We can't do this thing overnight. In three or four years Greek week will be accepted without question."

Others desiring to contribute blood should telephone the Red Cross office (2-8811) for appointments.

The taking of blood is a short and simple operation involving no danger and causing no pain.

The drive here is being undertaken by the local Red Cross blood committee headed by Dr. R. H. Wettach and a publicity committee directed by Joel Fleishman, representing the National Students Association.

A quota of 400 pints has been set for Chapel Hill.

The blood is made available, without charge, to the armed forces and civilian physicians and hospitals.

On September 10, 1951, Generals Marshall, Bradley and Ridgway launched a joint effort of the military and the Red Cross to procure 2,800,000 pints of blood for the armed forces by July of 1952.

GM Concert Is Tomorrow

Calvin Lampley of Chapel Hill will present a piano concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Graham Memorial main lounge.

Lampley, member of the musical advisory staff for Columbia records, began his piano studies with William S. Newman, lecturer and pianist at the University. He graduated from the Juilliard School of Music in New York City where he studied with Irwin Freudlich.

The critics of the New York newspapers acclaimed Lampley's appearance in Carnegie Hall last season as being "brilliant, sensitive, and more imaginative than many."

Grail To Tap

The Order of the Grail, second highest campus men's honorary group, will tap 13 student leaders in secret rites Monday night. They will be chosen from the sophomore and junior classes.

Each spring the Grail selects 13 men, half from fraternities and half not from fraternities, on the basis of character, achievement, and service to the campus. This year the group will tap seven fraternity and six non-fraternity men.

The Grail was founded in 1920 under President Frank Graham's administration.

Dramatists Set Staging Of 3 1-Act Scripts

Three original one-act plays will be presented in the Playmakers' theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

There is no admission charge. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m.

The scripts chosen for presentation are "The Overture" by Lynn Neill, Roanoke, Va.; "Hold Onto Darkness" by Albert Moore, Miami Beach, Fla., and "Tumplins Tarries," by Louise Lamont, Chapel Hill. The authors are all students in the playwriting courses at the University. This will mark the first stage performance of their works.

"The Overture" is a study of a romance between a young boy and girl, and the conflict of their ideals and goals in life. The audience is asked to judge whether these young people can adjust to one another in married life.

Baity Is Named Director Of United Nations Unit

Dr. Herman G. Baity, head of the sanitary engineering department here has accepted appointment as director of the newly established Division of Environmental Sanitation of the World Health Organization, one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations.

The appointment is for one year with the privilege of requesting an additional year, subject to the approval of the University Trustees at their May meeting.

Dr. Baity was offered the position on a permanent basis, but he declined because he did not wish to sever his ties with the University and leave Chapel Hill for good.

Baity and his family will leave Chapel Hill early in June for Geneva, Switzerland, European headquarters of the WHO. He will work primarily through the six established regional offices, which are located in the Near East and the Far East and in this country, although he expects to spend much of his time in the field.

This appointment is regarded as one of the most important positions in the international field of public health, and the appointment is regarded as high recognition of the reputation of Health.

He has been associated with the WHO in important assignments on two previous occasions. In the fall of 1950 and in the summer of 1951, he served as sanitary engineering adviser to the European regional office. In this connection he organized the first seminar for European sanitary engineers and consulted with the health ministries of several of the European countries, including Italy.
