

Carolina Beats Yale, 5-0; Loses, 3-0

Lore Shuts Eli Out With Four Hits

By Tom Peacock

Righthanded Bill Lore pitched shutout ball and gave Yale University only four hits here yesterday, to give North Carolina a 5-0 win. The Tar Heels, fast becoming the Hitless Wonders, amassed five hits against three Yale pitchers, but four Yale errors gave Carolina the game.

Two men reached second base, and one man reached third against the effective Lore, and he was in mild trouble only once during the contest. Lore's control was perfect, with two bases on balls chalked up against him and three strike outs to his credit. He alternated his fast ball, curve, and floating knuckler so well the Eli could rarely get more than a piece of the ball.

Yale Pitching Good

Yale's pitching was good, and the only extra-base hit of the game was a tremendous, 375-foot triple by Skeet Hesmer in the third inning off losing pitcher Bob Brown. Carolina got a man on base by way of walks or errors in every inning except the first, and eight men were left on base.

Carolina grabbed a one-run lead in the second inning off a walk, single, and long fly. Ben Smith walked to open the inning, and Charlie Bridger singled him to second. Smith went to third on a fielder's choice, and Bill Reeves batted him home with a long fly to right.

Rally In Sixth

The Tar Heels knocked Yale starting pitcher, Bob Brown, out of the box in the sixth inning with a three run rally. Bruce Coats walked to open the inning, and took second on Fred Dale's single. Smith sent them both home with a single to center field, and then Smith scored when the Eli right fielder made a two-base error on a fly hit by Bridger. Yale coach Ethan Allen put pitcher Bill Ellis in, and he retired the next three men.

Yale committed three errors in the seventh inning and gave Carolina another run, its last of the game. Pitcher Bill Lore grounded to Christy Emerson, Yale third baseman, who dropped the ball, and then Emerson threw wild to second base after fielding Coats' grounder. With men on first and third, Yale's shortstop dropped a ground ball hit by White, and Lore scored, making the score 5-0, Carolina.

The round robin tournament between Yale, Michigan State, and Carolina will continue Monday when Yale plays the Spartans at 1:30, and Carolina at 4:00.

Baseball Monday

The Carolina baseball nine will meet Yale University here again Monday afternoon at 4:00 in the second game of a double header.

Yale will meet Michigan State for the first time in the round robin tournament at 1:00. Tuesday, Michigan State will play a double header to end the tournament, and prizes will be awarded.

Tar Heels Shut Out On 3 Hits

by Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina baseball team was shut out for the first time this season, as Don Quayle of Michigan State threw a brilliant three hitter at the Tar Heels, beating them 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader. Chal Port went all the way for Carolina and suffered his first loss of the season.

Quayle was never in trouble, showing beautiful control in not walking a single man and striking out five. Port was not as effective as usual as he gave up eight hits and issued three free passes.

One Scoring Chance

The only scoring opportunity for the Tar Heels was in the first inning when Bruce Holt lashed a triple down the right field line. However, he was out by a mile trying to stretch it into a home run. The rest of the game the Carolina attack was silenced by the superb pitching of Quayle. At one time during the game, he retired eleven batters in a row.

In the ninth inning Dick Weiss led off with a single for Carolina and the crowd called for a rally. But Quayle struck out Coates, who batted for Port, and retired Lloyd and Holt on flies to the infield.

Michigan State scored the only runs of the game in the fifth when they bunched three hits and one Carolina error. After Rivich grounded out to start the inning, Risch singled. Dilday and Ghise followed with singles to score Risch with the first run. Quayle then hit a grounder to third base on which Holt made a perfect throw to the plate, but the speeding Dilday crashed into Weiss and he dropped the ball. Ghise scored the final run of the game on a fly to centerfield by Mathews.

Spartans Threaten

The Spartan's only other real scoring threat came in the eighth inning. Lean skied to the shortstop to open, but Port issued his third pass of the game to Bower. Rivich flew out to left field, but Risch followed with a double down the left field line which Motsinger played beautifully, holding Bower at third.

Spring Football Under Way; Snavelly To Install Split-T

Eighty-three hopefuls greeted coach Carl Snavelly here yesterday as Carolina opened its spring practice sessions for the 1952 season.

Included were 20 lettermen from last year's team and missing were 20 more who will not be around when Carolina opens its schedule here September 27 against the University of Texas.

The Tar Heels will hold 20 days of work in the next 30 days, skipping drills on Sundays and Tuesdays, and will wind up the workouts with the annual Blue-White football game in Kenan Stadium April 26.

New coach George Barclay, will be one of the key figures in the installation of the T-formation. The Tar Heels will switch from their traditional Snavelly-style single wing to the split-T during the 20-day workout.

Otto Graham, the great Cleveland Browns quarterback, will be on hand next week to work with the ball handlers.

A pair of Tar Heels who were not in school last year made an appearance yesterday. Carmen Annillo, a varsity team candidate in 1950, has returned following a year of inactivity at Loyola University of Los Angeles. Harold (Bull) Davidson, ineligible last season following a fine freshman season, is another backfield candidate. Davidson is a fullback, while Annillo is a quarterback prospect.

Captain Joe Dudeck, Dalton Ruffin, Dick Weiss, Bud Carson, Julian King, Dave Wiley, Andy Miketa, Bob (Goo Goo) Gantt, and Bill Kuhn are Tar Heel regulars of past seasons who will

With men on second and third, Dilday grounded to short to end the threat.

Both teams played well defensively, each committing one error. Several sparkling outfield plays were made by the Carolina defense, and the infield turned in two fast double plays. Corky Ghise stood out on defense for the Spartans, handling eight chances at second base without committing an error.

graduate in June. Dick Bestwick, Skeet Hesmer, Glen Nickerson, Bill O'Brien, Bill Kelso and Abie Williams are other graduating players.
