Carolina Netters Beat Harvard, 8-5

5th Straight Victory For Tar Heels

By Tom Peacock

The Carolina tennis team extended its record to five wins and no losses here yesterday, taking the first six singles matches and defeating Harvard University, 8-5. Two doubles matches were called on account of darkness.

The netters, playing 10 singles and five doubles instead of the usual six and three, were hard-pressed in most of the matches by a surprising Harvard team, and had to come from behind in three of the six singles wins. Harvard took all the singles matches from the seven position on down the line, and were about to win another doubles match when it was called. Carolina's first doubles team, Sylvia and Izlar, were leading when their match was called.

Sylvia Comes From Behind

Charles Ufford, Harvard number one man and National Squash Champion, took a quick 2-0 lead over Del Sylvia in the first set, and the Carolina captain had to make a comeback to get an 8-6 win.

The longest and strangest match of all was the number six singles. Carolina's Ronnie Kerdasha shot to a 5-0 lead over Bill Goodman and seemed a cinch to win the set, but Goodman won six straight to take a 6-5 lead. The pair saw-sawed back and forth, and Kerdasha finally won, 11-9. Goodman easily won the second set, 6-3, and then commanded a 5-1 lead in the third set. Kerdasha called on his reserve, and won six straight games to take the set and win the match.

Play Rest Of Week

The team will switch positions tomorrow and play 15 more matches against Harvard, and then continue on a grueling schedule for the rest of the week. April 2 through 5 the netters will play four 15 match contests, two against Williams College, and two against Dartmouth. Tennis Coach John Kenfield was pleased with the results of the long match, but thought it was a strain on the players.

Singles—Sylvia (UNC) defeated Ufford (H), 8-6, 6-4; Browne (UNC) defeated Rauh (H), 6-2, 7-5; Payne (UNC) defeated Watts (H), 6-1, 6-1; Handel (UNC) defeated French (H), 6-3, 6-2; Izlar (UNC) defeated Murphy (H), 6-3, 6-3; Kerdasha (UNC) defeated B. Goodman (H), 11-9, 3-6, 7-5; Sonnabend (H) defeated Sapp (UNC), 6-0, 3-6, 8-6; King (H) defeated Booker (UNC), 6-0, 6-1; Spencer (H) defeated Green (UNC), 6-2, 8-6; Stone (H) defeated Milton (UNC), 6-4, 6-3.

Carolina Has 72.8 Mark In Victory

By Biff Roberts

Two-under-par 70's by Bob Black and Lew Brown led Carolina's steady golfers to a 26 1/2-1 1/2 rout over Amherst at Finley Golf Course yesterday afternoon as the Tar Heels completed their third win of the young season.

With the help of the sub-par rounds by Brown and Black the six Carolina golfers averaged just 72.8 in subduing the first of many northern colleges to play at Finley in the next few weeks.

Jim Ferree took third honors with a par 72, while Bill Thornton and Tommy Langley with 75's, and Bill Williamson with 76 rounded out the Tar Heel scoring.

Brown Has 34

Brown, playing in the last four-some with Thornton, shoot steadily the whole 18 but couldn't get important putts to drop for him. He had a 34 on the front side but his putts failed him on the back side and he had to settle for a par 36.

Black's 70 was even more amazing. He birdied five out of the last six holes to give him a 35 to go with his front-side 35. Unfortunately, bogeys on 10, 11, 12, and 14 ruined what might have been a record-equalling round.

Bill Hartman made the best effort for Amherst, a 77, but it wasn't enough to compare with Black's sub-par shooting. Jim Williams got the lone half point for the visitors by tying Ferree on the front nine in their match.

Team Gets Rest

Brown had four birdies in dropping Ed Bruning while Black ended his round with a total of six. He had eight pars and a bird on the first nine. Ferree also had his share of the sub-par shooting, getting five birdies, but bogey shooting on other holes kept him from breaking par on the 18.

The team will have a few days rest before meeting a strong Williams team on Friday. They face the toughest part of the schedule next week, however, with Virginia, Michigan, Purdue, and Ohio hitting here in a six-day period.

Double—Sylvia-Izlar (UNC) tied Ufford-B. Goodman (H), 8-6, 9-11 (called); Browne-Payne (UNC) defeated French-Watts (H), 6-4, 6-2; Handel-Kerdasha (UNC) defeated King-Stone (H), 4-6, 6-4, 6-2; Ward-F. Goodman (H) were leading Booker-Milton (UNC), 6-2, 6-6 (called); Murphy-Peterson (H) defeated Sapp-Green (UNC), 6-2, 6-3.

UNC Nine vs Spartans, Netters vs Harvard

Carolina goes into the last game of the round robin tournament against Michigan State today with possible victory in the tourney hanging in the balance.

The Tar Heels boast a 2-1 record at this point and Michigan State's Spartans have a 2-0 mark. The Spartans play Yale in the first game at 1:30, and tangle with Carolina at 4. A State victory in both contests would clinch the title, while a split with Carolina winning would tie the Spartans with the Tar Heels, and a double loss would give Carolina the crown.

Carolina coach Walt Rabb will probably start Roger Paschal or A. Z. (Country) Wood against Michigan State, saving Bill Lore and Chal Port for the Wake Forest and Pennsylvania games this weekend.

The Tar Heel tennis team plays Harvard here today at 3 o'clock with Carolina looking for its sixth straight victory. Coach John Kenfield's young squad is undefeated thus far this season.

Tomorrow Is Coed Golf Day

The Coed Golf Club is sponsoring a Golf Afternoon in Kenan Stadium tomorrow at 4 p. m. Instruction will be offered for beginners, learners and practicers.

Women students who would like to join the club may do so by qualifying with a nine-hole round of 60 or better. The club, which was organized during the winter quarter, now has 15 members and would love to have more.

A club tournament is planned for this quarter and matches with neighboring schools are hoped to be made.

The club holds its Golf Afternoon every Wednesday in Kenan Stadium. Anyone desiring further details is asked to call Sarah Ann Proctor, president of the Club.
