Pace Won't Appeal Council's Decision

Robert Pace yesterday withdrew from the presidential campaign, which he was never really in.

He stated his decision not to appeal to the faculty the recent Student Council decision which upheld the academic eligibility provisions of the elections law.

"Student problems should be settled within the student set-up insofar as possible," Pace said.

He described the council's decision, however, as "wrong, undemocratic, and out of keeping with the American ideal," and said he would "take the question to the student body on a referendum as provided for in the student constitution."

Pace, who does not have a "C" average, last week presented a petition to run for president of the student body to the Elections Board. It was rejected, due to the academic eligibility requirements, and Pace appealed to the council which ruled against him.

His campaign manager, John S. Spong, stated yesterday that Pace was "not at this time going to throw his support to either candidate. He will, however, announce his personal preference before the election, after a careful examination of candidates and platforms."

Speaking for himself, Spong offered his services to "Gene Cook who is campaign manager for Ken Barton and the Student Party."

Forms In Mail For Old Well Membership

Application forms for membership in the Order of the Old Well, honorary campus organization, have been mailed, President Allan Milledge yesterday said.

He pointed out that some persons eligible might have been overlooked. They may pick up the blanks from Dean Ernest Mackie in room 313 South building.

Campus activities generally used for selection of members are student government, scholarship, self-help, dramatics, publications, athletics, campus organizations, and honors.

Not Used

Whether he meant it or not, President Henry Bowers got a big laugh from the coeds at the candidates meeting in Alderman dormitory Tuesday night.

The student body president recently moved into his new office on the first floor of Graham Memorial which was made by walling off part of the large ladies lounge.

Henry was saying "... I got this new office because the ladies lounge wasn't being used much. I..." The roar of laughter drowned him out.

Abbott Slates Tips To Grads On Working

H. Paul Abbott, director of education and of employment of the Insurance Company of North America Companies, Philadelphia, will discuss "What Employers Look for in College Graduates," Monday evening in Gerrard Hall.

Abbott visits many colleges each year to recruit employees and supervises their training. He is active in various personnel, training, and placement directors association.

A graduate of Princeton, Abbott's experience prior to joining the North America companies included teaching, headmaster of Newark Academy, flight instructor and co-author of the primary flight training manual with the U.S. Naval Air Corps.

Abbott's talk is sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity. The public is invited.

Barton Asks Furnishing Of Social Rooms

Ken Barton, SP candidate for president, yesterday released the following statement:

"During the past three years under the Student party administrations over half the dormitories have received social rooms, but the hopes of completing this program and the hopes of furnishing these rooms with nice furniture in the near future is dim unless we change the present procedure.

"I propose that we borrow money next year and if at all possible use some of the profits of the Book Ex that are now under investigation as a means of completing this program.

"In this manner set up a revolving fund through which we will be able to pay back any money that we borrow and above all keep the social rooms in good shape. Above all I would work with the IDC to complete the program, but propose that our goal in social rooms be to complete the program fully for all dorms in the coming year."

Three WC Professors Awarded Ford Grants

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL.
CHARLOTTE, April 2—Three professors at the Woman's College of UNC have been awarded Ford Foundation fellowships for the 1952-53 school year.

They are Richard Bardolph, Lenore Rhona O'Boyle, and Eugent E. Pfaff. The grants are part of a $1,140,000 fund set up to assist college professors who are working on projects for the advancement of higher education.

Mason Says Veep Has Vital Other Job

Julian Mason, SP candidate for the vice-presidency of the student body, yesterday issued the following campaign statement:

"As most of us know, the Student legislature is the weakest link in our student government today. It was designed to be the most important link between the student body and student government. It has shirked this responsibility continually.

"I must admit that during my three terms in that body I have often been guilty of this too, as has every legislator at one time or another. However, during those three terms I have been able to see the potentialities of the Student Legislature and have become familiar with every possible means of making it become what it should be.

"To me the Student Legislature should be a 'standing army' constantly organized to express student opinion on matters which concern every student, such as possible Saturday classes, possible tuition raises, matters of curriculum, and matters of the expenditure of block fees.

"Today the Legislature is not in a position to do that because it has lost contact with the students who elected it. How can this situation be remedied? By putting pressure on the legislators and making them hold dorm and fraternity bull sessions regularly on the problems at hand and in an effort to bring to the front other needs of the Student Body as a whole.

"I would like to have an opportunity to try the methods which I have become familiar with while in the Legislature, and if they do not work, I propose taking the problem myself to the students through The Daily Tar Heel and personal contact so that they may apply the pressure on the legislators.

"With this sort of concern there will be no time for the parliamentary gymnastics and party wrangling which have hampered the Legislature 'till now; and efforts will naturally be directed not against the opposite party, but toward fulfilling student needs. Perhaps it would be wise to move its meetings back to Gerrard hall where it would be more convenient for students to attend.

"The Legislature has reached its present state because no-one was willing to take any initiative in seeing that it was otherwise. This should be the job of the vice-president. Both of my opponents have stated that they

New BA Buildings, Cobb Dorm Slated For Use This Fall

University students will begin using $2,464,800 worth of new buildings and equipment this fall, a review of the $20,000,000 construction program here showed yesterday.

Cobb dormitory, costing $958,600 and with equipment valued at $41,500, will be completed this summer but used on a limited basis only, University officials said. Located next to the Monogram Club, it will begin full operation next fall.

The other big project scheduled for completion by September is the three-unit business administration school, located behind Memorial hall. Construction has been held up by strikes on the job here as well as in the industry which prohibited the builders from getting materials. The buildings will cost $1,264,700. Equipment in them will be valued in excess of $200,000.

The money for these and the manifold other projects—some already in use—was appropriated by the 1947 and 1949 General Assembly. The lawmakers gave the University $20,028,000 for expansion. Among those already completed is the addition to Manning hall.

The addition to Venable hall, costing $1,317,400 and to contain $250,000 worth of equipment, is not expected to be ready for use until at least September, 1953. "This is purely a personal guess," Operations Director J. S. Bennett said.

Bad weather last fall and this winter aggravated the already difficult job of excavating and laying foundations for the chemistry building addition.

Asked when the Medical school construction program will be completed, C. E. Teague, assistant controller and business manager, smiled and stated, "It depends how often they strike us." Federal funds amounting to $200,000 will be used toward the completion of the research cancer clinic floor in the hospital. The clinic will have over $19,000 worth of equipment.

Further breakdown of the appropriation figures showed the north wing addition to the Medical school will cost $350,000 and the south wing is estimated to cost $385,000. The Medical school before additions, has a contract price of $4,455,400 with $900,000 invested in equipment.

An obstetric ward will comprise the fourth floor of the Infirmary. Cost of this unit will be $348,600.

The dental school, with $400,000 worth of equipment, and the nursing school, with $192,450 in equipment, will cost $865,000 and $1,980,000 respectively.

Coffee Hours

The first in a series of faculty-student coffee hours will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

All members of the University faculty and administrative personnel are urged to attend, and an invitation is extended to the entire membership of the student body.

Purpose of the Coffee-Hour series is to make an attempt to bring about improved faculty-student relations.

"The get-together will last for one hour, will be quite informal, and those who attend are free to go wherever they wish," said Bill Roth, GM director.

Doughnuts will be served along with the coffee. Free, of course.

BO THORPE, SP candidate for head cheerleader, promises to have cheerleading at basketball as well as football games. From Rocky Mount, Thorpe attended East Carolina college before transferring here this winter. He was head cheerleader at ECC while only a freshman.

Gross Claims Ken Penegar Backed Down

Ed Gross, UP nominee for secretary-treasurer of the student body, yesterday issued the following campaign statement:

"It has come to my attention that my opponent for the secretary-treasurership of the student body, Mr. Penegar, has come out in favor of retaining student block fees at their present level. I believe that such a stand is exactly opposite from the stand which he took in the dorm discussion in Graham dorm last Wednesday night, at which time he advocated getting more money for Student Government, "through a raise in block fees, if necessary."

"At that time I stated that I was opposed to raising block fees, and hoped that additional money could be raised through obtaining some of the profits from the University Book Exchange. Now I find that my opponent has come out with the very same plank, trying to pass it off as an original idea. Apparently it must have been a good one!

"It is my belief that, through judicious management of the funds available through block fees, enough money can be found to operate student government properly. I hope that some money can be saved from other items in order to re-establish Tarnation, possibly on a half subscription, half-budget basis. That, however, is pure conjecture, and we shall have to wait and see how much
