Public Health Dean Edits Monthly Review

Dean Edward G. McGavran of the School of Public Health has been named chairman of the Board of Editors of "Public Health Reports," a magazine issued monthly under authority of an act of Congress by the Public Health Service of the Federal Security Agency.

It is published primarily for distribution to directors and supervisors of public health programs and to institutions training public health personnel.

Dean McGavran was also recently named chief of the Committee on Field Training of the American Public Health Association. The Committee holds its

"The one or two suggestions made by them, such as a publicity committee and coverage by a Daily Tar Heel reporter, have already been tried and did not produce the desired results.

"The job of the vice-president is more than just that of a president. In my opinion he should be one so experienced in the workings of the Legislature that this would not need to be his sole area of work in student government.

"As it stands now, the legislative duties of the vice-president are only being half fulfilled and the executive duties are being completely neglected. I am not merely a candidate for speaker, but for vice-president of the student body.

next session April 8.

The magazine, "Public Health Reports," is an amalgamation of the former weekly, "Public Health Reports," which had been published since 1878 and several Public Health Service technical periodicals.

The publication covers such varied and complex fields as basic research and problems of the aged, rehabilitation, and hospital construction, in addition to the control of epidemic diseases and the fight against the venereal diseases and tuberculosis.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, says "it is our hope that the new "Public Health Reports" will be a useful and challenging source of information for all who are working in this field. The new monthly journal will focus primarily on public health service, health service administration, and on research in these fields. It will be concerned largely with those aspects of public health which touch upon the work of the official agencies."
