

Lore Beats State In 14 Innings, 3-2

Herring's Hit Wins Game For Carolina

By Tom Peacock

RALEIGH, April 8—Bill Lore pitched and batted North Carolina to a 3-2 win over N. C. State here today, allowing only 10 hits in 14 innings, and getting three hits of Carolina's seven.

Tar Heel second baseman Mark Herring broke a 2-2 tie in the top of the 14th when he hit his second consecutive single, a line drive to right field, and batted in Bruce Holt with the winning run. Holt had walked to open the inning and was sacrificed to second by Connie Gravitte. He was caught at the plate on a perfect throw by State right fielder Ed Horbelt, but he knocked the ball and Dick McGillis, State catcher, to the ground with a powerful slide.

Perfect Control

Lore had perfect control during the whole game, and was in trouble only once. State got an unearned run in the first inning on a single and a two-base error by Holt, cutting short Lore's record of 24 scoreless innings, and giving the Wolfpack a 1-0 lead.

State increased its lead to 2-0 in Lore's only bad inning, the second. Horbelt singled, McGinnis followed with a single sending Horbelt to third, and State pitcher Lensford Lewis singled him home. Lore improved each inning after that, holding State scoreless for the rest of the game.

Dale Homers

Carolina got its first run in the fourth inning on a 345-foot home run by shortstop Fred Dale with no one on base. Dale also gave the Tar Heels excellent support in the field, making three good plays.

The Tar Heels got an unearned run in the eight to tie the score. Dick Weiss went to first on an error by the third baseman, was sacrificed to second by Lore, and came home on left fielder Wayne White's single. Herring singled and went to second on a sacrifice in the 13th inning, but died on base.

Lore walked only three men during the game, and one was an intentional pass, while he struck out four. Lewis pitched a beautiful game also, walking six, one intentionally, and striking out 6.

Par-Buster Tommy Langley Chosen Athlete Of The Week

By Biff Roberts

When an amateur golfer shoots a 70, that's news. But when an amateur averages 70 for his first four matches in college play, then brother, the sportswriters really have a story.

For that reason sophomore Tommy Langley has been chosen as this week's Daily Tar Heel Athlete of the Week.

In his first season with the varsity Tommy has shown no signs of green sophomoreism which usually accompany a new man to any team. He started in the first match to show he was a par-buster by shooting a 69 against N. C. State, and there haven't been any signs of his letting up since.

But that 69 didn't suit Langley. In the next match against Davidson he knocked two more strokes off par for a sweltering 67.

Slips A Little

He slipped a little against Amhurst when the pressure wasn't on and had a 75. A 39 on the front nine got him off to a bad start but he got back in the groove on the back side with an even par 36.

He proved that the 75 came on an off day in his next match by knocking out another 69 against Williams. His putting was phenomenal that day for he used only 24 to get down on the 18 greens.

The duffer comes out in every good golfer and Tommy is no exception. He had his first bad round of the year against Virginia Monday and lost his first points of the season by shooting a 78. There's little doubt that he'll be back down in the 60's before long, however.

Ties Course Record

On top of his fine match play Langley has found time to tie the University course record of 65. He did that the day after the Davidson match and he might have the record all to himself now if he hadn't three-putted the newly-sanded 18th green.

As it is he holds the record along with former NCAA champ Harvie Ward, footballer Larry Parker, and club pro Ed Kenney.

With two more years of eligibility, Langley will be a definite threat for national honors if he keeps up this pace in the years to come. But as for the immediate future, it's a good bet that he'll bring a lot of moans from his opponents in the rest of the Carolina matches.

Life Saving

All persons interested in taking the course in senior life saving are asked to meet tomorrow in 304 Woolen Gym.

All students who are qualified water safety instructors are also asked to attend the meeting.

Elections

Vying for the student body vice-presidency are Ted Frankel, Atlanta, Ga., Julian Mason, Williamston; and Jim McLeod, Florence, S. C.

Ed Gross, UP, Harrisburg, Pa., and Kenneth Penegar, SP, Gastonia, are seeking the student body secretary-treasurer post.

Appearing on the head cheerleader ballot are Chester Goodin, UP, Waynesville, and Bo Thoy, Rocky Mount.

Golfers Play Wolverines Here Today

Carolina's golf team will try to make it two for two this week when they meet Michigan today at 1:30 on Finley Golf Course.

The Tar Heels trounced Virginia Monday, 20½-6½, but they will probably have a tougher time against the Wolverines. Wake Forest defeated Michigan on Monday, 16-11, in a match played at Pinehurst.

Number-one man for Michigan is Dick Evans, son of the famous golfer Chick Evans, who is the present Ohio state champion.

Carolina defeated the Wolverines, 16-11, here last year and Michigan has five members of that team back. Along with Evans are Dean Lind, Lowell LeClair, John Fraser, and Hugh Wright.

Carolina will have to recuperate from the bad showing it had against Virginia if it expects to beat the Wolverines. The Tar Heel scores against the Cavaliers took a tremendous jump from the usual rounds and the Carolina golfers will have to get back in line if they expect to run their victory string to six.

Coach Chuck Erickson will probably go along with the same six men who have started the last four matches. That would be Bob Black, Bill Williamson, Tommy Langley, Jim Ferree, Lew Brown and Bill Thornton.

Tiger Trackmen Have Same Team That Won Last Year

By Bill Peacock

When the Carolina track team holds its first dual meet of the season here Saturday against Princeton, it will find that the Tigers have most of the same men who led them to a victory over the Tar Heels last year—snapping a streak of 12 consecutive wins.

The Tiger who clinched the meet for Princeton last year will be back leading another strong team. It was Al Pittis' first place in the two mile that put the Tar Heels out of striking distance of Princeton. Pittis did 9:49.8 which should top Bob Barden, Carolina's top two miler, with little trouble even if he chooses to double in the distances.

Buz Taylor, who broke Bill Albans' record of 23 feet, 1½ inches in the broad jump in the Carolina Relays last week with a leap of 24 feet, 2 inches, will be one of the big attractions of the meet. He also turned in a jump of 24 feet, 8 inches, but was disqualified, but stamping him as one of the very best broad jumpers in the country. Frank Scott, Carolina's best broad jumper, is not in his best condition following a lung collapse in February and should not push Taylor much.

Lyons A Favorite

Ben Lyons whose fine blocking from the offensive end position enabled Dick Kazmaier to get off one many long runs, will be a heavy favorite to win his specialty, the shot put. He won last year with a toss of 48 feet, one inch and tossed the shot more than two and one-half feet better than that in the Relays. The versatile Lyons will also be competing in the high jump for Princeton.

Another Princeton star is Bob Bolster, whose 1:58.7 won for the Tigers last year over Gordon Hamrick and Jack Bennett of Carolina and its doubtful that he'd have to do even that well to win this time. Tony Houghton and Bob Byrd will probably go with Hamrick in this event for Carolina.

Alton Rauch of Princeton and Frank Scott should put on a good race in the low hurdles. Last year Scott was nipped at the finish by Rauch and indications are that just another such race will be produced. Tar Heel sophomore Charlie Scott is improving and might take them both on a good day. Rauch is a good sprinter too, and may go in the 220 or 440 where he would face Scott, Harry Brown, Gene Brigham, Gene Cain, and Earl Welch.

Hurdlers Face Bain

Carolina won the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay in the Carolina Relays with a near-record time, but strangely, none of the Tar Heels placed in the 120-yard high hurdles. The Carolina quartet of Romas White, Bill Cornell, Bob Bell, and Sonny Beall will face strong competition in that event from Harry Bain, winner of the event last year in 15.6, a time all of the Carolina entries should be able to equal.

That group is expected to do most of the scoring for Princeton. The Tigers are weak in the sprints where Elgin is the only proven man. Brown, Frank Scott, and Jeff Newton give Carolina a strong trio for the two short sprints in which Carolina must pick up a sizeable total of points if there is to be a win.

The field events, which have won many meets in the past for Carolina, should find the Tar Heels outscoring Princeton. Roger Morris will grab second behind Lyons in the shot put and Sam Jordan and Bill Walker ought to bring in blue ribbons in the pole vault and javelin throw, respectively.
