

Lehigh Ties Stickmen In Last 12 Seconds, 8-8

Dawes Top Scorer With Three Goals

By Martin Jordan

A Lehigh score in the last twelve seconds of regular play sent the Carolina-Lehigh lacrosse game into a ten minute overtime yesterday as the tight ball game ended in a 8-8 tie.

Substitute Sheetz scored the tying point with an assist from Engineer Tom Sheridan in 14 minutes and 48 seconds of the final period. Both teams scored once in the overtime period (only one overtime period is played in case of a tie) as the deadlock remained unbroken.

Ted Dawes lead the Tar Heel scoring with three goals and two assists. Dick Pillsbury, who started as cressman in the absence of injured Dick Harrall, accounted for two tallies and assisted in one. Goalie Lew Floyd repeated his fine defensive play which he has shown in the previous four games.

Tom Sheridan of Lehigh was nearly a one man team as he scored three goals and assisted in three for the Engineer stickmen. Wallwork tallied twice for the visitors scoring both goals in the first three minutes of play.

Coach Al Moore's squad now has a season record of one win, one tie, and three defeats. The Tar Heels beat Georgetown in the season opener and lost to Dartmouth, Yale, and Williams in the following week. The Norflok Naval Air Station lacrossemen will meet the Tar Heels Saturday on Navy Field.

Carolina Must Beat State Today To Stay In Big 4 Race

By Bill Peacock

"I figure the winning Big Four Team will have to win eight of their 12 games this year," Coach Walt Rabb said at the start of the baseball season, and if he's correct, a loss today to State in Raleigh would make it almost impossible for Carolina to repeat its last year's record of a tie for first.

Carolina will pitch stocky Joe Pazdan in hopes of getting its second win in four tsarts. The Tar Heels are in last place with a 1-2 record at the present and still have to play Duke twice at Durham and Wake Forest twice at Wake Forest.

The Tar Heels lost only four of 14 games at home last year, but were not nearly as effective on the road, breaking even in a dozen contests. This means that Carolina can afford to lose only two of their remaining nine Big Four games and five of those nine will be played away from Emerson Stadium.

Hitting Chief Problem

Hitting remains the chief problem for the Tar Heels who are averaging only a little better than five hits per game and have made only nine hits in the last 22 innings against the good Big Four pitching.

Rabb is showing patience with his hitters, feeling that they must be better than they've shown. However he has sacrificed some defensive power by benching senior Bruce Coats, a better hitter. Coats has fielded acceptably, but has made only two hits in 10 times at bat in the past four games.

An indication of Carolina's batting strength can be seen from the Duke game in which Rabb allowed pitcher Chal Port, who had struck out and popped-up in previous trips to the plate, bat for himself in the ninth inning. Bating before Port was Dick Wiess, counted on, to lend power to the hitting attack, who was benched for pinchpitter Bobby Hennings, who popped to the third baseman.

Gravitte Strikes Out

The only other Carolina pinchpitter was Connie Gravitte, who struck out while hitting for Bill Reeves.

Thus Pazdan will have to keep the Wolfpack at bay if he is to win because he cannot depend on much hitting support from his

UNC Faces Either Lewis, Ed Horbelt

RALEIGH, April 10—N. C. State's Wolfpack, showing more batting power than at any time during the past five seasons, will continue its battle for Big Four and Southern Conference honors tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 against the University of North Carolina Tar Heels.

Coach Vic Sorrell will send either Ed Horbelt or Lunsford Lewis, a pair of righthanders, to the mound to face the Tar Heels. Horbelt, who has a 1-0 record on the season also doubles as State's regular rightfielder. Lewis was the top hurler on the Wolfpack staff last year and has one win to his credit this year.

Horbelt, who won a 9-5 decision over Michigan State 10 days ago, also turned in a brilliant relief job against Wake Forest last Saturday as State won by 8-7. Horbelt worked the final two and one-third innnigs and saved the victory for Southpaw Jim Stevenson. Lewis has a 1-0 record on the year, stopping Elon 12-2 in his first start. He worked four innings against Wake Forest before retiring in favor of Stevenson.

State Hitting Improved

State's biggest improvement this season is at the plate where the Wolfpack has been walloping the ball at a rapid clip. A pair of newcomers, Shortstop Johnny Yvars, a sophomore from Valhalla, N. Y., and Freshman Jack Turney from Gastonia, N. C., has aided the State cause immeasurably. Both are hitting above .300 in seven games played this season.

Tiger Track Team Favored Over UNC

The Princeton University track team, with one of the finest squads in the East and six winners from last year's Princeton-Carolina dual meet, will be a strong favorite to win the annual meet tomorrow at Fetzer Field.

Princeton is fresh from a 81-50 swamp of a good Duke track team in their dual meet Wednesday, and Carolina will be only a slight favorite to win four of the 15 events. Duke took second place in the Southern Conference Indoor Games, two steps above the Tar Heels. Princeton took all but one first place in its meet with Duke, with Blue Devil dasher's Light.

Jack Sanfords Finally Meet To End Baseball Confusion

When Carolina played Wake Forest College in a baseball game here last week, Jack Sanford finally met Jack Sanford. The meeting followed many years of confusion and the old professional players enjoyed swapping yarns about their perennial mixup.

Jack Sanford number one of the Philadelphia Phillies was in town as a scout, while Jack Sanford number two is a graduate student here now who'll be with Reidsville in the Carolina League next month and was for sevreal years with the Washington Senators chain.

Sanford of the Phillies said to Sanford, the former Senator: "I've been wanting to meet you after all these years. You've got a lot of friends. I found that out in Toronto."

Sanford of the Senators answered: "The same goes for me.

You've got a mess of riends too. I found that out at Little Rock." Sanford of the Phillies:

"When I went with Toronto (as manager) a number of fellows called to wish me luck. They said they were Air Corps buddies of mine. I knew they must have meant you. I was in the Navy!"

Sanford of the Senators:

"That's nothing. When I went with Little Rock as a first baseman, a number of women called me and said back in the league.' Man, I 'Jack, we're sure glad you're back in the league.' Man, I wasn't back in the league. I was just promoted! I knew they were talkin' about you.

Sanford of the Phillies:

"Well, I did have a few friends around the circuit . . ."

Sanford of the Senators:

"I didn't mind. I guess I had the best deal after all."

It's Here!
