

Anne Miller

Heiress Part 'Challenge' To UNC Drama Student

by Ruth Hincks

Anne Miller, a dramatic arts major here, who plays the lead in the Durham Theater guild production of "The Heiress" says, "The part is definitely a challenge because of the varied personality of Catherine Sloper."

"The acting and directing of a Durham guild production must be good," she says, "because the guild is so limited in that they have no theater of their own and not much equipment or money. Because of this we all feel a greater responsibility toward the production."

The play, she feels, is a melodramatic series of instances, or drama of situation which makes the production depend almost completely on acting ability and direction.

Miss Miller is with the Play-

'The Heiress' Tonight At 8

"The Heiress" will be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the E. K. Powe school auditorium in Durham. Both performances will begin at 8 o'clock.

Catherine (the Heiress) is played by Anne Miller, dramatics art major, and her suitor Morris Townsend, is played by Kent Jackson. Charles Kellogg, publicity director of the Playmakers, will direct the play, which is adapted from Henry James' "Washington Square."

Grad Students

Grad students expecting to receive degrees in June must call at the graduate office in South building not later than next Thursday to fill out diploma cards. Failure to do so will mean no diploma.

Panel Canceled

The panel discussion set for tonight has been re-scheduled for May 9 in Graham Memorial. The title and participants are to be announced.

Carolina Dames

The beginners bridge group of the Carolina Dames will meet in the main lounge of Graham Memorial Monday night at 8 o'clock for bridge and canasta. As a special feature, Horton Davis, of University Florists will demonstrate flower arrangements.

Square Dance

There will be an admission-free square dance and mass singing program tonight at 7:30 at the Glen Lennox Shopping center.

Roy Armstrong will act as master of ceremonies for the program which will feature Miss Ruth Price and her square dance team and Fred Parrish, director of the Durham Docey-Does.

Monologue

(Continued from page 2)

2. University Party will accomplish absolutely nothing, although controlling legislature, et al.

3. This column will not draw any letters-to-the-editor.

Join the IAOINV! (Independent Association of Independent Non-Voters).

makers here. She attended Mary Washington College in Virginia before coming to Carolina.

In this year's first Playmaker production, "Silver Whistle," she played the female lead. Her future plans are for study in England or graduate work here, and eventually to try her luck in New York. However, she does not intend to do regional theater work.

About the play, she says, "It has been difficult in many ways. Commuting was tiring and conditions not ideal, but I do feel that it has given me a lot of valuable experience in that I will be better able to understand the problems of community theater."

-Dailies-

(Continued from page 2)

the situation is imperative; and the Governor has referred the situation to Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University and R. B. House, chancellor of the Chapel Hill unit. The Governor's action is well advised and proper. Hazing is an administrative problem until administration has failed to meet it. It may be that some will regard administration as already negligent; but the first formal opportunity should be given the University to clean up its own house.

-The Durham Sun

$900 Accident

The University's school of education bus was involved in a two-car accident yesterday shortly after noon at the Carolina Inn.

Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $900. The bus was not damaged.

Police reported the bus pulled out of the alley behind Peabody hall into Columbia street and rammed a vehicle driven by John French, sophomore from Southern Pines. French, in turn smacked an automobile driven by Lee Wiley, the investigating officers reported.

Eli Professor Speaks Tonight About Culture

Dr. Ralph Linton Schedules Speech For Gerrard Hall

"The Culture Concept and International Understanding" will be the subject of Dr. Ralph Linton, Sterling professor of anthropology at Yale, tonight in Gerrard Hall at 8 o'clock.

Introducing Dr. Linton will be Dr. John Gillin of the Anthropology club, which is sponsoring the speaker.

Dr. Linton, who has traveled all over the world, is one of the foremost anthropologists in the United States. He has been to Central America, South Africa, Madagascar and several Pacific islands. An accomplished writer, he is the author of "The Study of Man." The book is considered of the outstanding ones in the field of cultural anthropology. Dr. Linton has also published two other books which are currently in discussion. They are "The Science of Man in the World Crisis," and "Most of the World."

Dr. Linton has taught at Wisconsin, Columbia, and Yale and several other colleges and universities.

-Characters-

(Continued from page 2)

ed (?) by mention here until they (and you) pick up the morning paper and get around to this column in class—after, of course, Pogo, Li'l Abner, and the crossword puzzle. Or perhaps you may choose more appropriately to read it during your morning constitutional (I think that's what I should call it here.) At any rate, here's hoping you get a bang out of this business. Incidentally, if any of you know any good penpal clubs, please let it be known —T. Mac's gonna need some new friends after this.

'Something To Read'

Coed Thwarts Officers

Two traffic officers stopped a Carolina student outside of Chapel Hill yesterday, for a routine license check.

The student, a lanky, good looking blond, fumbled in her bill fold then finally reluctantly handed over a printed card. The card didn't bear the slightest resemblance to an operator's permit.

The puzzled officers pointed out once again that they would like to check her driver's license. Replied the sweet, young thing, still searching her bill fold:

"Well, I just thought you'd like to have something to read until I can find it."

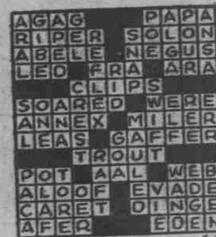

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- 1. A church seat
- 4. American Indian
- 7. Keep
- 8. Expression of sorrow
- 10. Allowance for waste
- 11. Additional amount
- 12. Costly
- 13. Female pig
- 14. Toward
- 16. Gold (Her.)
- 17. Expression of surprise
- 18. Youth
- 19. A demand for repetition
- 22. Perished
- 23. Get back
- 25. One who lies
- 27. Walked lamely
- 30. Part of a chair
- 31. Bounder
- 32. Greek letter
- 33. Jumbled type
- 34. Prefix to Scotch names
- 35. An undergarment
- 37. Evade
- 39. Simians
- 40. Contain
- 41. Flat-bottomed boat
- 42. Former title (Gov. of Algiers)
- 43. Skill

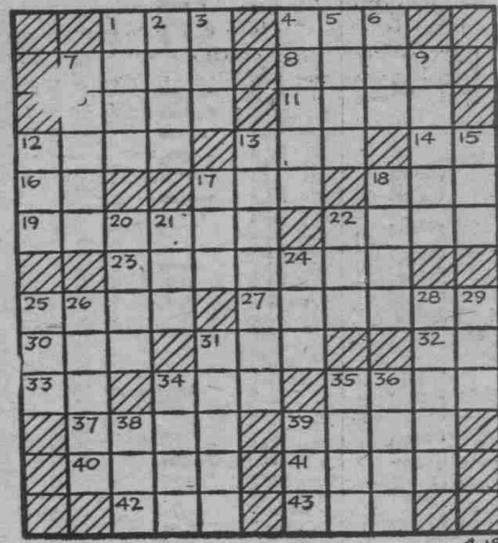

DOWN

- 1. Coin (Turk.)
- 2. Always
- 3. Damp
- 4. Pacific island group
- 5. Below (naut.)
- 6. Elevator cage
- 7. Severe
- 9. Bristle-like processes
- 12. Female deer
- 13. A resinous substance
- 15. Strange
- 17. Portion of a curved line
- 18. Lacking stiffness
- 20. Stuff
- 21. Over (poet.)
- 22. Obscure
- 24. Help
- 25. Fold over
- 26. People of Ireland
- 28. Live
- 29. Slope
- 31. Confection
- 34. Stubborn person
- 35. Sharp spine

Yesterday's Answer

- 36. Period preceding Easter
- 38. Coal scuttle
- 39. The wallaba

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE LIBRARY

Through the years booksellers and librarians work at one of the most important tasks of civilized society. Like members of any large family, we tend to grouse at each other's attitudes and to make jokes at each other's expense.

Today we of the Intimate Bookshop would like to set aside these family quips, and to extend our good wishes to the Library crew. May their new building live up to their fondest hopes. May their indexes never be jumbled, nor their books roam to strange shelves. May the future, as the past, see our debt to them grow ever larger.

And if tomorrow, strictly within the family of readers, we let slip some crack at librarians' ways, we hope they'll understand that deep down, and always, there is a sincere appreciation of a difficult job well done.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin Street