

Alderman's Coeds Will Hear Forell

Dr. G. Forell, educational secretary of the division of student service in the National Lutheran church, will lead a coed discussion in the lounge of Alderman Dormitory tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The discussion will be open to all coeds and is sponsored by the Inter-Faith Council. The topic will be "The Anxieties and Problems Facing the Coed."

Dr. Forell is in the Philosophy department of Gustavus Adolphus college.

BOTTLED PROPAGANDA

Distribution of propaganda by balloon and airplane has been replaced by a new method in the case of Communist China. Plastic bottles, bearing the Chinese equivalent of "Here is important news for you," are stuffed with propaganda and set afloat in the China Sea to drift to Chinese shores.

Five Orchestras, Eight Bands Set At WC Tuesday

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL. Greensboro, April 19—Five orchestras and eight bands will be first on the scene of the thirty-third North Carolina music contest-festival when the four-day event gets underway Tuesday at Woman's College.

With the first two days devoted entirely to instrumental musicians, Tuesday will produce 14 additional competing bands for high ratings.

Judges for the bands and orchestras will be Fred McCall, University of Miami; Manley R. Whitcomb, Ohio State university; and Mark H. Hindsley, University of Illinois.

The bands and orchestras will compete Tuesday morning according to enrollment and size in junior and senior high schools. Greensboro's Lindley and High Point will send junior high orchestras, and senior high school orchestras will come from Reynolds in Winston-Salem, Greensboro, and High Point.

Tuesday afternoon band competition will line up Kings Mountain, Appalachian, Cherryville, North Wilkesboro, Statesville, Durham, Lexington, and Asheville. On Wednesday New Hanover of Wilmington, Greenville, Gastonia, Salisbury, Mooresville, Charlotte, Marion, Asheville, Waynesville, and Lenoir will enter the band competition for the first time.

Two days of rehearsals will lead up to the concert program by these groups at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Aycock Auditorium.

The festival will be followed Saturday morning by a general meeting of the North Carolina Music Educators Association.

Pi Kappa Phi's Hold Rose Ball At Carolina Inn

Kappa chapter of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity presented its annual Rose Ball last evening at the Carolina Inn.

The Cavaliers of Duke and Carolina played for the formal dance, which was held from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Chaperone for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Shepard,

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson.

Highlight of the dance was the coronation of the Rose Queen by chapter president Jerry Womack. She received a loving cup and an arm bouquet of red roses. Sponsors for the Ball were presented old-fashioned nosegays.

Other weekend festivities included a picnic supper and party at Hogan's Lake on Friday afternoon, and a party at the Carolina Club yesterday afternoon.

our principal defense in the ideological field today is the "union between men of different beliefs on the great basic truths of morality and religion."

Don't think he's a "one-track crusader. He isn't. The contributions he has made to interracial and interfaith movements tor of the national Catholic weekly "America" will be on campus from Tuesday through Thursday. Your Inter-Faith Council has invited him.

Doubtless there are many students who have never heard of Father La Farge. I hadn't until the last week in June 1949 when he addressed the famous race relations institute at Fisk university. His audience consisted of 200 men and women most of whom were nationally known specialists in intergroup relations plus a few students. Protestants more than predominated.

This group was constantly aware of religious, racial and ethnic differences and, as in any group of its kind, tensions born out of felt difference — religious in this case — existed.

"I have recently recovered from a serious illness," Father La Farge said. Then he went on good naturedly to tell of the prayers the priests and nuns of his parish had offered for his recovered. For added precaution Father had called a Baptist and Methodist preacher, friends of his, and asked them to join the supplications in his behalf.

These words formed the basis of mutual acceptance, relaxed the group, and all were ready to listen to the man who had spent the last 25 years as almost full time spokesman for Negro rights. I was truly impressed. You will be too.

During the first week in March an interfaith, interracial dinner was held in his honor in New York. Non-Catholics like the Rev. Samuel McCrea of the national Council of Churches, Chancellor Louis Finkelstein of Jewish Theological seminary, and President A. Philip Randolph of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters wanted the opportunity to say "thank you" to the man who considers that

Religious Group Bringing Two Noted Speakers Here

The Inter-Faith Council of the University, an organization to promote better understanding of the various religious faiths, will bring two outstanding religious leaders to the campus tomorrow through Thursday as a part of its program of religious emphasis.

Dr. George W. Forell, educational secretary, division of student service, National Lutheran council, Chicago, Ill., who is on leave of absence from the philosophy department of Gustavus Adolphus college, will be here from Monday through Wednesday.

The Rev. John LaFarge, S. J., New York City, editor of "America," National Catholic weekly, an active exponent of interracial justice who was one of the founders of the Catholic Interracial Council, will be here Tuesday through Thursday.

Dr. Forell, a native German, studied at the University of Vienna and did graduate work at Princeton and Union Theological seminaries after emigrating to the United States shortly before World War II.

He will speak to several philosophy classes in the University on "Kierkegaard and Contemporary Existentialism," and will meet with religious group on campus. He will make three public addresses, the first of which will be tomorrow night at 6 o'clock in the Methodist Church on "What Is Your God?"

Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. he will address a luncheon session in Lenoir hall on "In Your Job—What is Vocation?" His final public lecture will be in Gerrard hall Tuesday night on the topic, "In Your Education What is Truth?"

Father LaFarge, one of the nation's outstanding sociologists and a Jesuit Priest will meet with class groups and deliver a number of lectures and seminars on race relations and Catholic sociology.

Besides his appearance with students and faculty, Father LaFarge will speak in Gerrard hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock on the subject of "The Church and Social Action."

Navy Program Still Open For Lady Officers

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

DURHAM, April 19 — Coeds may still apply for the Navy's 1952 summer reserve officer candidate program (ROC), Commander A. H. Davis, the Navy's inspector-instructor for the Durham area, said today.

The program is open only to college students who are members of the Naval Reserve at time of application and those interested may join the Reserve at the local training center on Foster street.

In the event applicants are not accepted, they may be discharged from the reserve if they so request, Commander Davis said.

The service required in the program is two six-week summer training periods which will be conducted at the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge, Md. If the applicants' work is satisfactory, it will lead to commissions as Ensign in the Navy. Candidates must have reached their 18th birthday on enrollment date and must be physically qualified.

Those accepted will receive travel to and from Bainbridge and basic pay of $95.00 per month during the first summer.

are reasoned ones. Personally, I don't believe that any Protestant, Catholic or Jew on campus ought to miss hearing him. It isn't every day we have an opportunity of meeting an individual who has a powerful one-man social action movement outside his church as well as in it!
