Athlete Of The Week

One reason that the lacrosse fortunes have been looking up lately is the fine work that goalie Lew Floyd has been turning in. Floyd has been one of the outstanding players in every one of the team's first seven games and because of his first-rate performances he has been chosen this week's Daily Tar Heel Athlete of the Week.

Lew is a junior this year, with one more year of eligibility in the team, but the way he has been playing would make you think that he was an All-American senior, playing his last year. He has made a total of 138 saves in the seven games so far which leaves him just 14 short of the University record of 152, set last year by Nick Sowell.

In addition to this threat of the season record Lew has already established a new single game record of 26 saves. That came in the game against Yale. Sowell also held the old individual record of 23 and Floyd has either tied or bettered that mark in four of the seven games. He started off with 23 against Georgetown to tie Sowell's effort and then against the strong Dartmouth team he stopped 24 attempted shots to set the new record. He didn't let that mark hold for in the next game against Williams he upped his saves to 25. His season high came in the next game against the Elis.

Near National Record

According to Coach Al Moore the national record for saves by a goalie is between 180 and 190. With five more matches left on the schedule Lew is a cinch to break the University record and has more than an even chance to break the national record.

Floyd is not the kind of person you would expect to be a goalie. He's five feet, 11 inches tall but he weighs only 165—not too much brawn to be blocking shots from all angles. He just seems to have a knack for his position.

Lew is from University Park, Maryland, which is outside Baltimore, but even though he's from the heart of the lacrosse country he didn't have much experience until he came down here. Last season he played behind Sowell, who had many nods for All-American, and didn't get to see much action. But this year he's been applying himself—as the record shows. Lew has been one of Coach Moore's most pleasant surprises and as the lacrosse mentor puts it, "He could have been ahead of Nick last year if he had played like he has this season." With the much more experienced Sowell playing most of the time last year, Lew didn't get in much. In fact, he didn't even earn a letter. But with the position wide open this year he has come through remarkably.

Coaches Praise Him

Floyd has been praised for his work by most of the visiting coaches. The Tar Heels ran up against some of the toughest competition in the country when they met Yale, Dartmouth, and Williams but coaches from all three teams agreed that they could find a place for Floyd on their squads. As Coach Tom Dent of Dartmouth said, "If I had that boy for my goalie, all my troubles would be over."

Lew will undoubtedly get honorable mention for All-American and, who knows, possibly more. He was mentioned in the Lacrosse Monthly earlier this year as one of the players in the nation to watch. And he certainly has lived up to this expectation.

Patton Cops Third Round From Langley

PINEHURST, April 24—Tommy Langley, number three man on the Tar Heel golf squad, was defeated in the third round of the North and South amateur golf tournament here yesterday.

The golf match between the Tar Heels and Wake Forest scheduled for Saturday at Finley Course has been postponed until May 6.

afternoon by Billy Joe Patton of Morganton. Patton was one under par in downing the High Point sophomore, 6 and 5.

Patton is one of the nation's highly regarded amateurs. He recently tied Bobby Locke for the Carolinas Open title, and was runner-up in the North and South last year.
