

UNC Tennis Team Meets W&L Here

Seeks 16th Win Of Season; Leaves Tomorrow For North

by Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team closes its home season this afternoon when it meets Washington and Lee University from Lexington, Virginia. The Tar Heels will be seeking their sixteenth win after two consecutive losses and they are not expected to have too much trouble with the Generals. Although W&L's strength is unknown, Coach Kenfield does not expect that they will be very strong.

The week-end rains kept the players off the courts from Thursday until Tuesday but the team should be at full strength today when Herb Browne returns to the number three position after a short illness.

Booker To Play

The lineup will be the same as usual except in the third doubles, the main weak spot of the team, where Coach Kenfield will probably use Johnny Booker with Bill Izlar in an effort to form a strong combination. Booker has improved rapidly this season and it is hoped that he will solve the problem of the third doubles.

The match with Davidson which was rained out last Saturday will definitely be played again if Davidson beats Duke, according to Coach Kenfield. He also said that it was possible that the match would be played even if Davidson does not beat Duke, although it is not likely. If the match is played, it will be on May 14 when the team goes to Charlotte for the Southern Conference tournament.

Leaves Tomorrow

The team leaves tomorrow afternoon for an extended northern trip where it will play seven matches in ten days. The trip opens against William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday and closes with Virginia on May 13, in Charlottesville. The only thing remaining on the schedule after that is the three-day conference tournament which opens on May 15.

Booker, who was being counted on for the third doubles, will have to be left behind due to studies when the team leaves on the trip. Coach Kenfield has three other possibilities for Izlar's partner in the doubles, Ronny Kerdasha, Dick Sapp, or Cecil Milton, and will probably use all three at one time or another.

Williams Homers As Bosox Win, 5-3

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

BOSTON, April 30—Today was Ted Williams Day at Fenway Park and the Splendid Splinter bowed out of play in splendid fashion by blasting a 390-foot home run in the seventh inning with Dom DiMaggio on base to break up a tie ball game as the Red Sox dropped Detroit 5-3.

This was the last day of action for Williams who will leave tomorrow for 17 months of active duty with the Marine air corps.

The score was tied at 3-3 in the seventh when DiMaggio singled. Then Ted stepped to the plate and powdered his mighty homer.

The blast allowed Mel Parnell to win his third straight game of the year. He has yet to suffer a loss.

The win insured the Red Sox' first place position by giving them a 10-2 record. For Detroit it was the ninth loss against only two wins.

North Texas Favored As SIC Starts Today

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

ATHENS, Ga., April 30—The annual Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament will get under way here tomorrow morning with play over the first 18 holes of the 72-hole tourney.

In addition to the Southeastern Conference teams which are gathered here for their Conference championship, squads from all over the South have come to compete for the team and individual titles.

North Texas State brings back both the defending team champions and the individual champ. Led last year by Billy Maxwell, who won the individual award, the North Texas team will again be favored to win. Only one player was lost from last year's sextet.

Maxwell will be the decided favorite in individual play, too.

Since winning the SIC last year here, he has added the National Amateur to his list of championships.

Grouped together behind North Texas State are five teams which could possibly carry off the team honors, LSU, Florida, North Carolina, Duke, and Georgia. LSU, Florida, and Georgia are trifavorites to win the Southeastern Conference division of the tourney if one of them doesn't walk off with the whole affair.

Maxwell could also have trouble holding his title. He will be threatened by some of his teammates in addition to such players as Mike Souchak of Duke and Tommy Langley of Carolina.

The Carolina team arrived here last night and got in a practice round today in addition to working out on the practice tee.
