The Consolidated University Student Council meets tomorrow afternoon here to choose new officers.

The meeting, the final one of the school year, will be held in the Morehead Building. It will be the first at which the CUSC will convene under its new constitution, ratified by the Legislature here early last month.

Both the outgoing and incoming delegations will meet. However, Carolina actually has no "official" new delegation due to a legislative quirk. The

by Joe Cherry

Chi Omegas joined forces with Chi Phi's Thursday night to "play house" and walk away with first place honors in the annual University Club Carnival on Navy Field.

The Chi O's awarded winners of a horseshoe game with party favors and kisses (on the cheek, naturally) after emerging from a make-believe coed dormitory.

* More unfortunate souls who managed to ring with their "horseshoes" only the sign marked "Blind Date, We'd love to, Boys" were surprised when a gap-toothed matron, looking strangely like a boy, came out to kiss them.

Jim Wordsworth, custodian of the profits said the funds will probably be contributed to charity. The display, called "Let's Play Flush-Flush," won because of originality and workmanship.

Phi Delta Theta Fraternity and Delta Delta Delta Sorority came in second in the carnival.

UNC Report Hits State Institutions

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL
RALEIGH, May 2—Shortcomings of North Carolina's institutions for the mentally deficient are sharply outlined in a report made to Gov. Kerr Scott by a UNC agency.

The Bureau of Educational Research and Service of the University prepared the report and leveled criticism at Caswell Training School at Kinston.

The report said the school must be enlarged, its staff and methods improved and its purpose redefined. The bureau said that instead of fulfilling its function as a training center for mentally deficient children, the school has become a "detention home" which keeps inmates until they can be admitted to adult mental institutions.

"It is humanely necessary and economically sound to provide specialized care, treatment and supervision for the mentally deficient," the report said.

It urged as an immediate step the separation of the mentally deficient children from those who are mentally ill.

Hall Charges Colleagues As Cowards

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WASHINGTON, May 2—Rep. Edwin Arthur Hall (R-NY) charged today he had been subjected by his House colleagues "to one of the most cowardly attacks . . . in history."

Hall was sharply criticized on the House floor yesterday for what members termed his unfair attacks on Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), his primary opponent. Hall accused his critics of interfering in an election "which the people, and the people only, have the right to decide."

One House member after another rose to denounce Hall and praise Cole. They said Hall, in his speeches in his district, had accused Cole by innuendo of "leaking" atomic secrets after attending Washington cocktail parties.

"Perhaps the questions I raised hit some guilty consciences and they yelled to high heaven," Hall shot back today in a reply printed in the Congressional Record.

Hall and Cole are engaged in a battle for the right to represent a new congressional district in the Binghamton, N. Y., area into which both their old districts have been merged.

Women Feel Next Prexy Not At Talk

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL
CINCINNATI, May 2—The League of Women Voters looked over five candidates and a stand-in last night, but there was a strange suspicion among its members today that the next president wasn't there.

Two Republicans and three Democrats presented in an hour's radio television program their views on the major issues of government corruption and foreign economic aid.

They answered some other questions. All of the queries and replies were prepared in advance, so nobody was surprised by what happened except where spontaneous applause broke out from the audience of 2,500, mostly women.

The candidates who sounded off on schedule were Gov. Earl Warren of California and former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, Republicans, and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, and W. Averell Harriman of New York Democrats.

The major missing candidates were Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.
