he had $5 missing along with several towels. He said he had $10 lying on a bureau but the thief, or thieves only took $5.

Also stolen in the weekend robbery spree was a chair and a lamp from the Pi Kappa Alpha house. Value of these two articles was set at $75. The Kappa Alpha's lost their portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the weekend's burglarizing.

Chapel Hill police yesterday said no evidence had been uncovered regarding the thefts. Zeta Psi members, however, suggested that the burglars wrapped the stolen goods in a sheet and dropped the contents out the window. One sheet was reported missing from the room of Joe Brewer.

Most of the men in the fraternity houses hardest hit by the thieves had either gone to the beach for the weekend or gone home, leaving the houses virtual-

'Glass Furnace'

Television Nixed By E. Bergen

by R. W. Madry

Television is a glass furnace for talent—meaning, it will burn you up if you expose yourself to it too often.

At least that's the opinion of Edgar Bergen, famous star of radio and television, who made several informal appearances before University audiences last week.

He and Mrs. Bergen, who came South primarily to appear at the Durham Merchants Association's annual banquet, took several days off to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kyser here.

Bergen brought along his famous partner Charlie McCarthy, and as usual the celebrated little dummy overshadowed his creator.

But to get back to television. Bergen made it clear he is not opposed to this form of art. It's just not for him, at least not much at a time, he says. He made only four television appearances last year, and he doesn't plan to do more this year.

"Television is especially tough on comedians," he explained. "You can't produce comedians like you produce dancers or flute players, and in television it wouldn't take long to wear out one's welcome."

An outstanding graduate of Northwestern University, Bergen told a group of University students in journalism, dramatic art and radio that the possibilities for good writers are much better than they were 25 years ago.

He said that Dorothy Kingsley, a writer he hired several years ago for $35 a week, is now making around $2,000 a week. He advised the young writers to have confidence but to be "extremely grateful to the man who gives you your first job. And don't quibble about the salary, for honestly you aren't worth much to begin with," he added.

able to participate in them, too." Saunders also added that the association keeps a complete file on names, addresses, classes, weddings, and honors received by all graduates of the University. He said when an alumni group in any city wishes to have a meeting, the alumni office here is able to send them a list of all alumni in that area. Alumni news is printed in the review by classes, he added.

Saunders also requested that all alumni notify the office of any changes in address so the alumni file can be kept accurate and up to date.

THERE WAS STILL AN IMPASSE in Washington yesterday regarding the on-again off-again steel strike. Cyrus Ching (left), head of the Federal Mediation Service, talks the situation over with John R. Steelman, Presidential assistant, after the talks collapsed Sunday.
