

New Coed Orientation To Begin On Sept. 18

by Diane Dewey

Orientation of new coeds entering the University in the fall will begin at noon Thursday, September 18, and continue through September 24, which is the first day of classes. Approximately 300 new girls are expected. Smith and Carr dormitories, formerly occupied by nursing students, will be opened to undergraduates.

Union Gives Wayne Univ. Radio Station

(Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL)

DETROIT, MICH., May 21.—Approval of the gift of FM Radio Station WDET to Wayne University by the Automobile Workers International Union—CIO was given here recently by the Detroit Board of Education.

The Union offered the land, radio tower, transmitter, studio building and studio equipment free and clear of any conditions. The value of the gift is approximately $125,000.

Dr. David D. Henry, president of the University, told the board, "The University's operation of WDET will have four important results for the University and the community: first, it will enhance the training opportunities of students majoring in radio education; second, it will make possible bringing to the community many educational and cultural programs, both from the University directly or from resources available to the University; third, it will greatly enhance the public interpretation of the University's work; and finally, it will be an important asset in developing plans for educational television for the Detroit area.

"We plan at once to participate in the educational tape network of educational FM stations and hope in the near future that there will be direct regional and national educational network offerings for the community."

The union will continue to operate the station until Wayne's application for transfer of the license is approved by the Federal Communications Commission.

For University Employees

Bond Plan Initiated

The University is cooperating with the Treasury Department in adopting a payroll-savings for bonds plan, Chancellor Robert B. House said yesterday.

Each employee in the University is eligible to participate by signing a payroll deduction authorization and all employees will be solicited for the purpose of joining the bond plan. An employee may designate any amount, not less than $1.25 per pay, as his deduction for bond purchases. An employee may change the amount of his deduction at any time and shall have the right to withdraw from the plan at any time. All expenses coincident to solicition and administration of the bond plan will be paid by the University.

The purpose of the bond plan is to encourage our University employees to save a small portion of their earnings for themselves; to provide for our employees a method of preparing for future expenditure such as children's education, vacation or sickness and to provide a safe investment in America, House said.

The bonds pay three per cent interest compounded semi-annually and the bond will be mailed to your home by the issuing bank in approximately 10 days.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 42...
THE PORCUPINE

He's listened to the weak thread of so many shallow claims he's fed-up! His point is—there's a thorough test of cigarette mildness. Millions of smokers throughout America concur.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste) you'll see why...

After all the Mildness Tests...
