

Four Appointed To Staff Posts In Education

Tarbet, Skretting, Parker, Anderson Chosen For Here

Four appointments to the staff of the School of Education recently were announced by Chancellor Robert B. House and Dean Guy B. Phillips.

The new members of the staff are Dr. Donald G. Tarbet from the University of Missouri; Dr. J. R. Skretting, from the State University of Iowa; Don H. Parker, formerly for 14 years in the personnel division of Sears Roebuck and Company, and William P. Anderson, principal of the Mangum Consolidated School in Durham county last year.

Before going to the University of Missouri, where he recently completed work for his doctorate, Dr. Tarbet, whose appointment as assistant professor is for one year, formerly taught at Washington University (Missouri) and Central Missouri State College. Dean Phillips said he has "contributed significantly to all the institutions with which he has been connected."

He has also served as a director of music and teacher of social studies in three high schools of Missouri and as a high school principal in Warrensburg High School, Mo.

At the University here he will teach in the general field of secondary education and social studies.

Dr. Skretting, a native of Wisconsin, comes directly from the State University of Iowa where he has just completed requirements for the Ph.D. degree with honors. His major fields were political science and education. He took his B.A. degree at Beloit College and did some graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Skretting has had experience as a teacher of social studies in the Clinton (Wisconsin) High School and the University High in Iowa City.

He has had wide experience with the National Council for Social Studies and has contributed a number of significant articles in the field of social studies.

Dr. Skretting is now representing the University of North Carolina at an Economic Education Work-Conference at New York University. He was selected for this scholarship by New York University.

Dr. Jaffe Attended Chemistry Conference

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL. BRYN MAWR, Penn., Sept. 23 —Dr. H. H. Jaffe of the University of North Carolina Chemistry Department recently attended the fourth conference on reaction mechanisms held here. About 150 chemists attended.

Dr. Jaffe, who is professor, will work directly with the teachers in the social studies with materials and methods and in directing of student teaching. In addition, he will work with students in the orientation program in the School of Education. He and Mrs. Skretting will come to Chapel Hill about September 1.

Dr. Parker will come to the School of Education as a visiting lecturer on the Staff of the Bureau of Educational Research and Service for 1952-53.

A native of New York State, he took his A.B. and M.A. degrees at the University of Florida and has done work toward his doctorate.

He has had a wide range of experience as an instructor in educational psychology and as a reading consultant.

Inspection For AFROTC This Week

Col. Franklin G. Pruyn and Lt. Colonel Claude C. Carter, liaison team members from headquarters, Air University Command, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., will inspect the AF ROTC unit Friday and Saturday.

Colonel Carter is on leave from his teaching duties in the University School of Business Administration. He returned to temporary active duty with the Air Force last year.

The two Air Force officers established a temporary base here a week ago in order to conduct visits to other educational institutions in Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as North Carolina, during the latter half of the month.

The Air University Command, responsible for the administration and operation of the AF ROTC program at 187 universities and colleges throughout the country, has established 10 liaison teams.

39 Nurses Enter Here For Training

Thirty-nine young women, 29 of them North Carolinians, will enter the freshman class of the University School of Nursing this fall—the first class to begin its four-year course in the new Memorial Hospital.

The School of Nursing which began operation last fall under the guidance of Dean Elizabeth Kemble will soon have its own separate Nursing School building, but for the fall quarter members of both the first and second year classes will be housed in the Hospital. This is necessary, Dean Kemble explained, because of an increase in the enrollment of coeds in the University.

Entering student nurses will take regular courses along with other students in the University, and as their course of study progresses they will take more and more specialized nursing classes. Upon reaching their fourth year here they will receive clinical experience in nursing, through observation and experience in
