TAR HEELS DROWNED IN TEXAS T PARTY, 28-7

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—Russian troops have been seen in North Korea, south of the Yalu River boundary which the UN is forbidden to cross, it was told yesterday by a surrendered North Korean security officer. Until his desertion this month, the prisoner was security officer for the armistice talks at Panmunjom. The officer said he saw about 20 Russians dressed in Chinese Communist uniforms who were installing an anti-aircraft battery at a Red airfield in June, 1951. He said he did not know whether the Russians fired the battery. Meanwhile, all Korea fell under a UN Naval blockade yesterday.

WASHINGTON—Officials here said today that the Kremlin might force the removal of George F. Kenan, U. S. ambassador to Russia. It was indicated Moscow's unparalleled propaganda attacks on Kenan might be a prelude to withdrawing his credentials.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica—President Otilio Ulate resigned last night because Congress accused him of trying to block an investigation of the army.

ROME—Spanish philosopher and poet George Santayana, who was educated at Harvard University and wrote all of his many works in English, died in a convent here yesterday. He was 89. His best known work is the novel, "The Last Puritan."

WASHINGTON—Some 60,000, 000 Americans went off daylight saving time at 2 o'clock this morning which means turning the clock back for an hour.

PARIS—Prince Aly Kahn and Rita Hayworth slept late yesterday morning after their first night under the same roof in more than a year. The prince arrived at his plush villa in the fashionable Neuilly suburb of Paris late Thursday after racing 575 miles in 12 hours from his home near Cannes.

MIAMI—The fourth big blow of the hurricane season brewed slowly in the Caribbean Sea yesterday as hurricane "Charlie" carried its howling 125 miles per hour winds away from the U.S. seaboard.

SEATTLE—By fueling in flight, jets based at American fields in other countries are within range of Russia, it was revealed here yesterday by Undersecretary of Air Koswell L. Gilpatric.

FORT BRAGG—2nd Lt. Charles N. (Chuck) Hauser, University of North Carolina alumnus, has been appointed Reconnaissance and Survey Officer and Assistant Intelligence Officer (S-2) of the 75th Field Artillery Battalion here, it was announced yesterday. Lt. Hauser has been serving as the assistant executive officer of Battery B of the same unit, a 240 millimeter howitzer outfit.

"Frankly," Editor Hugh Gale said yesterday, "I'm worried." And he had good reason to be there are only three days left for freshmen to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack and only 60 of 900 have showed up thus far. Coats and ties for the boys, white blouses for the girls, Gale said. Picture taking resumes tomorrow from 2 p.m. on in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial. There is no charge.

Coach Price Has His Say

Coach Ed Price of Texas said after the game:

"I thought we played a very good football game. It was above average for us. Our passing was sharper and our defense was better organized. We ran better at L. S. U. last week (Texas won 35-14). Our runs were longer. But the Carolina defense stopped the long runs. Stolhandske, Gentner and Sewell were good in our line, I thought.

"Carolina has a fine ball club. They are at the point right now that we were last year. This time in starting with the Split-T. After our opening game last year I talked with Don Faurot who started all this Split-T stuff and he told me to hang on. 'It will come in time,' he said. He predicted about the third game for a starting Split-T squad and it worked for us. I think and hope it will for Carolina. I was impressed with their hustle and I know that (Charlie) Motta was missed. You can't play without that number one quarterback."

Grey Fox Talks, Too

Coach Carl Snavely said: We're not quite ready for a team like Texas. They are fast and resourceful. We had a few lapses but I can understand them with a new system and so many soph and freshmen. I was disappointed in spots but I think we'll get better. Coach Price has a fine ball club and it's a privilege to play against them.

Marines To Start Club

A club for Marines on campus will be organized at a meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, October 9 at the Naval Armory.

Maj. Frank C. Caldwell, USMC Marine Officer Instructor in the NROTC, yesterday said that the organization will be named the "Semper Fidelis Club." It will be open to all Platoon Leaders Class and Officer Candidate Course students, NROTC Marine Candidates and Reserve Marine students.

The club's objectives will be to hold seminars concerning Marine Corps doctrines and policies, to stimulate an interest in the Marine Corps on this campus, to stage club social events, and to receive outstanding guest speakers, particularly from the Armed Forces.

Nose In News Jones Jolts Fagged Fans; Zest Zooms

By Lt. Chuck Hauser

Spirits were getting low toward the end of yesterday's football fracas, and the crowd in the student section demand—and got—the one man they knew could inject a shot of the old-time Tar Heel feeling into things.

And when Durwood "Nose" Jones ascended the platform and called for "Hark the Sound" to be sung so it could be heard in Texas, his followers answered him in true Carolina fashion.

"I don't even want the band to play, Nose shouted. 'They make too much racket. Just want to hear you sing.' They sang.

Nose Jones, who led cheers in the famous Norm Sper cheering squad in the fall of 1948 and took over the squad toward the end of the season last year, was in demand again. To this old Tar Heel, he was right up there where he belonged.

For a while I sat on the Texas side of the stadium, and the cheering from the opposite stands sounded sluggish, to be kind about it. In the third quarter things picked up, and toward the end of the fourth quarter a "Blue and White" roared across the field and rocked the pine trees looming up behind me. My binoculars told me Nose was at work again.

The people sitting to my rear were optimistic at the start of the game. "Old Snavely's got something up his sleeve this year," they chortled to one another.

But it was a different story after the half. Like rats deserting the foundering ship, they sniveled after the half that it was time to start talking about one-way tickets back to Cornell. I left my seat and headed for a more loyal section of the stadium.

Elizabeth City's champion high school musicians vied for honors during the half with the Carolina card section. It was strictly a two-ring circus affair, with both rings getting cheers and appreciation from the crowd of 40,000 in Kenan Stadium.

"Jones Pork Sausage" floating around in the air several thousand feet up was another familiar sight yesterday. And to inaugurate the new season, Mr. Jones painted his airplane a garish green.

Missing: The gentleman (apparently from Texas) who entranced the Y Court crew Friday morning with his git-tr strumming and singing.

Did anyone say anything about having a spot of T?

Longhorns Score In Three Periods

T. Jones Has Field Day; Tallies One, Passes For Two More In Opening Tilt

By Tom Peacock

The University of Texas methodically ground out a 28-7 football win over a game but outplayed North Carolina team here yesterday before a crowd of 40,000 fans in Kenan Stadium.

The Longhorns dominated the play throughout the game, scoring in three quarters while holding the Tar Heels to 85 yards gained both in the air and on the ground. T. Jones made a strong bid for All-America honors with his near-perfect handling of the Texas split-T, and the Tar Heels couldn't stop the other Texas backs. Gib Dawson, Dick Ochoa, and Dan Pace.

Jones had a field day, scoring one of the Longhorns touchdowns himself, and passing for two more. He flipped a short pass to Doug Cameron for the second Texas score after running for the initial touchdown, and on a pass play covering 65 yards he hit Tom Stolhandske for the third. Ed Quinn bucked over for the last Longhorn touchdown, and the Texans also scored a safety.

The only bright spots of the game for Carolina were the putting of Bud Wallace and the quarterbacking of freshman Marshall Newman, who passed for the lone Tar Heels touchdown late in the last quarter.

With the Tar Heels behind 28-0 and four minutes left in the game, Doug Cameron of Texas fumbled Dick Lackey's punt on the Texas 30, and George Norris recovered for Carolina. Newman went in to run the team for the first time and promptly hit Jeff Newton with a pass on the 14-yard line. On the following play, Newman ran to his left, sidestepped a tackler, and flipped a pass to Ken Keller in the end zone to keep the Longhorns from getting a shutout. Tom Adler converted to make the score 28-7, Texas, with 3:25 seconds left in the game.

After exchanging punts early in the first quarter, Texas took the ball on its own 28 and Jones limbered up his passing arm. The Longhorn quarterback ran one play to the 35, then hit Dawson on the Carolina 45, and Dawson raced down to the 23-yard line before he was stopped. Jones threw again, this time to Tom Stolhandske on the 11-yard line. Pace cracked to the nine, and then Jones kept the ball on an option play around right end for the score. Ingraham's attempt for the conversion was wide, Texas taking a 6-0 lead with 4:23 left in the first quarter.

Carolina Has Great Team, Price Asserts

By Paul Cheney

Coach Ed Price of the victorious Texas Longhorns thought his charges were at their best in conquering the Tar Heels yesterday by a three touchdown margin.

At the same time Coach Price opined that Carolina has a very fine football team, one which will improve as the season progresses.

Price stated that the Longhorn passing game was much improved over last week's opening game performance against LSU. However, the game against the Tigers was played in a steady downpour at Baton Rouge, which somewhat accounts for the improved aerial attack yesterday. On the other hand the Longhorn mentor thinks the Tar Heels have a sounder ground defense than LSU. Texas was not able to get off as many long distance runs yesterday as they did last week.

The Texas players singled out for special recognition by their coach were end Tom Stolhandske, guard Harley Sewell, and tackle Charles Gentner. Price thought that Tom Higgins and George Norris were outstanding defenders for the Tar Heels.

Come On Up

The Daily Tar Heel will hold an organizational meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon for those interested in working on the staff.

The meeting will be held in the Roland Parker Lounges, Graham Memorial. Positions are open in all phases of journalism.
