NROTC Will Shoot In Cadet Contests

A host of the nation's top-flight ROTC Rifle and Pistol teams have been matched against the NROTC squad here for a variety of postal gallery, shoulder-to-shoulder and postal trophy matches during the season.

Maj. Fank C. Caldwell, USMC, Officer-in-Charge, said probably the most interesting match facing the Tar Heel Middies this year will be the first annual Southern Conference meet of ROTC units from Duke, Wake Forest, North Carolina State and Davidson. The matches will be fired on the State College and Davidson ranges in December and January.

Postal matches include contests with NROTC Rifle Teams representing the Universities of Miami

(Oxford), Ohio State, Oklahoma, Virginia, Notre Dame, Louisville, California, Purdue, Mississippi, Columbia, Rochester, Minnesota, Rice Institute, Penn State, Auburn, Georgia Tech, Tufts and the Army ROTC Unit Rifle Team at Georgia Tech.

Major Caldwell said an additional postal match will be fired against the famous rifle team representing The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States of New York.

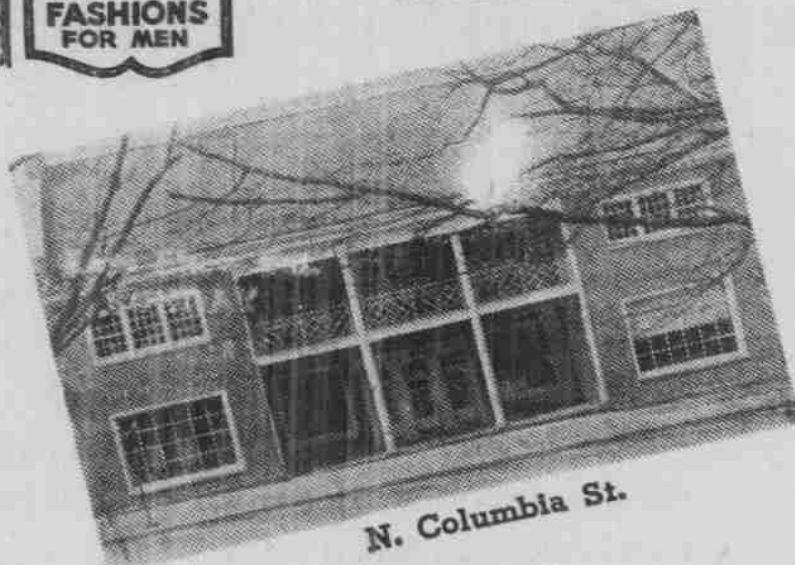

The Tar Heel Middies will engage in the postal trophy matches of Randolph Hearst National Match to be fired in January, the ROTC Regional Trophy Match to be fired in March and the Secretary of Navy National Trophy
