Full War

In its weekly session tonight at 8 o'clock the Dialectic Senate will debate a bill calling on the United Nations to wage a full scale war in Korea.

The bill points out that the U.N. cannot withdraw from Korea without considerable loss of prestige and that any withdrawal will constitute a denial of basic U.N. principles of international order. It further states that the Communist forces are gaining strength during the lull of the truce negotiations and that by waging a real war against the aggressor in Korea that the Asiatic conflict would be conclusively ended.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis yesterday ordered striking soft coal miners to go back to work at once. After a Sunday night White House visit, the chief of the United Mine Workers messaged all union district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry has agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board trimmed the rise to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

WITH EISENHOWER — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, opening his final drive on the election campaign, said yesterday he will not be turned aside by any criticism from the view that South Korean troops should man the major portion of the battleline in Korea against the Communists. He told a Philadelphia crowd jammed into the big concourse of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 30th St. Station that he holds this view "entirely aside from any political considerations."

NEW YORK — A statement by Walter Winchell that President Truman had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Missouri in 1922 brought an immediate denial from the White House yesterday. Winchell said in his radio and television broadcast Sunday night that he had affidavits from seven men, five of them Klan officials, stating that Truman took the oath of admission to the Klan in a Kansas City hotel in June, 1922, and later attended and spoke at a Klan meeting lit by burning crosses in an Independence, Mo., cow pasture. Presidential Secretary Irving Perlmeter told reporters in Washington, "The President has authorized me to say categorically he was not a member of the Klan."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 — Hattie McDaniel, 57, the "Beulah" of radio and television and an Academy Award-winning movie actress, died yesterday of cancer. Illness forced her retirement from the "Beulah" show more than a year ago. The show continued on radio through use of transcriptions of her voice. The jovial actress took part in some 300 movies, beginning her film career in 1931. She was born in Wichita, Kan., one of 13 children, and went to school in Denver, where she decided to become an entertainer.

Trotter Gallops Along On New Motel Project; Got Start Here

By Louis Kraar

Bing Crosby's jovial musical director, John Scott Trotter, traded his baton for a paintbrush last week to lead a band of workmen renovating an old boarding house here.

The music master "gladly" took time out for a chat filled with jolly laughter and many memories of Chapel Hill. Sitting on the front steps of the old Bryan Motel, which he recently has purchased, Trotter told of his days at the University, where he got his first start in music.

"Carolina sure has grown," he remarked looking at the thick

SUAB Decides To Continue Calendar Issue

Proposal To Post New Large Type Calendar Defeated

Students at the University will continue to get the monthly activities calendar, the SUAB calendar Committee decided last week.

The calendar is sponsored and printed by the Student Union Activities Board to give students a schedule of events of interest on the campus.

There was a move made at the meeting to discontinue printing the usual 5,000 calendars. A larger type was proposed to be posted in dormitories, fraternity houses, sorority houses, and in University owned buildings. The move was defeated.

It was pointed out by one of the members that the calendars had been dumped in the men's dorms in piles and had been disregarded by the great majority of the occupants.

One coed member of the committee said on the other hand that the girls in general were delighted with the calendars. "It's just what they wanted," she said.

Chairman Harry Phillips of the Calendar Committee attributed the piling of the information sheets in the dorms to a lack of organization of distributors. "Next month the circulation of the calendars will be more efficient," Phillips said yesterday.

Herb Cohn, a member of the committee felt that the students' lack of interest in the calendars will be overcome as soon as they realize how helpful they are in planning their budgeted time. "Organizations will be able to plan non-conflicting meetings with just a glance at the list of events," Cohn stated.

The Coordinating Council of the SUAB which is made up of leaders of some 40 organizations on the campus is working with the calendar committee on preventing conflicts of activities. Information is obtained also from the Dean of Students Office and the student government office, two major outlets.

Groups planning events of general interest to the campus are invited to turn information in to the Calendar Committee by phoning 5614 or by writing Box 30, Chapel Hill.

'Dook' Parade Is Set Imprudent Stars Told 'Put Your Undies On'

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — Pert Terry Moore took a startled look at her curvaceous sisters of the movies and warned them they'd better put their undies back on, if they want to be considered sexy.

Miss Moore levelled a slim finger at such sirens as Marilyn Monroe, who recently confessed she never wears a stitch under her dresses, Vanessa Brown, who reported she was shopping for an offer to pose in the nude for a 1953 calendar, and Corine Calvet, who confided she had to leave notes on her dressing table reminding herself to put on a bra.

"I'll take up the moral angle later," Miss Moore declared in warning to her subject. "First, let's consider my main suspicion that girls who wear no underwear are the 'have nots' of the cheesecake world."

Miss Moore declared she was firmly, and amply, enrolled on the side of the 'haves' and explained her feminine attributes were so feminine she positively had to wear girdle and bra under her sweaters and skirts. She held an impromptu style show in her hotel suite to demonstrate her points and certainly built up a great case for her argument.

"I've been reading the statements from these 'no underwear' girls with astonishment," she said. "It's bad enough being a 'have not' but they don't seem to realize they're advertising the facts."

A lady who has been blessed with more than her ample share of curves just can't pass up restrainers, Miss Moore emphasized. Large sections of the nation have the illusion that girls like Miss Monroe and Miss Calvet are exceptionally ornamental, but that's created by tricks of photography. "They're made to look ripe and sexy with certain props and by positions in posing figured out for them by talented photographers," Terry said. "A lot of those lensmen are veterans of 25 years and can make something wonderful out of practically nothing."

Miss Moore said some of her classmates at UCLA could give the j'no underwear' girls cards and spades in any contest of curves and win in jig time. The generously endowed movie star said she had no reason to fear how she, herself, would fare in such a battle.

"My cup runneth over," she said. "It would be impossible for me to go anywhere without underthings. I'd overflow past the danger point."

Miss Moore charged Marilyn Monroe with using self-deflating tactics on still another level or curve by revealing she wore no pants. Most men, she argued, consider such remarks entirely too blatant, even from the prettiest girl.
