Coeds Get Big Chance: Free Males

Girls, your opportunity is here! Now is the time to get your man. Coeds are supposed to do all the date-making Friday, in keeping with the spirit of Sadie Hawkins Day at the University, Ann Bell, Sadie Hawkins Day committee co-chairman, said yesterday. This includes the dance at 8 p.m. in the Naval Armory.

Registration for the Sadie Hawkins race Friday afternoon will be held in the morning at the YMCA. Dogpatch characters will be present for the registration, and corn cobs, pipes and other dogpatch items will be sold.

The SUAB and the YMCA Recreation Committee, which are sponsoring Sadie Hawkins Day, will enter a Sadie Hawkins float in the "Beat Dook" parade Friday afternoon. Following the parade, the race will be run in front of South Building.

A mass wedding ceremony will be performed at the dance Friday night. The committee will also present a "Dogpatch style floor show" including clogging, a skit, and singing by a quartet.

Decorations will carry out the Dogpatch theme, Miss Bell said. The committee will award a prize for the best Dogpatch costume and for the best Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner. However, costumes are not compulsory for the dance, she said.

Success Comes After Death

It's Hard, Davies Says, To Be Young

By Sally Schindel "A belief in one God, no Devil and 16 ounces in a pound—that's a definition of Unitarianism few people have heard before."

So said Dr. Arthur Powell Davies, pastor of the All Soul's Unitarian Church in Washington, who spoke recently before a sparse audience in Hill Hall. His subject was "The Dangers of Preaching from the Bible."

But the slight, casually dressed man, who calls himself a "theological radical" had more to say about his faith than that. In a more concrete explanation during an informal interview following his talk, 50-year-old Davies stated:

"Unitarianism is based upon the individual feeling of belief which is the right of the individual to form his own opinions and revise them as his mind grows. While revering Jesus and the great prophets the Unitarian follows truth wherever it may lead."

As to what is truth, Davies explained that a person can't look at one thing and say, "This is it, brother—this is truth," because each individual may have a different set of "truths." That is why, the theologian went on, the Unitarian Church, called the "creedless church" because it believes in no dogmas, advocates questions, not answers in solving problems.

Son Of Cripps Visiting Here

Tobias R. Weaver, head of the Information and General Branch of the Ministry of Education England, and adopted son of the late Sir Stafford Cripps, is spending several days at the University. He has headed the United Kingdom delegation for the past three years to the UNESCO conferences in Geneva and was elected chairman in 1950.

Here on a three-month survey of American education, Weaver said his main interest is discovering who really controls education in this country.

Dr. Davies proudly claims that he is "Welsh," having been raised in Birkenhead, England on his grandfather's farm where he spent a robust youth riding a bull calf at two and later wearing out five motorcycles.

In 1925 he was graduated from London University's Richmond College of Divinity, and for three years he was a Methodist minister in London. Three years later he was in the United States preaching in Maine, and by 1933 had become a "radical."

Why is he known as a "radical?" Dr. Davies reasoned that it was because he openly rebels against any political or clerical form which he believes is fundamentally empty.

Dr. Davies advised students to settle difficulties by giving "honest, realistic thinking to the problems until they are understood; and resolution and fortitude until they are solved. I can offer you no more realistic advice because the world is full of danger—it's hard to be young."

Not only is Dr. Davies noted in the religious field through preaching, but he is known as the author of such books as "American Destiny" and "Unrepentant Liberal." Active in current affairs (a believer that one cannot have religion without politics), he has served as chairman of the Emergency Control on Civilian Control of Atomic Energy; president of Food for Freedom; Board of Directors, Federal Union, and Executive Committee, National Committee on Atomic Information.

Who can belong to the Unitarian Church? This faith, which boasts such members as Thomas Jefferson, says Davies, welcomes even those who do not believe in a Supreme Being—one who is an atheist. However, he corrected himself, it is impossible to be an atheist, although one can be agnostic. To be an atheist, one would have to close his mind to any new information that may enlighten him, he explained.

However radical the Unitarian may be, he doesn't discount the Bible altogether and especially recommended the newest edition just released as being more accurate than the King James' version.

In looking over the doctor's past record and imagining what his future will be, it would be helpful to know the secret of his success. In answer to that question, he peered humorously through his glasses and replied he couldn't say he was a success—yet. "You should never never say a man's successful until he's dead."

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO — Forty-four servicemen, 37 of them U.S. Army soldiers returning from rest leave in Japan, were killed when an Air Force C-119 "Flying Boxcar" crashed into a mountain near Seoul, the Far East Air Forces announced yesterday. The twin-engine plane rammed into Mount Yebong, a 2,000-foot peak only a few minutes away from its destination, an airport in the Seoul area. An Army spokesman said the passengers were all American Army men who were returning to Korea after a five-day rest and rehabilitation leave in Japan. Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

SEoul—United Nations infantrymen threw Chinese Reds from vital Sniper Ridge in a bloody eight-hour fight yesterday and farther west recaptured Jackson Heights guarding the Chorwon Valley invasion route to Seoul. It was the 15th time in a month of fierce fighting that Allied troops have knocked Chinese Reds from Sniper Ridge north of Kumhwa on the central front. The victorious South Koreans vanquished their foes with bayonets, knives and fists.

WASHINGTON—Official confirmation of history's first H-bomb explosion is expected shortly—perhaps by President Truman early next week, a high source suggested yesterday, if the Atomic Energy Commission doesn't do it first. This source suggested that Mr. Truman may make his Tuesday meeting with President-elect Eisenhower the occasion for the anticipated announcement. Many servicemen involved in this fall's atomic test at the Eniwetok Proving Ground in the Pacific already have reported in letters home that an H-bomb was detonated on about Nov. 1. So far officials have refused to comment on this.

AUGUSTA, Ga.—President-elect Dwight Eisenhower turned yesterday to the question of whether to keep an organization of political amateurs who helped him win the election. The future of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee came up for decision amid indications that the general plans to call on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to serve from time to time as a troubleshooter for the new Republican administration.

Tar Heels End Losing Streak Against Birds

Flo Worrell Star Of Hard Fought Seesaw Contest

By Tom Peacock DAILY TAR HEEL, Sports Editor COLUMBIA STADIUM, COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 15.—The University of North Carolina football team unleashed an offense that had been missing all season to whip South Carolina, 27-19, here today before 20,000 homecoming fans.

Flo Worrell, playing regularly for the varsity for the first time this year, scored twice to pace the Tar Heels. Freshman quarterback Marshall Newman and his substitute, Charlie Motta, kept the Gamecocks on the defensive most of the afternoon, concentrating on a fast ground game paced by Worrell and Larry Parker.

Parker scored for Carolina, and a pass from Newman to end Benny Walser accounted for the other

Tar Heel score. Tom Adler converted three times before missing on his last try.

Quarterbacks Johnny Gramling and Dick Balka ran hot and cold for South Carolina, and a determined second half Carolina defense stopped the Gamecock passing game. South Carolina's defense, ranked fourth in the nation, couldn't hold Worrell and company, and finally fell apart in the fourth quarter.

South Carolina held a 13-7 first half lead, with Gramling's passing and left half Gene Wilson's running dominating the play. Wilson scored first for the Gamecocks to put them in the lead before two minutes had passed. South Carolina's other scores came on a Gramling to end Clyde Bennett pass and a one inch lineback by fullback Bill Wohrman.

The Tar Heels came back in the second half to score in the first minute, and take a 14-13 lead that they never relinquished. South Carolina could score only once more, and never moved the ball on a sustained drive after the second quarter.

South Carolina stunned the Tar Heels by recovering a fumble by Carolina fullback Bull Davidson on the second play of the game and going on to score in two quick plays.

Davidson cracked to the North Carolina 37 and fumbled. Gamecock co-captain John Latorre recovering for South Carolina. Quarterback Johnny Gramling faded from there and hit Clyde Bennett on the Carolina 7. Gramling then handed off to left half Gene Wilson who raced around right end to the end zone.

Dick Kokornick blocked Jim Jarrett's conversion attempt, and South Carolina jumped into a 6-0 lead with 1:35 gone in the first quarter.

The Tar Heels came roaring back with a sustained drive that pierced the vaunted Gamecock defense to the 11 before petering out. Quarterback Marshall Newman (See CAROLINA, page 3)
