Back Up Just A Minute

Reasons To Give Thanks Are More Than We Think

By Charlie Haskett

It would take less than the 10 fingers on your hands to count the few millions of Americans that observe Thanksgiving as the holiday it is.

America has learned to look forward to Thanksgiving as merely one of the long week-end holidays. To many the Day of Thanks means time out for the big parties, a hunting or fishing spree or just an extra 24 hours to lounge around the house and take it easy.

The founders of "Lounge Day" sound off. "What have we got to be so thankful for?" "Inflation has all but roped us up by the neck. We're sending our boys to Korea to be shot up for the rest of the world. We've got millions of destitutes right here in America. But does the government look after them? Hell no. They take up collections for everybody else's country in the form of taxes on us. Surely we have something to be thankful for, but what is it?"

Back up a minute, Mr. Lounger and take inventory. True, you are taxed, but you are still financially better off than any generation in the American history.

You have a roof over your head, whether it's paid for or not. A dollar to a doughnut you can not remember the day when you have not had at least a half-full stomach. It has been a long time since you had to face Mother Nature naked.

It's also true that our boys are in the far corners of the world fighting to keep the Comies from spreading. But that puts a bad taste in your mouth, doesn't it? You had rather have our boys home and let the Reds run over the other countries.

"What should that matter to me? They are over there and we are over here. We have no business fighting their wars."

But what after the Reds take the Eastern half of the globe? It's a pretty sure bet they won't stop there. America would stand a much better chance of being their next stopping point than Mars.

Remember what the Pilgrims came over for? Freedom of religion. We still have that cherished liberty to worship God in whatever description we wish. We have the finest form of government in the world. We have more natural resources than you can shake a stick at. We have unlimited opportunities in the fields of education, health, politics and you take it from there.

Still you have so little to be thankful for. Would you trade places with a Communist dictated Russia? Would you swap with the undernourished Chinaman? Would you exchange places with the homeless Korean?

Do yourself a favor tomorrow. Forget the hunting trip or the bridge game and take a time-out to attend church. Thank the Good Lord for your so-called "few blessings."

KNEELING BEFORE THE crucifix of his God, this battle clad Marine takes time out during the vicious fighting near Bunker Hill and little Siberia to offer thankful prayer. He is one of the many thousands of Leathernecks who will spend Thanksgiving 1952 in the bitter cold of Korea. He is Marine Cpl. John B. Cordova, Houston, Tex.—NEA Telephoto.

Germans Having Big Thanksgiving

It's a long, full-scheduled Thanksgiving weekend that is in store for Carolina's six German students, with the itinerary including Princeton, Washington and New York City.

The Germans, all from the University of Goettingen, are Dr. Fritz Hartmann, Hans Lambers, Eberhard Kindiger, Martha Snafer, Otto Vehrenkamp and Helmuth Deicher. They are being escorted on the lengthy tour by Assistant Dean of Students Roy Holsten and Ray Jeffries, also of the Dean of Students' office.

The entourage left Chapel Hill in two cars yesterday morning at 11.

Opportunities in Optometry

Optometry is a profession offering special advantages to ambitious young men and women. Its scope is constantly expanding. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision. There is a shortage of optometrists in many States.

The Doctor of Optometry possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders an essential service to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice.

U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

The Doctor of Optometry degree can be earned in three college years by a student having sixty or more semester hours of Liberal Arts credits. Such students will be admitted at mid-year by Chicago College of Optometry. Chicago College of Optometry is centrally located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is nationally accredited and is splendidly equipped. Clinical facilities are unsurpassed.
