25 Percent Cut May Be Set Aside Here For Athletic Grants-In-Aid

Final Action Slated 'Soon' On New Policy

By Rolfe Neill
Campus store profits—probably 25 percent—will be turned into athletic scholarships if a plan under consideration goes through, it was revealed yesterday.

By Trustee order the profits must go for student scholarships, with the "nature, number and financial value" to be decided by the administration. Under the reported plan then, athletics would get $10,000 of this year's estimated $40,000 profit.

The plan to specify a certain amount for athletes, if passed by the special committee, then would go to Chancellor Robert House for his approval. From House it would go to Consolidated President Gordon Gray's desk.

The special committee was appointed by Chancellor House to devise a plan to distribute the funds. On the committee are Dean D. D. Carroll of the Business Administration School, O. K. Cornwell, director of physical education, and Claude Teague, University business manager. Student body President Ham Horton and several other students sat in on the committee's meeting Wednesday.

Whether or not to allot an amount to athletes will be definitely decided by the committee in a meeting "soon," according to Dean Carroll. The committee's plan then would start on its round for approval.

At present, practically all of the University's athletic scholarships are awarded by the Educational Foundation through the UNC Scholarship Committee. Money for these scholarships is subscribed by alumni who are members of the Educational Foundation.

Here's the chronological battle over athletic scholarships:

Feb. 29, 1952: Following a recommendation of W. D. Carmichael Jr., controller, the Board of Trustees appointed a committee of seven to investigate the student stores on the three campuses of the Consolidated University.

The situation prompting Carmichael's suggestion occurred when the Technician, N. C. State student newspaper, published stories showing that a large percentage of the campus store profits were going solely to scholarships for athletes. Shortly afterward, Carmichael was quoted by The Daily Tar Heel as saying, "My hope is that whatever profits made by the stores be devoted to scholarships for all students in need of financial aid. Athletes shouldn't get preferential treatment, but there should be more scholarships for everyone."

April, 18-19: The seven-member committee, headed by Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, conducted hearings at State Woman's College and Chapel Hill. At Chapel Hill two student factions were heard by the committee. One group wanted the book store profits to go to the Student Legislature to disburse as it saw fit. The other group asked that the funds go toward a student union or outfitting additional dormitory social rooms. The committee asked if it would suit for the profits to go entirely toward scholarships. Both factions agreed.

May 6: The investigative committee, after its three campus hearings, met with the president, vice-president, chancellors and business managers of all three institutions before drafting the final report to the Trustees. "All of the officials of (See NEW POLICY, page 4)

PARTY'S PARTY

Student Party members will have a party Monday night at 6:30 on the 2nd floor of Watts Grill. Dinner, consisting of fried chicken a la carte and costing $1.25, will be served. Dancing is also on the politicians' party agenda.

Transportation from Graham Memorial will be available between 6 and 6:15. The attire is informal.

Horton Asks For NSA Vote

Vice-President Logan Wilson Bound For Texas Presidency

Logan Wilson, academic vice-president and provost of the University, leaves that position Saturday to become president of the University of Texas at Austin.

Dr. Wilson yesterday had kind words to say about the university he has served since May, 1951, and about its president, Gordon Gray. "The University has a great future under Gordon Gray. He has set up the most ambitious development plans the University has ever had. If these plans are carried through by persons of responsibility, he will then be able to devote more attention to the internal affairs of the University," Dr. Wilson said.

DR. LOGAN WILSON

Continuing, he said, "I have deep regrets in leaving Chapel Hill. I have enjoyed my associations here, my congenial working relationship with Mr. Gray, Mr. Carmichael, and many others. My University experience will be invaluable to me at Texas. In fact, I'm not sure whether the University should have paid me or allowed me to pay it."

Educational TV Study To Be Made In States

University students may at some future date be looking at television for educational as well as entertainment purposes.

A bill has been passed in the General Assembly clearing the way for a state commission to study the role of television in North Carolina public education.

The bill notes that the Federal Communications Commission has allowed the state eight TV channels to be reserved until June 2 solely for non-commercial educational use. The act gives Governor Umstead power to have a 12-member commission study what use should be made of these channels in education. The University has been allotted a channel.

The bill apparently contemplates control of these channels by the state, probably through the Department of Public Instruction, for use as a supplement to the teaching program. It notes that the General Assembly "is aware of the complex problems which would be posed by State control and operation of a basic means of communication."

In addition to deciding what use may be made of the eight channels, the bill assigns the commission the task of "devising a scheme for financing any arrangements." The bill carries an appropriation of $5,000 to finance the committee's study.

In his inaugural, Governor Umstead called for a "thorough investigation of TV possibilities to the end that we may avoid, if possible becoming involved in an unwise venture."

Educational TV already is under examination at the University. Last fall several instructional films for TV presentation were made under the supervision of the Department of Radio.

The extremely high cost of television production is likely to prevent any educational TV station or network financed by the State for some time to come, observers say.

Requests End Of Rebates To Yack Staffers

By Louis Kraar
Glib-tongued Ham Horton, president of the student body, had a long list of suggestions last night for student lawmakers at their first session in Phi Hall. Following a short evaluation of his administration, he urged the following steps:

1. Referendum on the question of the National Student Association to remove "once and for all" this "political football" from politics.

2. Appointment of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Body to the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, which controls all activities of the student union.

3. "Appropriate" legislation to be carried out to forbid staffers of the Yack to accept rebates from publishers which are received for meeting datelines, and to put these funds back into the Yack budget.

Horton admitted "many informed students" felt that the Student Entertainment program should be put on a subscription basis. He appointed a "special executive committee to study the feasibility of a voluntary system."

Strongly censuring the recent move to give one-fourth of the Book Exchange's profits to athletic scholarships, Horton declared tersely, "I am certainly not opposed to giving these scholarships to athletics as long as they qualify in academic ability and financial need like any other student."

Ken Barton (SP), regional NSA president, curtly commented on Horton's attitude towards NSA saying, "I was not aware that NSA was a political football on the Carolina campus."

He added, "I hope that President Horton will make his position clear and submit to me a full report on NSA's status."

The Student Party's candidates for Legislature officers were, for the most part, victorious. However, legislators did not vote strictly along party lines. The consensus among most legislators was that the session was an excellent start to closer cooperation between parties.

Horton also suggested revision of the method of selecting head cheerleader. He outlined a plan of selection by a bi-partisan committee that would consist of members of both political parties, the retiring head cheerleader and representatives of the University and Monogram clubs.

TRAIN GOES WILD IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — A runaway passenger train crashed through a barrier into Union Station here yesterday. At least 49 patients were rushed to the hospital, but no one was reported killed. There was no immediate explanation as to why the brakes apparently failed as the train approached the station. The train demolished the station master's office and smashed a newsstand in the center of the concourse, and area separating the tracks from the main waiting room.

STEP-INS STEPPED OUT

Panty raids are here again. It seems Carolina gentlemen aren't raiding the dorms for their loot this time, but are taking them from sorority clotheslines. Nine pieces of dainty undies disappeared from the Alpha Gamma Delta clothesline this week.

Man Becomes Cockroach: Film Tonight

"Metamorphosis," the first in a series of five art films sponsored by the Student Union Board, will be shown at 8:30 tonight in Gerard Hall.

Admission cards for the five films cost $1.50 with single tickets not being sold. Cards may be purchased tonight at the door.

"Metamorphosis," produced at the University of Michigan by an unsponsored group on campus, is based on Franz Kafka's tale of a man who turns into a five-foot cockroach. It represents the initial attempt to adapt Kafka to a feature production in this country on either professional or amateur level.

This film is recognized as a pioneering effort to incorporate all the features of the 35 mm. films into the 16 mm. film productions. Edmund Wilson has called the film "the realistic nightmare of Kafka."

THREE GUILTY

Three students appeared in Recorder's Court this week before Judge William Stewart. Twenty-one cases were heard in all.

Louie Elario Bonardi, 17, sophomore from Durham answered a charge of speeding. Bonardi pleaded guilty to driving at 55 mph in a 35 mph zone and was fined $15 and costs.

A third year dental student from Denton was fined $25 and costs for driving with an expired operator's license. He is Allen L. Stoddard. Judge Stewart remitted $15 of the fine.

Fined for public drunkenness was Marion Kelley, 35, graduate student from Atlanta. Kelley paid $5 and costs.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — Two former U. S. Army men, Otto Verber and Kurt L. Ponger, both of New York City, were accused of spying for Russia yesterday in a plot linked to the Soviet Embassy here. Atty. Gen. McGranery announced that the two were arrested in Vienna, Austria, yesterday. The State Department also announced that it had Russia recall Yuri V. Novikov, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy, because he has "engaged in activities incompatible with his status as an accredited diplomatic official."

WASHINGTON — The Republican 83rd Congress showed a strong disposition yesterday to file and forget president Truman's last economic report. Most Republicans in Congress treated the report as a "lame duck" document and ignored it. The few who read the President's message were inclined to shrug it off. "The new Republican administration can ably and fully cope with economic matters without Mr. Truman's conclusions which have been wrong so often," commented Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) of the House Rules Committee.

RALEIGH — A bill introduced in the Legislature by Rep. W. B. Rodman of Beaufort and several other House members will revamp the State Paroles Commission if passed. Gov. Umstead said in his inaugural address that the number of prisoners "has grown to the point where it is impossible for one commissioner to conduct the affairs of the parole office." Under the provisions of the bill up for consideration the present single parole commissioner would be replaced by a three-member Board of Paroles.
